

Our great difficulty is that we cannot do much which requires outlay. We just manage to pay our way and that is all we can do. I think all women's societies are hampered in the same way ; and for that reason we cannot do as much educational work as we would like. However, if we could help in disseminating any of your literature or have our speakers speak on subjects connected with the work of this Commission we should be very glad to do so.

I am very grateful to you, sir, for allowing me to speak to the Commission.
