PRIL 26, 1902.

most effective setting. who is studying in t finished a sonata for lin which will be sure eat stride forward in it as a significant com-from such a critic as the esteem and the the musical world for rishman will probably a year or at the most e is at work now on which he wants to fin-eturning to America. name made and his he musical world se g composer can well a time on his lau. e Courrier-Journal.

						۰.
AN				-
PISCOPAL
INISTER
JOINS
THE						+
HUROH,
 - - - - - - -		+	+	-	•	**

ohn B. Ewing, of Phiia, a well known minthe Protestant Epis-Church, has been into the Catholic ving's pastoral duties ormed chiefly in the nont, but at one time ent in the affairs of Philadelphia. Although ecy was observed connge of faith. few of w until last week that I his pastorate in Verber, since which time preparing himself for f his new faith.

man.

want?"

as received into the h several weeks ago, is profession of faith Church, Thirteenth and s. When asked about n of the Episcopal ng admitted its truth, could see nothing res adopting the Cathosaid that his conver-olicism had resulted ears of zealous study. d made no effort to r secret.

a Philadelphian by member of a distin-I family. He was born is by no means the rings to accept the for his grandfather, was one of the most holics of Philadelphia. mother was a strict nd reared him in that vas determined, too, adopt the ministry as and prepared him ear-r a clerical career. for the ministry Mr. spectal course in the Stephen's College, , and later conti-2 gical studies y School, Middleton, ordained in 1895 by a, and in June of that ade rector of Christ iddle Haddam, Conn. n that pulpit until hen he went to St. at Woodstock, Vt. ing came to Phila er, after his renunciaiscopal faith, he gave e to the study of the option. He was re Catholic Church by Fisher. Soon afterved private confirmaathedral from Arch-presently, it was my lot to wit- dren want practice, except the girl, times, had we cast ourselves at the she acted her part quite prettily. Pope's feet, and retained the fable of "We will make as if we had not the mass. As it is, not only are the ess a scene, which will ever remain mess a scene, which will over remain impressed on my memory. Lady Tre-gian was announced, and the Groom cake." Then completely changing Papists incessantly plotting against her tone, she addressed Lady Treof the Chambers ushered in a gentle gian, who had risen to her feet, in-Yoman of distinguished appearance dignant at the scorn with which she gan to speak of the situation of af-was treated. "My lady," she said, fairs in the Low Countries, and indressed in black, still young, bu and worn with grief. She led 'We will make as if we han not by the hand two little boys, and a heard the heavy charges which you girl, wearing a white frock, held on o the skirt of her gown. On hear Courts and administration of Jus- did in his royal mistress' favor. I ing the name of Tregian, an angry tice; there would otherwise be ample did not scruple to say that his rown contracted Elizabeth's brow ground for committing you to the achievements had disappointed the exthis the lady appeared not to notice Tower. Have the goodness to an- pectations formed of him; but the at any rate she did not heed it, so swer one question : Is it not true fortunes of war did not always corbent was she on making her plaint that you and your husband are stub- respond to the qualities and talents or her petition heard. Throwing her born Papists? That you have refused self at the Queen's feet, with her to attend divine worship as by law lents!" she broke out. Dudley is an children, she addressed her, at first with a trembling voice, but afterestablished? That you will not acknowledge us as the legitimate and wards with the courage of despair, supreme Head of the Church of Eng- you might fancy him a great conomewhat in this wise :

and? Yes, or no?" "Since Your Majesty wields su Lady Tregian answered calmly : preme power in this land, and is the 'Certainly, Your Majesty, we are arthly representative of the Divine true children of the ancient Faith. Majesty, your subjects may claim In all civil matters you have every your protection and help in this disclaim on our obedience; but we can ress. I venture therefore to approach in my hour of trouble, and to implore for God's save a gracious hearing on tehalf of my unfortunat husband, who has languished in prison for many years, and on behalf of these innocent children." her rage.

Elizabeth interrupted her impa tiently. "If we were to listen to the ossip of all the women in the kingdom," she said, "little time would be left for the weighty affairs of the State that engross our attention. Make your story short, good wo-Who are you? What do you

A flush overspread the countenanc of the suppliant, betraying the vexa tion aroused by this unkindly rebuff. Quickly mastering her emotion, she continued, with the utmost composure of manner : "I am the unhapwho is distantly related to the Royal House of Tudor. We lived in peace and comfort at our Castle ery. Licutenant of the Guard, connear Launceston in Cornwall, until duct this woman and her children to on the testimony of a perjured villain, a wandering musician, bribed from thence. Under no circumby our enemies to work our ruin, my husband was accused of harboring a again." and under the Statute Praemunire children to her side, made a deep forty witnesses having alleged the accusation to be false-would be reconfidently awaited my T hosen dren, they turned us out in the dark ory.

never, we will never recognize in you a triumphal entry into the Tower ! the successor of St. Peter to whom The support of the evangelical cause Christ said : "Thou art the rock, in the Netherlands has already cost in the Netherlands has already cost upon which I will build my Church!" us a mint of money; and it has The Queen could no longer control struck me that the best way would "That is quite enough !" te simply to surrtnder to the King she exclaimed. "Begone, insolent woof Spain the four seaports which man, and beware how you venture were conceded to me by the treaty to again to intrude your hateful per-bold as a security, on condition that he should refund us our war expenses, and do with the insurgents soul of King Henry, we are tempted to forget our characteristic gentleas seems right to his conscience and ness and make such an example of you and your children that not only his honor as a king.) That would be the surest means of concluding a all England, but all Europe shall talk of it. The sentence of the permanent peace with Philip II, and once for all delivering our subjects Court will remain valid; your lord from the apprehension of a Spanish will not be set at liberty until he invasion, which every year appears acknowledges us to be Supreme Head more alarming. What is your opinof the English Church, and attends ion?" divine service as we have ordained. I was quite aghast at such a pro-

As for you, you and your brats can position, for it was nothing short of a shameful desertion of our allies. Yet I was enough of a courtier to mask the indignation it within me, and reply that I was but the park gates, and send them away an inexperienced youth, and could not venture to put forward my opinstances are they ever to be admitted ions in the presence of so wise and enlightened a monarch. The boldness Lady Tregian drew the weeping of the scheme took away my breath chattels and imprisonment for life. I from the audience chamber, saying was then expecting the birth of my as she went, "May Your Majesty find fourth child, and doubting not that more mercy before the throne of so unjust a sentence-no less than God than you have shown to us!"

CHAPTER XVI.-It is useless to commit to writing the abusive langband's return. But instead of this, uage in which Elizabeth continued to late one night some officers of the give vent to her anger after the per-law presented themselves at our sons who had provoked it had withand took possession, in virtue drawn. The whole scene affected me of the sentence, of all our property. most disagreeably, the more so be-Penetrating into the bed chamber, cause Mary Stuart's charity towards whither I had retired with the chil- the poor was yet fresh in my mem-

and cold to take shelter in a barn | Presently the Queen rose, and was until daybreak. I then resolved to conducted by Lord Burghley into her seek justice at the hands of Your private cabinet, whither I was short-Majesty, as the divinely appointed ley summoned. I found her seated Majesty, as the divinely appointed ley summoned. I found net awas a might have fancied that the dying protector of the oppressed. We, the at a writing table, on which was a injustice of which she was guilty to-wife and children of Lord Tregian, pile of papers, occupied in tracing wards that unhappy lady, suddenly begged our bread from village to the large letters with flourishes formvillage, from town to town, across ing her well-known signature. For a England, all the long weary way long time I remained standing unno-woman?" she inquired. "If my sub-nue of oaks to the river side. The from Cornwall to London. Our jour-ticed at the door, so that I had the opportunity of observing the subject by was born; but no sooner could I of the Gobelin tapestry on the walls, drag my limbs onward than we and the sumptuous furniture of the started anew to throw ourselves on apartment. The tapestry represented your compassion. Behold us now at the finding of the infant Moses by Your Majesty's feet! speak, my chil- Pharao's daughter; an inscription dren, and say what I have taught upon a scroll explaining that as Pharao's daughter saved Moses from voul death, so Elizabeth, the daughter of Francis, the eldest boy, was about to speak; he looked up at the Queen the heavenly King, had rescued the pure Gospel from the destruction and the words died on his lips, 'so wherewith the Pope, the Pharao of forbidding was the aspect of that royal lady. "She is angry, moheathen Egypt, had threatened it. At leangth the Queen looked up, her," he whispered. His little brother began to whimper; the little laid aside the swan-quill in her hand, and beckoned to me not unkindly to approach. At three paces distant girl alone had the courage to repeat he formula she had been told to utfrom her feet I knelt down; but she er: "Please set father free. Let us the boly Mother of God for Your take my seat upon a low stool. She take my seat upon a low stool. She Majesty every day." addressed a great many questions to For a moment I thought that the me about Paris, about the King and Queen's heart, would be melted, and the Queen Mother, and I told her as many Court scandals as I could reher better nature prevail. I was member out of the number that are mistaken. With bitter, cynical laugh she turned to the Lord Chamalways rife in the French Court. She terlain, whose office it was to prelistened with a malicious pleasure; pare the list of petitioners to be givthen she asked about the Guise, and what prospect there was en her, and said : "I thank you so for Henry of Navarre. I replied that he was almost certain of the crown, much, my lord, for this charming little performance. The lady's geswith advantage play the part of He-would give up the reformed religion cuba at the Globe theatre. She arti-culates well, also, only at times her manner is rather labored. The chil-age. We might have had peaceful ceive, she exclaimed, that this was

THE TRUE WITNESS AND CATHOLIC CHRONICLE.

us, but the Puritans also make our life a burden to us." She then bequired what was thought of Leicesof great generals. "Qualities and ta-idle boaster, a miles gloriosus, and nothing more! To hear him talk queror, but he is a fool compared with Parma. And now, contrary to our express command, he has arrog-

General of the States. I have a good mind to recall him, and let him make aroused

to

ated to himself the title of Governor-the way the viper wormed herself into the affections of the poor and the peasantry? That very day a messenger should be sent to Sir Amias put a stop to this almsgiving, to and order him to allow his prisoner no intercourse with the people. Thus I was the involuntary means, for which may God forgive me, of causing an order to be issued that added another to the many sorrows of the unhappy captive. When Elizabeth's rage had subsidshe turned to another subject, beginning to speak to me about Lord Burghley's daughter. I felt very much embarrassed, as I did not know what she was driving at. She remarked my confusion, and was amused "at it: she told me I was a naughty fellow, for a little bird had long since whispered to her that I was in love with the beautiful, cle ver and rich, very rich. Miss Cecil, and she admired my taste. Burghley, she said had taken care to feather ter at Paris. As I knew that he no his own nest well with the spoils of have dared to bring against our Law longer stood as high as he formerly the Egyptians. And she thought she could assure me that of all the fortune hunters who paid court to the heiress, none was more favorably regarded than myself. She did not grudge me the preference shown me, for she considered I gave promise of great abilities, which would be of service to the State; and then the Queen proceeded to say "" "The interest I take in the young Iady, as well as in you, Mr. St. Barbe, makes me desirous to say a word to you. Miss Judith thinks a great deal too much; her mind runs upon religious questions; I even have reason to susect that she is not so firm an Evangelical as one could wish, and hankers after the flesh-pots of Egypt, the old Popish leaven. On that account am desirous you should come to Richmond. Do you talk to her on the subject, I will see that you have an opportunity this evening. She has confidence in you, and will speak much more openly to you than her father. He has changed his creed too often, as the exigencies of the times demanded, for her to have much respect for his religious convictions. She corresponded with you about the vexed question of predestination; I read your answers, they did you great credit. I need not add hat her perversion to Popery would forfeit all my favor, and involve the loss of all her property. So do what you can to discover what the girl really thinks, and if necessary, set her right." Thereupon I was graciously dismissed from the royal presence. The audience had been of so unusual a length, that when I entered the ante-chamber, where Sir Walter Raleigh was waiting, that gentleman did not look at me in a very amiable manner, and several of the courtiers beto predict that Walsingham's gan hephew was the rising star, that is, the new favorite.

In the afternoon the sweet Spring weather tempted the Queen to walk abroad in the park, where the younger members of the Court were to en-gage in various sports. At a spot somewhat higher up the river the royal barges were in attendance; to. convey the whole company back to Richmond. The park, in the freshness of its early verdure, presented a gay scene, as the ladies and gentlemen, all splendidly attired, moved about the Queen, like butterflies, as a beauteous rose. I endeavored to engage Miss Cecil in conversation, but I was unable to do so on account of the number of other aspi-rants after her favor. When the sun got low, Elizabeth, who had watched the games from a tent, rose, and tery," my companion rejoined some- gold of the Gospel. what ungraciously. "But I thought She replied that the most incom-you knew me better than to address prehensible thing of all to her was these empty compliments to me."

displeasure this morning," I resumble of the second tions. self, and only made use of them in cient, omnipotent and all-wise? deference of my uncle's wishes, and because I thought they were expect- I would lay down my life for it." ed of me. You may be assured I have no intention to flatter you; on did this all-wise, this almighty, this openly; so I begin by telling you that the errand on which our Sovereign has sent us was only a pretext to give me an opportunity of conterruption."

Miss Judith stood still and looked at me in bewilderred surprise. "What could the Queen mean by that?" she inquired.

"I will tell you," I answered, as we sauntered along side by side under the spreading trees. "Her Majesty imagines herself to have discovered that the doctrines of the Gospel no longer satisfy your heart, and that you have a leaning towards the old Popish cread; not that I believe this for a moment. She took it into her head that I ought to ask you about this, and warn you of the peril to which you would expose your soul's salvation, for she credited me with possessing some influence over you, my dear young lady.' Miss Judith walked a few steps without speaking, then she responded : "What if it really were so? What if my heart and my reason alike revolted from the vague, often contradictory teaching of the Reformers ? Supposing I really did feel drawn to the ancient faith our forefathers held, what would the Queen have you say to me then?"

I was not a little alarmed at this speech, and hastened to reply: " Of my own accord I should make every endeavor to expose the snares of the devil, the fallacious arguments, that is, wherewith he who was a liar from the beginning sceks to entrap simple souls and draw them into error. I should beg you on my knees to think of the interests of your soul, and also of the temporal consequences which would result from your apos-tasy. Furthermore, I should represent to you the grief that such an act on your part would cause your father, and to all who love and care for you, amongst whom I pray I may be reckoned. Finally, I should warn you, as the Queen authorized me to do, that you should incur her most serious displeasure, and among other serious penalties that of being completely diinherited."

"I am much obliged to you, Mr St. Barbe, for your frankness in thus warning me of what I might expect from Her Majesty, as well as for your own kind, and I am sure, well meant admonitions. As I regard you as a real friend, I too will an swer you in all sincerity. First of all, know you will admit that no worldly considerations ought to hav any weight with me, were I really convinced of the truth of the Catholic religion. The martyrs did not shrink from far worse consequences they endured the most cruel torture and death itself rather than abjure the true faith or remain in what some one remarked, hovering about they knew to be error. Therefore no fear of temporal disadvantages, hard as I might find them to bear, ought to deter me from searching after the truth; for resistance to the known truth would be the sin against the Holy Ghost, wherewith St. Stephen wards that unhappy lady, suddenly the games from a tent, rose, and reproached the Jewish Sauhedrin. appeared before her in its true col- taking the arm of the Earl of Es- You allow that, do you not?" I was compelled to own that I did. "Very well." Miss Cecil continued. The 'then let there be no more mention between us of the consequences, as I am well aware of them. The tion to be decided is whether the old or the new religion is the Church founded by Jesus Christ. On this point I confess my mind is not at rest. But the more I think it over, the more I pray about it, the less can I believe in the Church established by Parliament and our Queen." She then with her keen, quick intelligence sketched the origin of the Anglican Church under Henry VIII., and its history up to that day, emphasizing the cause which in duced Elizabeth's father to separate from the universal Church, and Eliz siabeth herself to repudiate that same Church to which she had belonged under Mary, the Catholic. In Henry's case it was the desire for a woman whom later on he caused to be beheaded for adultery; in Elizabeth's her birth and her right the desire to have the legitimacy of

ing your sojourn in Paris you have of some time for enlightened men to become an adept in the art of flat- | purge away the dross from the pure that at any time in Christendom the "I was afraid I had incurred your teaching of Jesus Christ should have I was ashamed of them my Jesus Christ was true God, omnis-

"Most assuredly," I replied, "and the contrary, I mean to speak quite true God say when He sent out His apostles, commanding them to proclaim His doctrines? You know the passage at the close of St. Mathew's gospel: 'All power is given to me in versing with you without fear of in- heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, teach ye all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you ; and bahold, I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world!" What does that mean, if not that I, the Lord of Heaven and of Earth, promise that my divine assistance shall never be wanting to you and to your successors in teaching the truths I brought down from Heaven, and in dispensing the means of grace? In St. Mark's gospel he adds these words : 'He that believeth not shall be condemned;' and in another place, He promises Peter that the gates of hell shall not prevail against His Church. I ask you now how this can be explained, if those who as the successors of Jesus Christ are invested with authority to teach, have for at least the last thousand years deceived the whole of Christendom on the most important points; leading them into fatal errors and degrading idolatry; as for instance, concerning the Holy Mass, and the Real Presence of our Lord in the most holy sacrament of the altar? How, were this the case, could it be true that this Divine Teacher is with His Church all days? Can it be supposed that he would compel mankind to accept a lie under pain of eternal damnation? Or have the gates of hell for the last thousand years prevailed against the teaching of Christ? No, Mr. St. I see no other alternative Barbe, than, either to acknowledge that the Ancient Church has on no essential article of faith departed from the truth-and if so, I must receive her doctrines-or, to assert that she has departed from the truth, and then the word of Christ and His solemn assurance are proved worthless. In other words, Jesus Christ is not true God, He is deceived or a deceiver, and if we say this, the whole fabric of Christianity crumbles at a touch. I beg and implore you to help me out of this terrible alternative, for I can perceive no third course to adopt.

(To be continued.)

SMOTHER A COUGH.

Press your hand hard enough over your mouth and you can smother a cough but you can't cure it that way The outside is the wrong end to work on.

Scott's Emulsion thoroughly cures coughs because it strikes at the root of the trouble. The throat and lungs need a regular system of education to cure an old cough.

The point of value about Scott's Emulsion and coughs is that, while Scott's Emulsion does soothe the raw throat and lungs, it also nourishes and heals the inflamed areas.

an eloquent pulpit s considered by his hurch to be one of the g young members of he East. He will rephia permanently and to the work of the experience in connee liquidation of Private Estates. Auditing aring Annual Reports s, and public corpora-7. PHONE 1182 been a thorn in my side, how often the thought of her has cost me my night's sleep, some honest evangelic would have rid me of her, as al Phineas removed the scandal from among the children of Israel. But all time she pretends love and at the moment of pushing off from the friendship for ourselves, calls us her 'dear sister,' sends diamond rings, while she is weaving one plot after us, and would another against strangle us with her own hands if she could. Did you see her? How is All the gentlemen on board offered looking? and what is she doshe ing?'

and Liquidator. MES STREET.

ontreal..

my only fear was that the abandon-ment of our Protestant brethren would bring us into ill odor with the partisans of the Reformation. Besides it seemed rather hazardous to have the Spaniards for such near neigh-But doubtless this and other considerations had been duly weighed long since by Her Majesty

Feeling myself on dangerous ground, for the sake of changing the conversation, I remarked that in accordvisted Chartley a few days ago, ance with uncle's commands, I had

see whether the orders of the Privy Council in regard to their distinguished prisoner were fully carried out. At the mention of Mary Stuart.

Elizabeth started as if she had been shot; her countenance twitched; one might have fancied that the crying bors.

I depicted the Queen of Scots con dition.the unhealthy pallor of her complexion, her gray hair, her fee-ble walk, and said Sir Amlas Paulet was of opinion that besides the rheu. matism from which she suffered, she had a great tendency to dropsy Elizabeth would not believe this, she said the woman was an arrant hypocrite, and we must not for God's sake allow ourselves to be deceived by her, for if she were once at liber Duke of ty, she would soon send her stick flying, and run about nimbly. When I told the Queen how I had seen her in the courtyard amidst the beggars, jects only knew how long she has ladies and gentlemen in waiting and all the courtiers followed her.

On enterint the barge, the Queen designated by name those of her suite who were to have the honor of remaining near her person. Miss Cecil was one, and I was another. Just the bank, Elizabeth missed a kerchief that she had worn around her neck. Supposing it to have been left in the tent, she requested Judith Cecil to go back and fetch it. to accompany her, but the Queen singled me out as her escort.

As long as we could be seen from the river. we walked along in lence. But looking round, we came aware that the royal barge. together with the other boats, had put off, and were already under way. "There now!" exclaimed Miss Judith, "the Queen might have waited a few moments for us! Now we shall have to walk back alone all the way through the park!'

"Miss Cecil," I replied, "I am delighted at the prospect of this walk through the quiet woods and meadows in your charming company. I would give up the honor of a place that time Parliament made some change almost every year gion, and the people In answer to this I urged that the any desired flavoring. Pour this cusmost contradictory tenets. Rome which had overlaid the truth fore sending to the table sprinkle of Jesus Christ with so many hu-the whole with a little chopped mac-man inventions, that it was a task aroon.

It replaces inflamed tissue with healthy tissue-the only real cure for an old cough.

Send for Free Sample. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,

"SNOW EGGS" is really floating island with a new name, and a different touch in the preparation which makes this old-fashioned dish of our childhood tea parties much better eating. The whites of four eggs are beaten to a stiff froth and dropped, a spoonful at a time, into a pint of throne publicly acknowledged. Since boiling milk, and kept over the range till they poach a little, but do Slip them off into a in reli- not get brown. were taught the shallow dish, thicken the milk with sweetening, and adding the yolks, of tard around the white, and just be-