A Wild Goose Chase

By F. A. MITCHEL

This is a copy of the will of Edward Spangler, who died leaving a daughter who was engaged to Thomas Ormsby, a young man of whom the testator approved. Mr. Spangler was considered a very singular personage, and his will bears out the opinion.

"Believing that between husband and wife the one showing the greater thought, resource, ingenuity—indeed, those faculties which go to make up smartness—should rule, I bequeath my fortune either to my beloved daughter, Imogene Spangler, or to the man she shall marry, the inheritance to be decided in the following manner:

"My property, consisting of twenty bonds of $5,000 each, is buried in the state of Florida. They will be found either on the right bank of the St. Johns river, at its junction with the ocean, or at Glen Cove Springs, twenty miles northeast of St. Augustine. The finder of the bonds—either my daughter, Imogene Spangler, or her husband—shall be the possessor."

"Surely, Tom," said Imogene after reading the will, "father must have been delicious when he signed his will. You'd better go to Florida and visit the two places named in the will. Quite likely you'll find a pointer in the one where the bonds are buried."

"I think you had better go with me. We can make it a bridal trip."

"Very good. Name the day."

Imogene and Tom were duly married and preparations made for the wedding journey. The evening before their start Imogene went into her father's library, where the old gentleman had kept many atlases—for he was much interested in geography—with a view to locating the points where they were to hunt for the bonds. Mr. Spangler had set great store by a revolving globe four feet in diameter. Imogene found St. Augustine on this globe, but not Glen Cove Springs, so she got down an atlas containing a sufficiently detailed map and located the points exactly.

The couple left the next morning for the Flowery State, passing gradually from winter into summer. When they reached St. Augustine Tom proposed that they put up at a third rate hotel or a cheap boarding house. He did not approve of spending money freely until they had found the money to spend. But Imogene said that, being on her wedding journey, she proposed to live like a bride. Tom was overruled, and they went to the most expensive hotel.

After a few days' rest from their journey Tom proposed that they should proceed to look up their fortune. Imogene seemed to be in no hurry.

"I'm comfortable here," she said. "Suppose you go to both points."

"But in case I find the bonds I shall be the owner of them."

"Suppose you are? That won't make any difference to me. I think the husband should have the money anyway. Papa was like most men; he thought that power in the family is lodged in the one possessing the funds. He should have known that women don't work that way. Their power lies beyond dollars and cents. You go ahead and find the bonds."

Tom was puzzled. For him to go off to hunt for a fortune on such meager information as he possessed seemed ridiculous. He showed a disposition to give up the matter.

"Oh, go on!" said his wife. "You'll get mighty tired sitting around with me long before the honeymoon is over. Quite likely you'll find a clew. Father wasn't such a fool as to hide a fortune where no one could find it."

She kissed him and patted him on the back and sent him away. He went first to the Springs, where he spent a day looking for a sign. Finding none, he proceeded to Jacksonville and thence to the coast. But never a sign did he see. As for digging anywhere without a sign, he was not so stupid as that. So after three or four days' absence he returned to St. Augustine.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamil on.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

He expected to find his wife disappointed at his failure, but she met him with a smile.

"You don't seem to be much depressed at the loss of a fortune," he remarked.

"Isn't it a wife's duty to cheer her husband in times of adversity?" she replied.

"I hope you'll be able to keep it up when the bills begin to come in."

"Brush your hair and get that disappointed look off your face. Things are not so bad as they appear. I have something to tell you. The night before we left for this place I went into father's library to look upon his globes and maps where these places you have been are. Something in the words Glen Cove Springs sounded suggestive. 'Springs, springs,' I kept saying. Why I did it I don't know, but I pressed my thumb on the globe at the point where Glen Cove is and broke through the surface. Taking a knife, I began to dig and found the bonds. Here they are."

Going to her trunk, she unlocked it and took out twenty five per cent gold bonds.

Tom kissed her enthusiastically. Then suddenly the smile left his face, and he said:

"This makes you governor of the household."

"Not at all. I expect to defer to you in everything," was the comforting reply.

But she never assigned the bonds to him, and he learned in time that her father was not so crackbrained as was supposed.

Rapid Action.
"Always think twice before you speak," said little Tommy's mamma.

"Gee, maw," he answered, "if you do that you must do some pretty fast thinkin' sometimes when you git to goin' for paw!"

She Wouldn't Mind It.
"And we have one baby," said the meek man who was applying for lodgings. "Will you mind it?"

"Mind it?" snapped the thin faced lady. "Of course not. Do you think I'm a nurse?"

Embarrassing.
Blossoms—I hate to meet a man who owes me money.

Blossoms—Don't like to embarrass him eh?

Blossoms—No, it isn't that. He generally wants to borrow more.—Exchange

Practical Superstition.
"Heard a dog howling all night."

"It means sudden death."

"I didn't know you were superstitious."

"I am. It means the finish of the dog."

Their Effect.
"Miss Mayme can shoot such glances at one from under those long eyelashes of hers."

"Be careful; her shooting glances have a killing effect."—Baltimore American

Her Means.
"He married her for a woman of means."

"And isn't she?"

"Oh, yes; but the meanest part of it is that she evidently means to keep her means to herself."—Exchange

A Pleasant Outlook.
"I wonder why the bride is crying," remarked one of the guests at the wedding. "Can it be because she is leaving home?"

"No, it ain't that," answered the bride's small brother. "She's in love with the fellow she married, and I think she's crying 'cause she feels sorry for him."

SCIENTIFIC REASON WHY A WOMAN CAN OUT-TALK A MAN.

A woman can talk longer than a man, and does so, because she uses less force by a considerable percentage than the man does.

A professor of science has proved by actual and very delicate measurements that the baritone singer uses far more energy than the tenor, and that the bass singer uses more force than either. The range of voices differs greatly, so the percentage varies to the same extent, but as a general result it was proved that the tenor uses only from one-seventh to one-sixteenth of the lung power of the baritone or bass.

The difference between the force used by the contralto and the soprano is quite marked, and the contralto who sings in very deep tones uses at least ten times the force of the thrilling soprano.

The explanation is so simple that it is surprising that the investigation was not made long ago. It has long been known that the tenor or soprano brings the vocal cords close together and keeps the edges only vibrating by the emission of air. The bass or contralto leaves the space between the cords wider open, and has to vibrate much more of the membranes to a considerably larger amount of air required.

A French scientist is working upon a phonograph which imitates the human voice by passing compressed air through photographically-produced holes in a rapidly-moving strip.
