BORORO INDIANS.

How the Boys of This Brazilian

In an interesting article on the aboriginals of Brazil in the current Southern Workman the method of naming boys is thus described:

The ceremony of initiation into the rights and privileges of citizenship in the Bororo tribe is interesting. The little bronze body of the baby boy is more or less daubed with gum or pitch and plated with white feathers. Then early in the morning before the rising of the sun the family and friends and the priest or conjurer betake themselves to an eminence near the village.
And as the sun, the supreme power, sweeps majestically upward from behind the eastern wilderness the conjurer bows the lower lip of the embryo warrior with an instrument made especially for the occasion and beautifully decorated with brilliant feathers and at the same time whispers "Piadudu" (humming bird) or the name of some other animal or object that the child is to bear. "Piadudu" softly repeat the family and friends in turn, and thus Piadudu, a favorite name, becomes the name of the little one. They are very jealous of their names and will not make them known to aliens.
In order to become a citizen of the tribe a person of alien birth would have to reside with it for some time and be initiated much as the child is.

TEA A WEEK OLD.

The "Real Good Old Pot and Balls"

The tea drinkers of Australia rival those of China and Japan, not, however, in the quality, but in the quantity, consumed. The men especially drink the beverage in large quantities and all day long and at a strength which would make the cue of a tea drinking Chinaman curl. On Sunday morning the tea drinker starts with a clean pot and a clean record. The pot is hung over the fire, with a sufficiency of water in it for the day's brew, and when this is boiled he pours into it enough of the fragrant herb to produce a deep coffee colored liquid.
On Monday, without removing yesterday's tea leaves, he repeats the process.
On Tuesday the same, likewise on Wednesday, and so on through the week. Toward the close of the seven days the pot is filled with an acid mash of tea leaves, out of which the tea is squeezed by the pressure of a tin cup. By this time the tea is the color of rusty iron, incredibly bitter and disagreeable to the uneducated palate. The natives call it "real good old pot and balls" and the English obviously drawn from a stiff and dangerous jump, and regard it as having been brought to perfection.

THE ROMAN ARENAS.

They Were Not Mere Rings, as Those

The arenas of ancient Rome were not, as some people suppose, mere rings or ovals, such as may be seen in the modern circus. They were broken up and varied in character according to the nature of the fighting to be done or to the exploits of those in authority. On one occasion an arena might resemble the Numidian desert, on another the garden of Hesperides, thick set with cypresses and olive groves, while again it pictured the great rocks and caves of Thrace.
With these surroundings the combatants advanced, retreated, encircled their adversaries, dodged, dodged, and at bay as occasion offered or as their courage or fear suggested. Men combated not only with the more common brutes, but with such monsters as elephants, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses and crocodiles. On other occasions flocks of game, such as deer and war ostriches, were abandoned to the multitude, and in some cases the arenas could be turned into lakes, filled with monsters of the deep, and upon the surface of which naval engagements took place.

The Word "Jirikisha."

The word jirikisha comes from three Japanese roots, jiri-rikisha, meaning respectively man, power, carriage, but it is not of Japanese origin. So recently as 1870 the inconvenience of the slow, lumbering two wheeled carts turned the thoughts of English residents to the ease with which the hardy natives could propel a lightly constructed vehicle, and one was invented, some-say by a missionary, others by a newspaper proprietor's son. Ever since then the heavy carts have been entirely dis-pensated with.

The Japanese Idea of Bravery.

There is a time when death is much easier for a man than to fulfill his duty, and if he dies just for the sake of death he cannot execute the duty that is assigned him. True bravery is not in throwing away one's life or courting death, but in doing one's duty at the hazard of one's life. You must not forget that—"From A Daughter of Japan," by Marj Gensal.

Home Life.

"Mamma," said the little girl who was having her first experience of riding in a sleeper.
"Hush, dear," whispered mamma,
"you will wake the others."
"But, mamma, I only want to ask one question."
"Well, what is it?"
"Who has the flat above us?"

Dixie's Need Money.
Dixie—How is your artist friend getting along in New York? Tomson—Oh, splendidly! Dixie—Have you heard from him? Tomson—No; that's the reason I know he's prospering.

Progress is the activity of today and the assurance of tomorrow.—Emerson.

KINGSTON CONSOL- IDATED SCHOOL.

Visitors Inspect School and Grounds—Prizes Presented.

The visit of the legislators and educationalists to the Kingston consolidated school on Thursday was an event which will doubtless have considerable effect on the educational policy of the province. This is so, for by it many persons of more or less influence were given an opportunity of seeing something of the methods of work followed at a consolidated school and the advantages which such a school has over schools of what will probably soon be known as schools of the old type. As stated in Thursday's Globe, the party, about fifty strong, left St. John in the steamer Champlain about nine o'clock. The run to Reed's Point, two miles from the school, was made in excellent time and the visitors were taken to Kingston from the point in the school vans. The school was decorated in honor of the occasion. Some time was spent in an informal inspection of the school and grounds, after which luncheon was served on the lawn by the ladies of Kingston. After luncheon the party was shown over the grounds by Principal D. W.
Hamilton and the building itself was visited again. Here classes were conducted in the various departments. One class which received much attention from the visitors was that in domestic science. This class was in charge of Miss Besie Young, a graduate of the Massey-Treble school at the Mount Allison Ladies' College, and the methods of work proved very interesting. When some time had been spent in this inspection the pupils gathered in the assembly hall of the school where they were joined by the party from St. John and visitors from the country about the school. Dr.
Inch was chosen chairman of the meeting and on the platform with him were Lieut. Governor Snowball and members of the Government. After an opening chorus by the pupils of the school, Dr.
Inch made a brief address. Miss Ethel Thompson, on behalf of the pupils, read an address to Lieut.
Governor Snowball. In reply, His Honor thanked the students for their references to his efforts on behalf of education and urging them to increased zeal in their studies. Principal Hamilton was then called upon. On behalf of the teachers, he thanked the visitors for attendance. Hon. A. R.
McClellan was the next speaker.
He spoke of his sympathy with the consolidated school movement and the scientific mode of education now becoming more general.
A composition on the merits of a consolidated schools was read by Miss Paddington, after which Dr.
Scott announced the winners of Governor's prizes of $10 for the best historical essay on Kings County, and $25 for the best essay on the history of New Brunswick.
Miss Genevieve Dixon was awarded the prize for the County essay and D. Bruce Flewelling that for the province. Premier Tweedie then presented the essayists with the prizes, which were in gold.
Dr. Harrison announced that two other competitors in the provincial essay had come so close to Master Flewelling that Dr. Inch ask d to award to these pupils two prizes of $10 each. He then called forward Miss Lena Redstone and Miss Pauline Dixon and presented them with Dr. Inch's gifts. Miss Frances Crawford was also awarded a prize of $10 for her excellent essay. Mr. J. D. Hizen, M.P.P., then spoke and was followed by Dr. Ross, of Florenceville.

Ex-Convict Was Chief Instru-

New York, June 15.—(Special) A despatch to The Times from Tacoma says: With the assistance of Jake Terry an ex-convict, the Indianian Pacific railway has recovered securities for the $864,000 which were stolen from the sale of the Dominion Express when the Canadian Pacific overland was robbed near Mission Junction last September. The leader of the robbers is supposed to have been Will Miner, who served a term at San Quentin at the same time that Terry served a sentence for counteit. They were room mates there. Shortly after the train robbery, Terry was employed by the railroad to recover the securities. His operations were conducted from Bellingham under the name of Brown. After their release from San Quentin Terry and Miner came to Puget Sound together, but finally drifted apart.
At Bellingham, Terry said that Miner would be arrested with two other men implicated in the robbery. Through the assistance of two women, Terry met Miner somewhere on Puget Sound and negotiated for the return of the securities.

Montreal, June 16.—In the Associated Press this morning was a despatch stating that $864,000 stolen from a C. P. R. train in the Rockies last fall had been recovered through the confession of an ex-convict. Asked if this were true Sir Thomas Shaughnessy said this was the first he had heard of a C. P. R. train being robbed last fall. He stated that there had been no theft and that the story was not true in any detail.

AMENDMENTS TO PILOT- AGE ACT

Quebec Pilots to be placed Under the Control of Marine Department at Ottawa

Ottawa, June 16.—The minister of Marine's bill to amend the Pilot-age Act was given second and third readings in the House of Commons. This measure takes pilotage in the Quebec district out of the Quebec pilotage commission and turns the control over to the Marine department at Ottawa.

The Hon Mr Foster asked how conditions would be improved by taking the control of pilotage away from an independent commission and giving it to a political department.

The minister replied that two years ago the Marine Department took over the control of the pilot-age between Montreal and Quebec.
This step was taken at the instance of the shipping interests and with the consent of the pilots themselves.

Announcement was made of an offer from Dr McVey of Rotheray to equip the school with a complete apparatus for physical culture according to the Swedish system.
Dr McVey spoke briefly of the Swedish system of physical culture.
Messrs J T Hawke and R E Armstrong were heard in forceful addresses.
Interspersed with the addresses were choruses by the pupils. During the proceeding a telegram from Prof J W Robertson was read.
Prof Robertson expressed the regrets of himself and Sir W C Mc-Donald at their unavoidable absence. The programme ended, the guests hurried to the steamer, where dinner was served and the return trip begun. St John was reached early in the evening.

Just What Everybody should Do Mr J T Barber of Irwinville, Ga., of colic, cholera morbus and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine.

Mr Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by all druggists.

REASON No 17

WHY YOU SHOULD USE

Red Rose Tea

Because it is composed of both Indian and Ceylon teas.

The tea bush is indigenous to Assam in Northern India, and botanists are of the opinion that it is the parent species of all the cultivated varieties in India, Ceylon, China and elsewhere. In a wild state, it grows to a height of fifteen to twenty feet, but the cultivated shrub is only three to four feet high.
Assam being the natural home of the tea bush, it is not surprising that this and other districts in Northern India produce the richest, most pungent tea grown in the world—teas that command higher prices than even the finest Ceylons; but Ceylon teas are very fragrant and fragrant, and seem to be specially made to blend with the richer, more syrupy tea of India. When combined, the Ceylons give point and piquancy to the liquor; the Indians, richness and strength.
The distinctive characteristic of Red Rose Tea, that rich, fruity flavor, is obtained by blending these fine Indians and Ceylons; and another very important feature of Red Rose Tea, viz., its uniformity of flavor all the year round, is secured the same way, something not possible to obtain where Ceylon or Indian teas are used alone.
The Blue Label is recommended, and unless you like very strong tea, use only three-quarters as much for a drawing as you use of other teas.

The Dragon Tree.
The dragon tree (Dracaena draco), which yields the aspidochelone resin called dragon's blood, is an old settler of the Canary Islands. A veritable collossus of this family once grew in the town of Oratava, Tenerife, which was eighty feet in circumference at the base, hollow inside, with a staircase for visitors to ascend to the branching top of the trunk. Humboldt remarks that its antiquity must have been greater than that of the pyramids. This giant went down in a hurricane in 1807.

He Sold and Left.
A lawyer had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross a certain bridge leading out of the city. No whipping, no urging, would induce him to cross it, so he advertised him, "To be sold for no other reason than that the owner wants to get out of town."
