The Mail correspondent, with Sir John Macdonald, telegraphing from this city on the 28th ult., says: The talk among the upper tendom is about the successor to the present lieutenant-governor, whose term of service expired eight days ago, and many suggestions are being made in course. The Ottawa government is making much [illegible] the appointment of the governor-general, and necessarily avoids anything looking like a political election, which would be contrary to the spirit of the constitution. Nevertheless, the Victorians are eagerly discussing the relative merits of several [illegible] have been suggested.

What Some People Say.

That J. L. Armstrong, an employé of the Depot Hotel, at Hastings, Neb., quarreled with Ella Manship, disingenuous girl, and struck her with a knife, cutting a gash below her eye. She then threw a tumbler at him, and it was smashed against his head. While he was reeling from the effect of the blow she threw another tumbler with the same effect, knocking him to the floor, crushing his hat all to sending splintered glass into his brain. He will die.

That a politician writing to the widow of a deceased member of the legislature, from the effect of the blow she threw [illegible] when I heard that your husband had gone to heaven. We were both Tories; but now we shall never meet again. Farewell."

It is rumored that the Imperial government are anxious to secure more ground for fortification purposes than is at present at their disposal, and that they propose to purchase the entire site of the present town of Esquimalt and include it in their great scheme.

That a fashion exchange says that the young ladies dress of an English bride was of pink cambric trimmed with Venetian point lace and hat to match. This is the first time we ever heard of trimming a bridal dress with a hat.

A merchant met one of his clerks Saturday morning after the trips from the malt liquor, and rather chided him for it. "But this is my third half holiday, you [illegible]" was the reply. "Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," said the merchant, "I'll make it a whole one. I'll give you a week's vacation." The young man was astonished at the liberality of his employer, and [illegible] bachelor, and [illegible] a baby, but to be [illegible] a week's vacation [illegible] use a borrowed baby, in making the experiment.

That a fatality seems to attend a few of the Victoria drivers. Within a few months [illegible] have been arrested for [illegible] while [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] fire have recently done [illegible] damage. He met lots of freight coming east, including British Columbia cattle, and car-loads of tea from China.

Lord Durham and Hon. Claude Lambton are enjoying pleasure trip and boating in their story, a very laughter one.

Mr. Olds will, we are led to understand, put in operation during his stay a schedule of freight rates covering the whole line. Mr. Olds expresses a desire to learn the views of all interested, to the end that the most active satisfaction may be had.

The party will remain several days in the city, but their further stay is consequent on circumstances.

Theatrical Notes.

The eccentric Linda Brandhild Scofield is at the head of a concert company that is touring the Kansas circuit.

McKee Rankin's property on the Detroit River, near Detroit, which was mortgaged some time ago for something like $75,000 is for sale.

A New York theatrical paper, which is noted as a sort of puffing machine for queer actresses, mutilates the sad intelligence that Constance Marielle has been very ill of late, but is convalescent and hasn't signed yet for next season.

Lizzie Richardson has gone to Portland to play comedy and ingenue roles with Mainhall and Page's New Market Theatre company.

Charles Rey is a victim of boot blacks. He spends most of his salary (?) having his pedals illuminated.

Charles Pope will have a strong company on the road next season, which will be headed by a sterling actor in Harry Meredith.

Annie Pixley will produce next season A. C. Grunter's new comedy, Deacon's Daughter. The rumor that she was about to retire was unfounded.

The scenes of the new musical comedy, Soldiers and Sweethearts, are laid near the barracks of a crack English regiment and are said to be very picturesque.

Sam Morris, a talented young Californian comedian, who has made an enviable record with M. B. Curtis, will spend his vacation in San Francisco with his relatives.

A. M. Palmer's faulty, accompanied by Jennie June, of the New York Graphic, were expected in San Francisco last Thursday.

Gustave Frohman was married on the 8th inst. to Miss Marie G. Hall, of New Bedford, Mass. The lady will play May Blossom in Ben Magnley's company next season.

Somebody says that McKee Rankin is undecided whether he will Bishop and Merchant cast with for the Macbeth affair or leave behind to save freight.

John W. Summers, one of the peculiar reminiscences of John A. Stevens, is said to be making a profound study of the habits and customs of the Chinese in their most repulsive forms.

An exchange says that M. Pulman's company, now at Vicker's, is unquestionably the finest company that has ever visited Chatham, and we can [illegible] easily as well as conscientiously recommend lovers of the histrionic art to see them; for to see them is to enjoy their acting and to admire their ability.

Laura Burger's popularity is increasing with her own charming personality as is increasing of late Harold Viola Allen, late leading [illegible] Stock, will star next season in a play called Florett. "Hot Tamale" Leslie Allen will support him as a good father should.

Harry Dixey's London season is reported to be a most unfortunate one, and that a number of the Criterion company were without the means to procure actual necessities.

King Hedley, the youngest [illegible] who was a member of the Baldwin company, San Francisco, under Magnire's administration, and a proprietary interest in [illegible] panies, playing the Silver King Youth next season.

Lydia Thompson has been [illegible] by Miles and Barton from all American engagements and will [illegible] seen in the country next season. Miles and Barton will confine themselves to directing the Bijou Opera House, New York, and the tour of Joseph Haworth, the young Augustus.

Eastern Canada Mail.

TORONTO, July 28.—Mrs. Lewis, wife of the Bishop of Ontario, was stricken with paralysis on Sunday, and fears are entertained that she will not recover.

A special cable dispatch says: A publication interview with Sandford Fleming points to the probability of the success of the attempt to establish direct telegraphic communication between Great Britain and Canada without a single [illegible] Canadian government have been approached and have agreed to grant subsidies, which will [illegible] responsible company to lay a cable from Brisbane, Queensland, or Sydney, New South Wales, to the Sandwich Islands. The same dispatch says: Sir Charles Tupper gives as a pretext for his departure that he may consult with the Canadian government relative to the proposal to construct a Pacific cable.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE. The corner stone of the new Methodist Sabbath school will be laid by Lady Macdonald at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon next, after which refreshments will be served in the church till 7 o'clock in the evening. Tickets for refreshments, 50 cents each.

RAILWAY MAGNATES.

Sir George and Lady Stephen and Party Arrive in the City.

The steamer Tacoma, which arrived here about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, brought a very distinguished party which had travelled over the whole length of the Canadian Pacific railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The party comprised: Sir George Stephen, president of the Canadian Pacific railway, and Lady Stephen; Vice-President, W. C. Van Horne; General Traffic Manager, Mr. George Olds; Lord Durham; Hon. Claude Lambton, Messrs. Pearsall and Sterling, of New York; Mr. Russell Stephenson, of Montreal; Hon. Walter Gifford and Mr. B. S. McInnes, the president's private secretary, and Mr. H. J. Abbott, general superintendent of the Pacific Division of the C. P. R. [illegible]

Capt. John Irving, who with Mr. Abbott, met the party at Donald, accompanied them to this city. This is Sir George and Lady Stephen's first visit to Victoria, and they express themselves as delighted with what they have seen of the Queen city. They regard the approach as magnificent, and the surroundings as picturesque in the extreme. They appear to be glowing of their enjoyment and their eyes were feasted with the countless delights of prairie and mountain scenery through which they passed. Like all others who come over the line they are enthusiastic in their praise, and predict a great future and vast rush of tourist travel during the summer [illegible]

It is said the New York gentleman of whom we spoke yesterday as having purchased several lots at the corner of Douglas and Johnson streets, is the well-known [illegible] of the Tribune, and that he has no intention of building on the property at present.

What a murder it would be if [illegible] Printing, Insulin, Ointment, which is harmless like paper darts from a coat of mail, should shake the iron will of the murderous [illegible]

Her endurance is simply marvellous, and her tongue is wonderfully and fearfully elastic. But what does this prove? It proves simply that she knows what [illegible] and that [illegible] and what she knows is power.

Can she, on her side, [illegible] questions? Can he read [illegible] her case? What does he see Coward in [illegible] Has he [illegible] and [illegible] and tells him it is not to sit idly for him. What is the mysterious power [illegible] which she possesses? Is it the knowledge that man is [illegible] and the [illegible] will?

Men who have braved death at the cannon's mouth have [illegible] in terror [illegible] was confined to spend a week dreadful, and when the [illegible] have [illegible] ablemen have meekly professed to be glad to [illegible] her hypocrites as they are.

Hence man's weakness is want of moral courage. He does not know [illegible] sin. But if it did, he would still [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
