For Houseksepers Another dull and uninteresting market

this morning: Buyers and sellers were enjoying themselves yesterday, which no doult accounts to a certain extent for the slim attendance at the market. The first load of new oats of the season was sold today at 95c per cwt. Hay-Fourteen loads of hay sold quickly today at $7 to $7 50 per ton.

Butter and Eggs-Very little of either product were marketed today; there was sufficient to meet the demand, and prices are unchanged, at 17c to 19c per 1b for butter in crocks and 19c to 21c per lb for roll butter. Eggs sold today at 10c to 101/2c wholesale and 11c to 12c retail.

Fruits-Two loads of thimble berries sold at 9c to 10c wholesale, and 11c retail. Peaches sold at 30c per 6-quart basket. Apples were more pientiful, selling at $1 to $1 10 per bu; the apples offered were as a rule a poor sample.

Vegetables of all kinds were well repesented, with the exception of potatoes, hich were in keen demand at $1 to $150 er bu: most of the offerings sold at $1 30 $1 40 per bu. Tomatoes are scarce, at per 1b wholesale, and 10c per 1b etail. Celery sold at 30c to 40c per dozen. Other vegetables are unchanged in price, Poultry-Very little offered today; the prices are steady, as per quotations: Live Stock-Mr. D. McIntyre had 100 hogs weighed on the city scales yesterday, paying $6 85 per cwt. Messrs. Howlett & Bignell also had 25 head of cattle weighed; $4 60 to $4 75 was said to be paid

THE KAISER'S MOTHER DEAD!

Demise of the Dowager Empress Frederick Was Somewhat Sudden.

The Emperor and Other Members of Her Family Present at the End---Her Remains Will Be Buried Beside Those of Her Husband.

Frederick died at 6:15 p.m. Emperor William and her majesty's other children and Empress Augusta Victoria, were round the bedside when the dowager empress passed away, quietly. The death of the dowager empress was somewhat sudden. At 4 o'clock her physicians reported no change in her condition. Emperor William and her majesty's other children were in the sick room most of the day.

At 8 o'clock this evening Emperor William conducted the members of the dowager empress' household into the death chamber, and led them one by peaceful expression, almost childlike, having shrunk from its normal size In the course of the evening several telegrams of condolence arrived from European sovereigns addressed to Emperor William.

Her Imperial Majesty Victoria Adelaide Marie Louisa, Princess Royal of England, Empress Frederick of Germany, was born Nov. 21, 1840, and was married Jan. 25, 1858, to Frederick, crown prince of Prussia, afterwards (March to June, 1888) second German emperor, who died June 15, 1888, and has issue four sons (two deceased), the eldest, William, the present German emperor, and four daugh-

Soon after nightfall, Emperor Willianm, accompanied by the empress and the crown prince, drove back to Homburg.

KNEW HER DAYS WERE FEW. The dowager empress knew days were few. She had said farewell to most of the servants and had arranged for the future of nearly every one of them. She expressed a desire that not much should be known by the public concerning her disease lest some should be saddened by the knowledge of her sufferings. There was much reluctance in summoning King Edward, as it was not desired that he should have a long wait. Cowes, August 6.—King Edward re-ceived the official news of the death have yet been admitted to the castle. of Dowager Empress Frederick on board the royal yacht. At a late hour King Edward intimated a desire that the regatta programme should be proceeded with, thus following the precedent kept by Queen Victoria at the death of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

The race for the king's cup will therefore be sailed Wednesday.

The time of King Edward's departure for Germany is still undetermined. He goes to London this afternoon. The royal yacht Victoria and Albert awaits his arrival at Port Victoria, to convey his majesty to Flush-

REGATTA POSTPONED. Although the King decided that the Cowes yachting programme should proceed, the owners of the vessels entered for the king's cup (which was to have been raced for today have resolved, out of respect for the dowager empress not to start.

THE END WAS PEACE. Cronberg, Aug. 6 .- The body of the dowager empress still lies in the bed chamber overlooking the valley of the Maine. She died in a soft sleep, painlessly, and her features bear the most serene and peaceful expression. The gardeners and other outdoor dependents were admitted to view the remains this morning.

PRESS TRIBUTES.

London, Aug. 6-6 a.m.-This morning's newspapers, most of which are printed in mourning, refer in terms of deepest sympathy to the death of Empress Frederick. It is generally admitted that she had only one enemy. Prince Bismarck never forgave her for being English by birth and nationality, and he pursued her with intrigue and resentment. It is an open secret that even state papers emanating from the German foreign office during Prince Bismarck's chancellor-ship contained the grossest and most insulting allusions to her. All social fixtures in London will for the present be abandoned or postponed, and, it is probable, that throughout the United Kingdom mourning for the King's sister will be of six months' duration for the court and three months for the general public. The coronation festivities will not, however, be affected by the empress' death.

A LIFE OF SADNESS

Cronberg, Aug. 6. - Ex-Empress | Consort. She was born Nov. 21, 1840, at Buckingham Palace, and christened was known as the princess royal. All accounts agree in ascribing to the princess during her childhood, quickness, brightness and intelligence. mingled with haughtiness and pride of position. She was a bright and vigorous child, more sprightly than her brothers and sisters.

She especially showed early a de cided taste for drawing, like Queen Victoria, and throughout her life she has spent much time with palette and brush. A foreign artist said that if Victoria Adelaide had not been a princess and therefore freed from financial worries she would easily have earned an excellent living by her art. She also displayed considerable talent as an actress.

HER MARRIAGE. death chamber, and led them one by one past the bedside to take a last farewell of their mistress.

CONSCIOUS TO THE END.

The remarkable vitality of the dowager empress astonished her physicians. She retained consciousness to the end.

Tonight the children of the deceased placed floral tributes about the body. The face wears a singularly peaceful expression, almost childlike,

The tragic story of Victoria's fight for her husband's life in order to allow him to succeed his father on the throne of united Germany is well known. It was a hard and bitter struggle for the Eng-lish princess against overwhelming odds, but she succeeded, and Frederick survived his father three months, dying of cancer of the throat on June 15, 1888. OPPOSED BISMARCK'S PLANS. Though popular at first in Germany, the empress later incurred the ill-will of many of her husband's subjects. One reason was that she opposed Bismarck's plans, another that she displayed an-tagonism to the semi-despotic government prevailing in Germany, her ideal of rule being a limited monarchy such as exists in England. The Empress Frederick had since her marriage been a close and conscientious student of government and sociology, devoting much time and attention to socialism, although she did not agree with its tenets. She had wonderful influence over her husband, so much so that she was accused of dominating the generous, open-hearted "Fritz." It was rumored some time ago that the dowager empress had been married secretly to Count Seckendorf, a German gentleman and official of high connections. Some color was lent to the tale tions. Some color was lent to the tale by the fact that it was never denied by the imperial family, and it was believed in some quarters.

FRIGHTFUL EXPLOSION !

Five Buildings in Philadelphia

First Estimates Place the Number of Fatalities as High as 20-Scores of Persons Injured.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 5 .- A terrific explosion in a block of six buildings on Locust street, above Tenth, tonight completely wrecked five of the structures. Over two score of persons were more or less seriously injured. Some of those taken to the hospitals will die. It is estimated that at least 35 persons were in the five buildings when the explosion occurred, and the exact number will probably not be known for

The buildings were occupied as follows: Locust street-No. 1,008, House man's pool and billiard rooms; 1,010 Morris Rosenthal's second-hand cloth-ing store, occupied by Rosenthal, his wife and five children; No. 1,002, Wm. Jones (colored), restaurant, occupied by Jones and about ten boarders; No 1,004, George McLemmy's grocery store, occupied by McLemmy, clerk and servant girl; No. 1,006, Patrick Quigley's grocery store, occupied by Quigley, his wife, three children and his uncle: No. 1,008, Albert Mountain's grocery and meat store, occupied by Mountain, his mother, sister and clerk.

The explosion occurred about 9:30 What exploded and how it o'clock. happened is not known at this time, but it is believed to have been a barrel of gasoline in one of the grocery stores. With the exception of 1,008, the iron walls of the buildings were blown outward to the street, while the floors and roof upwards were blown upward and fell straight to the grounds. Almost every building within a radius of two blocks about the scene of the explosion had windows shattered and were otherwise damaged. Every building on the opposite side of Locust street was more or less wrecked, but none of them fell.

A terrible cry went up from the ruins the moment the explosion occurred. Women, children and men could be seen crawling from the debris, while the agonizing cries of others were heard in the wreckage. From all the surrounding buildings people came running and fell unconscious. To add to the horror, fire broke out in the debris the moment it settled to the ground, and in less than five minutes the great pile was burning fiercely from end to end. A general alarm was turned in for fire apparatus and ambulances, and in the meantime the work of rescue was voluntarily begun by people in the neighborhood that were not injured.

The work of digging away the ruins was then begun in earnest. Near the edge of the debris several colored men were taken out and sent to the hospitals. While the firemen and policemen were digging into the debris and hauling away heavy timbers in several sections of the wreckage, cries were heard coming from the cellar of Mountain's grocery store. Fifty men, with rope and tackle were immediately put to work at that point, and pulled away the roofing and flooring which had fallen into a massed heap. From the bottom of the pile, doubled up were taken a man and woman. The man was able to speak, but the woman was apparently dead.

While the work of rescue was going on in the exploded block, hospital attendants and others made a search of all the damaged houses on the opposite side, and almost a score of persons were taken to various hospitals from these places. The Jefferson and the Pennsylvania hospitals were soon crowded with the injured. None of those taken to the hospital have died up to midnight. Two hundred men are now at work clearing away the wreckage. The building containing the pool rooms, clothing store and the restaurant were three-story brick struc-tures, while the other three buildings were two and a half stories.

THE DEATHS

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.-At 1:30 a.m. the only known deaths are those at the hospitals—that of an unknown colored woman and a two-year-old colored child. At the Pennsylvania five of the patients will, it is thought, die before daylight. These are two colored women, one colored man an two colored children. These unfortun ates are so badly injured and under going such severe suffering that their names could not be obtained. Others at the various hospitals will also die Among these is Samuel Gale, aged 40. white, and his daughter. Florence Gale aged 20. Both are badly burned, in addition to other injuries. Of the Rosenthal family, Minnie, aged 12, was taken from the ruins seriously injured,
