FRIEND OF JESUS .- Deception, selfdeception, may be possible, but the rule is a good one-The commands are plain. and by them we can judge ourselves, By them we are compelled to estimate others. By this doing will the world form its opinions of us. And it 18 right, because it is Christ's own declarat on. Friends, if we do whatsoever He commands as enemies if we fail in the doing. The friends of Jesus thus stand out before the world. They need not to sound the trumpets, or to wear phylacteries, or to tell of their church. Besides those who do His commands, Christ has no friends in the church or out of it.

FRUITS AND FAILURE .- John Wesley was in the habit of catechising his young preachers, when they returned from a day's preaching, to find out what they had to show for their labor. The dialogue has come down to us " Any one converted ?" " No." "Any one seeking?" "No." "Any one mad?" "No." "Well, then, you need not go again." That is a short probation, but it means business. Throw a spark into a keg of gunpowder, and you expect results. Throw God's truth into a company of sinners who have assembled to hear it, and you have a right to expect results .- N. Y. Adv.

WHAT OTHERS SAT.—Every true man will bonor those who are firm in their convictions, if they are respectful and charitable in their enunciation. Only the man who is too cowardly to express his views, fearing to cross public sentiment lest he may lose favor, is hald in universal contempt, himself only excepted

WE would call attention of those of our readers who contemplate purching Seeds or Plants during the coming season, to the advertisement of Peter Henderson & Co., New York, now appearing in our columns. Peter Benderson, the senior member of the firm, is known far and wide as a horticultural writer and authority. His books, "Gardening for Profit," Practical Florieulture," and "Garcening for Pleasure," are now in the hands of thousands The Green-house establish ment of this firm covers three acres in green houses, and employs upwards of fifty hands. Millions of plante are shipned by mail or express annually to every State and Territory. Their seed ware-bouse is the most extensive in the city of New York, and every order received is certain to be filled with goods of the best quality, and as they are producers as well is dealers, every thing for the garden will e sold at low rates.

ABSTRACT EFFECTS. Kellows' Hypophosphi'es, on being introduced into the stomach, unites with the food, and immediately enters the circulation; and, being perfectl miscible with the blood, specify pervades every part of the system. Its effects are first declared by a pulse slightly increased in tuliness and strength a general exaltation of the organic functions, and exhibaration of the intellectual powers. Its specific influence is on the brain and pervous substance increasing the activity of the absorbents, and renewing the blood, thus causing the healthy muscular formation so here-sary in restoring the functions of the previously weakened organs. Being then, a tonic of the nervous and circulatory system, it follows that, when there is a demand for ext-a rdinary exertion, its use is invaluable, since it supplies the waste through the circulation, and sustains the general system.
