The Manifesto of Right Hon. Sir R. Bond.

Manifesto of Sir Robert Bond would, ways are completed and equipped. be published to-day. It will be found Moreover, the Premier has already by an experience of some thirty the Reids in gold instead of bonds years in the public life of Newfoundand thereby mulcting the country in land. The first part of it is a terrianother half million dollars. The reforms and advancements, which of expenditure and waste that is go are practicable in the immediate ing on future and it honestly leaves other reforms to the period when the finances of the Colony, which have been seriously embarrassed by the extravagant ment for demoralizing public deexpenditure made and obligations incurred by the administration of Sir ing ground for its political heclers

Before dealing with these matters, however. Sir Robert explains why he is leading the Opposition to the Government. It is neither for personal aggrandizement, desire for power, or any other sense of self-seeking, but solely in response to the call of duty. The people have called for his services. ous course adopted in connectio with Agriculture, and shows how the This Date lovernment gave out in salaries to overnment members and sops clifical supporters: money that could etter have been spent in giving the ounties they promised and affording ducation they destroyed. He deals lso with the collapse of the Cold is and the fizzling of the Trefethe and Lord move after he had pointed ut "that the true inwardness of that heme was to give the control of our bait supply to these Americans." He also shows that instead of cheapening coal and effecting a reduction price, the Government has reserv ed the Cleary seams in St. George's Bay, the most valuable coal area in the Colony, so far as is known, to the lessrs. Reid. This is truly an eyepener, and affords cold comfort to hose who were deluded into expectng cheaper coal five years age. The izance of the Fishermen's Protectve Union, which has grown to such position of influence under the of President W. F. Coaker. They inited with others in calling him to their service as leader of the Opposi ion to the Morris Government. Sir Robert justifies their political activity by the precedent of the Labour Party in England and the edict of King Edward I. which is almost as ed to return as representatives in the classes legislation was likely to affect. Could any sounder foundation be laid for the Fishermen, having fishermen to represent them?

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Sir Robert declares the Old Age Pension scheme of the Morris Govnadequate scheme ever put forward.' men and all old women over a cer tain age shall equally share This is the system that he has advanted and hopes to see adopted.
