Judge Galt opened the summer criminal assizes for the county of York at 1.15 p.m. yesterday. Æ. Irving of Hamilton appeared for the crown. The grand jurymen emanelled were Amos J Hughes (foreman) John Bennet, Thos Carr, HP Cro-by, Ed Eckhardt, Alex Fletcher, Andrew Hender-son, Wm Mitchell, Isaac Marritt, Jas L Morrison, Wm Horr, Thos A Milue, Frank Rolph, Robt Sewell, Ed Stevenson and Ed

THE JUDGES ADDRESS. Judge Galt complimented the grand jury on the lightness of the docket. The most serious charge was one of murder, which was the taking of another's life with malice aforethought. There was a case of a man charged with rape on his own daughter, a girl of 11 years. Human nature was singularly formed, and though the crime was a rorepugnant to human nature most people might be apt to say it was true. The law presumed everyone accused to be innocent until proved guilty, and it would be the latter of the inverse to return true hills in all duty of the jurors to return true bills in all cases where prima facie proof is produced.
There were three cases of highway robbery, which was very unusual in such a sparsely-settled country as Canada, and three cases of larceny.

The judge then informed the jury that he would not sit till 4 o'clock to receive any true bill that they might return. At 4.15 Mr. Irving informed his lordship that the grand jury had not then any bills leady and court adjourned. The bail of R. W. Prittie, charged with forgery, was es-cheated.

Andrew Reilly and Edward Levier were arraigned on a charge of embezzlement, but the crown offered no evidence and a formal verdict of not guilty was returned.

Separate High School Districts—The New

The county council met at 10.30 a.m. yesterday, Warden Rowen in the chair. The council went into committee of the whole on a by-law introduced by Reeve Duncan to sat apart Weston, Markham, Rishmand Hill and Naymondat as a contract of the season. Richmond Hill, and Newmarket as separate high school districts. The by-law passed through committee and was read a third time and adopted in council. A communication from the reeve of Yorkville in reference to the York roads was read, and the council adjourned, At 4.25 p. nr. Reeve Canning presented a petition of the Toronto High park and Weston tramway company. The petition was read and council went into committee to hear a deputation on the petition. Huson W. Murray and Major Gray addressed the council. They explained that the Ontario legislature had granted the necessary power to build the road, and what was now wanted was permission to lay the rails over the York roads to Weston and Lambton and probably to Smithville, in the county of Peel. The deputation maintained that the proposed tramway would greatly enhance the value of property in these suburbs. The deputation withdrew and the ASSOCIATION CRICKET MATCHES.

Many are asking why the association matches are not being played. The first tie will have to be played off very shortly and if the different clubs do not make a start it will be too late. There are more clubs in the association this year than last, consequently a much longer time will be required to settle the championship. Perhaps the reason of the delay is that "one is afraid and the others durst not."

England's Greatest Actor.

Henry Irving is under engagement t ome to America a year from next fall, and in the meantime we shall be treated, no doubt, to a great deal of information about his greatness as an actor and his popularity in England. Whatever may be the estimate of Irving's quality, there can be no material of his success; and he has not achieved the success of the bank discharged their respective duties. on the stage at 18, and for ten years played in travelling companies, at first very badly. began to show improvement, doing best in comic characters. His first London opporand his first hit in a serious part was as lathias in "The Bells." He soon became manager of the Lyceum theatre, and in that sition, backed for a while by capital adnced by Lady Burdett-Coutts, was able to give himself every possible advantage in the way of able support and fine scenery. His conduct in private life, too, has been such as to win the countenance of cultivated people, and it is fashionable in London to admire him.

A Heartless Priesthood Among the batch of missionaries sent out the Mormon church to make proselvtes of course the favorite, having won the Queen's plate at London, but the other two will make a race with her the whole of the Mormons look forward with dread to this Mormons look forward with dread to semi-annual conference meeting, when they expect to hear their names read off in the tabernacle and receive the solemn summous loss account carried forward..... strange lands where they expect to be malstrange lands where they expect to be malter texted and imprisoned. There is no appeal from their appointment, and when a man's name is read off he has nothing to do but to pack up his things and set out. It is generally understood that the men sent abroad are in some way especially fitted to spread the bogus gospel to the world, but the Mormons know well enough that a man who is a bishop's rival in love affairs is more likely than any to be ordered to go. At the last conference a young man was ordered to go to be confered to go to be confered to go. At the last conference a young man was ordered to go to be confered to go to be confered to go. The same that is the United States. The same table to go to be confered to go. At the last conference a young man was ordered to go to be confered to go to be confered to go. At the last conference a young man was ordered to go to England who had not been married much over a year. He was horror-stricken when he was appointed, and, going to the conneil begand to the conne going to the council, begged to be excused on the ground that his wife would be heartbroken if he left her. The only reply he got was that there were plenty more wives to be had, and he ought to take another wife to keep her company. He went home and told her the worst, and the poor woman became almost frantic with grief and apprehension. On Saturday last he bade her good bye, kissed his child, but a few months old, and started out on a two-years' trip to help euslave others as he was enslaved. Since his departure his wife has been almost crazed and is inconsolable with grief. These are miseries which a cold and heartless priesthood are continually inflicting on their benighted followers. The man who thus left a young wife at the bidding of the priest deserves no sympathy. Had he been possessed of the right sort of heart and a little backbone, he would have cut loose from the rotten rch, and when a priest came to expostulate kick him down the steps.
