Will be Crack Shots.

A squad of volunteers were at the South Side range yesterday afternoon making preparations for the installing of the new target system similar to that which is used in England. The Blair prizes will more than likely be competed for to-morrow under the new rules. Capt. Rennie, of the Musketry Committee, and the instructors have got in some effective work at the range the past month, and should the Regiment not leave here before November, it will cross to the other side with the reputation of being a Regiment of crack shots.

Back From the West.

SUCCESSFUL FISHERY—M A N X FOREST FIRES.
The S. S. Portia, Capt. J. Kean, arrived back from the Westward this morning, after a quick trip. On her return from Bonne Bay the ship went to North Sydney for bunker coal. She brought a large freight and the following passengers in saloon:—
Messrs. B. Wounded, E. V. Hall, J. Norman, E. J. Doran, G. H. Dickinson; Mrs. P. Laing, Mrs. H. King and two children; Misses H. Bailey, G. Jones, M. King and three in steerage.
We learn that practically all the S. W. Coast bankers are back from the Grand Banks with their first summer's catch. All were well fished. A good many vessels have rebalbed and sailed again. A fortunate circumstance is that caplin bait is easily obtainable, almost every harbor swarming with these useful fishes. All things considered, the present outlook is that the banking voyage for 1916 will be one of the best on record. The shore fishery along the S. W. Coast is also very promising, and a successful voyage is being looked forward to.
From passengers who came on the Portia we are informed that the South West Coast is not exempt from the forest fires, especially in Fortune Bay where they are raging with greater violence than anywhere else on that section of the coast. When the Portia was passing that way the interior around Garnish was in a mass of flames.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schr. Gordon W. was towed from Brigus to this port on Monday, and is now on dock being repaired.
Mr. and Mrs. Amos Martin, of Sydney, arrived last week on a visit. They are leaving by this evening's train for home having spent very pleasantly their few days here.
Mr. A. A. Parsons and his daughter, Miss Gertrude Parsons, are spending a few days in town.
Constable M. Grouchy and family left by this morning's train for Holyrood, where Constable Grouchy is to be stationed. An efficient, obliging officer, he has made many friends since coming here, and the best wishes of our citizens for himself and family will go with them to their new home.
A very large number of passengers left by the s.s. Sagona yesterday for Labrador.
Caplin struck in the coves about here this morning, and fairly good catches of fish are being secured with this bait.
The schr. Studland, Jas. Wells, Master, leaves in a few days for Labrador taking freighters for Camp Island and Seal Islands.
Work on the roads is progressing favorably and when completed our streets will be greatly improved, and our town much the better for the clean up to drains, etc., thanks to the new Road Board.
It is said that Capt. Thomas Dunn, of Riverhead, has lately purchased that desirable house and land on Le-Marchant Street, owned by Mr. John Davis.

WONDERFUL FILM AT THE NICKEL.
The greatest picture shown at the Nickel for many months was "The Wrath of Haddon Towers" last night. The subject was seen by hundreds of patrons young and old and all were of the opinion that it was the finest picture ever presented in St. John's. The other subjects were fine and Bert Stanley made a tremendous hit in the singing of his song. The programme will be repeated this evening and we strongly advise all who were unable to be present yesterday to go and see "The Wrath of Haddon Towers" for themselves.

The Siege of Paris.

(London Correspondent of New York "Sun.")
The Germans have striven to prove that the British blockade of Germany contravenes the laws of civilization, inasmuch as it may bring death by starvation to innocent women and children. There are two sides to the picture, and the "Times" gives the other in a brief record of the siege of Paris in 1870-71, when the Germans slowly starved a civilian population of more than 2,000,000 into surrender.
"They arrived before Paris in the middle of September," says the "Times." "By October 8 our columns report that the daily consumption of horseflesh within the city had risen enormously. By November 20 no more beef or mutton was to be had. On December 6 our correspondent stated that 'rat hunting is now vigorously carried out to meet the demands of the restaurants.' When the frequenters of the restaurants were eating rats the diet of other classes must have been terrible. On December 15 the population were put on a ration of horseflesh. The allowance was 20 grammes, or about an ounce.
"On January 15 the bread ration was reduced from 500 to 300 grammes, less than 10 ounces for adults, and a half that amount for children. The bread was a black and indigestible compound of rice, barley, buckwheat, oats and even hay. Long files of women and children gathered before dawn at the bakers' shops in the rain the cold and the snow of a winter in which the temperature sank to 21 degrees of frost.

"The animals in the Jardin des Plantes were eaten. Elephants sold at from 10 francs to 45 francs a pound, and even 'cotelettes de tigre' are mentioned. There were markets for dog-flesh and catflesh and an English writer partook of a feast at which the 'sole dish was a cat with mice 'round it.' There was no fuel and no light. The people starved from cold as well as from hunger.
"On February 14 one of the English party who brought food to Paris after the armistice, told the Mansion House Relief Committee what he had seen. Some of the persons assisted were 'barely able,' he said, 'to walk to the place' of distribution, and when the provisions were handed them they were unable to carry them home.' That is how the nation that reproaches the 'brutality' of our blockade remorselessly exercised its strict right of siege.
"But perhaps the French children did not suffer? Perhaps the besieged babies had plenty of milk? Let us see what was their fate during the German investment. The French did their best for them. To the very end 3,500 cows were reserved to supply milk for the sick and new born infants, but the supply was altogether insufficient. Milk began to run short so early as September 22nd and a month later the scarcity was affecting children. By the second week in January an English correspondent says they were 'dying off like rotten sheep.'

"What were the feelings of the humane Germans toward this vast population of non-combatants, the innocent victims of their military operations? Did they regret the sufferings they caused? Was their pity suppressed only at the stern voice of duty? Let their idolized statesmen speak for them. When Jules Favre came to Bismarck to arrange for the armistice, the Prussian statesman observed that within a few weeks the French representative had grown much grayer; 'also stouter, probably on horse-flesh,' while the Count's gentlemanly staff selected 'high class restaurants in Paris' as a suitable subject for conversation with the Frenchman's furnished secretary.
"Favre told Bismarck that pretty children were still to be seen in the streets. 'I am surprised at that,' the great champion of Prussian kultur replied; 'I wonder you have not yet eaten them.' And the Germans knew very well that the siege had cost hundreds of children their lives. 'They have been on very short commons in Paris for some time past,' Bismarck's tony and Boswell records on January 29, 'and the death rate last week amounted to about 5,000.' For the last week of December it had been 3,280 and for the week before 2,728.
"The mortality, our humane German goes on, 'was especially heavy among children up to 2 years of age.' Has he any touch of pity? 'Coffins of these tiny French citizens,' he adds, 'were to be seen in all directions. Herod might have jested so.'

Belgium: Slaughtered Saint.

What is thy chiefest glory, Earth? But crucifixion of thy "Slaughtered Saints," (Not even thunderous Milton fully paints). So uplifts man to Calvary's awful height? Immortal shine, their names: "Lucretia," rare, "Self-slain for Honor's sake," "Virginia," pure babes unborn, twin sister-saints, and fair; And thou too, "Jean," who mad'st French freedom sure.
O, Belgium, dream, thou art "Lucretia" who swore "I will not yield to Tarquin of the Rhine. The blessed dagger of Lucretia is mine!" Denowered, ruined, slain, yet evermore

Fashions and Fads!

Serbian embroidery will soon be seen on fashionable chemisettes and blouses.
Beige and soft gray or dark blue continue to be the most popular colors in Paris.
Lacing on contrasting color is one of the new touches on middles and evening gowns.
Sometimes a fichu descends below the waist and ends at the bottom of the skirt.
Some new jumper dresses have scarf-like folds instead of straps over the shoulders.
Larkspur blue and mayflower pink make a lovely color scheme for bridesmaids' gowns.
The straight line from throat to hem appears in some of the most fashionable dresses.
One sees sheer collars in flesh-color as often as in white and occasionally even in velvet.
A double round muslin collar with a deep point at the back is favorite for a tailored cloth suit.
Brilliant, colored ribbon and flowered ornaments form a quaint and pretty finish for the coiffure.
A new middy looks very much like a Chinaman's shirt, and is excellent carried out in yellow silk.
Blazer striped coats are now being worn with white skirts both coat and skirt being of Milanese silk.
The French are making one-piece frocks with side pockets slung on the hips with cordellers of silk.
