MAYOR COWAN AND THE SCHOOL-TRUSTEES IN JULIUS CAESAR

Cassius—Cowan.

When Caesar liv'd, he durst not thus have moved me.

Brutus—School Trustees — Peace, peace; you durst not so have tempted him.

Cassius—Cowan—I durst not?

Brutus—Trustees. No.

Cassius—Cowan. What! durst not tempt him?

Brutus—Trustees. For your life you durst not.

Cassius—Cowan. Do not presume too much upon my love.

Brutus—Trustees.

You have done that you should be sorry for.

There is no terror, Cassius—Cowan in your threats;

For we are armed so strong in honesty,

That they pass by us, as the idle wind,

Which we respect not. . . . .

By our hands, we had rather coin our hearts,

And drop our blood for drachmas,

Than to wring from the hard hands of citizens their vile trash,

By any indirection. . . . .

Should we have answered Cassius—Cowan so?

When the Brutus—Trustees grow so covetous,

To look such rascal counters from their friends,

Be ready, gods, with all your thunder bolts,

Dash them to pieces.

Cassius—Cowan. I did not think you could have been so angry.

Brutus—Trustees.

Sheath your dagger,

Be angry when you will, it shall have scope:

Do what you will, dishonor shall be yours.

A, Cassius—Cowan, you are yoked with lambs.

That carry anger, as the flint bears fire;

Who much enforced, shews a hasty spirit.

And straight is cold again.

Cassius—Cowan, hath Cassius lived To be but mirth and laughter to his Brutus—Trustees,

On your tin-type Exeunt Omnes.

Note—The last line is a brazen attempt to add to and improve the original.

Julius Caesar, Act 4, Scene 3—Adapted for The Planet by ex-Ald. G. G. Martin.

FREE SHOW ON MARKET SQUARE

The Quaker Herbs, which are sold on the market square nightly, are proving to be one of the best medicines ever sold in the city. The prices are simply marvellous. It is sold on trial, and the company commence their entertainment to-night at 8 o'clock, this being their second week here. All through the audience, Saturday night, you could hear people saying what it had done for them or theirs. If you suffer from liver, stomach or kidney trouble it is a specific. No pain in your body after it is used three days. For weakness, it is a positive cure. Be sure and give it a trial. The company is a Hamilton man; and this is the last night the valuable medical book will be given away free with the Herbs. Be sure and get one; they are worth easily five dollars, as the Central Drug Store has bought largely and will have the Herbs for sale in the future.

The Victoria Ave. Green Houses have been rebuilt on a larger scale than ever, and now prepared to do business. A large stock of bulbs on hand. Special attention paid to decorative and design work. Phone 161.
