FLOWER SHOW IN HYMAN HALL SHOULD ATTRACT THE CITIZENS

Some of the Exhibitors Who Have Creditable Showings.

The annual June flower show of the London Horticultural Society that is being held in Hyman Hall is one of the best, if not the best, that has ever been conducted in this city. Despite the size of the hall it is not large enough to comfortably contain all the exhibits that are entered, and the large exhibit of Gamgee & Sons has been placed on a platform in the north-west corner of the building.

While many of the citizens are availing themselves of the privilege of examining the various kinds of flowers grown by the best professional and amateur florists of the city under the most advanced and scientific conditions of the present day, there are still many who should not miss this opportunity.

The two largest exhibits are those of the Springbank Park and the asylum. The Springbank exhibit contains peonies, columbine, iris, daisies, foxglove, poppies, delphiniums and corseilles.

The exhibit from the asylum contains thirty varieties of sweet-williams, fifteen kinds of roses, peonies, foxglove, poppies, sweet-williams, petunias, carnations, wisteria and water-lilies.
