

POETRY.

SING ME A SONG OF HOME

BY JONATHAN PERCY DOUGLAS.

Sing me a song of home,
Of my own wild mountain land,
And minstrel's strike thy harp
With a bold and ready hand.
These songs are strangely sweet,
And a southerner's choice would be
Yet a day of the rugged north,
Is sweeter far to me.

Sing me a song of home!
For oft in silence, deep
A dream is in my brain,
From which I wake to weep
I stand in the room methinks
Where bygone years were passed,
And the friends are there who wept
When I crossed its threshold last.

Sing me a song of home!
My sisters' tears are there,
And my mother sits and weeps
Beside my vacant chair.
My father's head is low—
O'er him I should not roam
For him—and the living hearts—
O, sing me a song of home!

From the Edinburgh Journal.
THE HOME OF HAPPIER DAYS.
Bright memory! Oh, recall the scene,
And open to mine ardent gaze
The cottage that once had been
The home of happier days.

How beautiful is that lovely spot,
Flora her daisies round displays
Around that faded and old
The home of happier days.

The honey-suckle with the rose,
Its little bell-like flowers
The parted blossoms scarce disclose
The home of happier days.

Methinks it now is evening,
As though I hear the blackbird's lay,
Washing in melody his throat
The home of happier days.

The little green, the garden fair,
The green through which the streamlet strays,
All, all in fancy's dream are there,
The home of happier days.

Far off happy hours, when radiant joy
Shed o'er my path its purest rays,
Life was exulting, when I lay,
Sweet home of happier days.

Those days are gone, those hours have fled,
Yet oft I find myself sighing,
And the green that was my home,
That home of happier days.

THE WOMEN OF TERRY.—A writer in Blackwood says: "The lot of this portion of the Massachusetts population is much less unhappy than one would be led to expect. They are not held in a secondary position in society, but, brought up as they are in the most complete ignorance, they are unconscious of their degraded position, and know not that there is a better. They are, in general, treated very kindly by their husbands and masters, and do not undergo, as it is supposed, either capricious or brutal treatment. Although in Europe they still believe a Turk to be constantly surrounded by a multitude of obstacles, at Constantinople there are very few obstacles, who have three or even two wives, and even these they lodge in separate mansions, in general far distant from each other. Almost all Turks with the exception of the very few above mentioned individuals, possess in general but one wife, to whom they are most faithful."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT!

FIFTY CURED IN SIX WEEKS. Extract of a Letter from John J. A. Esq., of Charleston, S.C., to the Editor of the Charleston Medical and Surgical Journal, dated 10th April 1845.

To Professor Holloway, Sir—I beg to inform you that the inhabitants of the Island, especially those who cannot afford to employ medical gentlemen, are very anxious to have your Ointment, and I believe, about fifty having been cured by its use, and many who had tried all other Medicines before the Ointment was used, and all of which did him no good, but your Ointment did him about six weeks, and he is now, to his great satisfaction, quite restored to health and vigor.

CURED BY

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

THE EARL OF ALDBOROUGH CURED OF A LIVER AND STOMACH COMPLAINT. Extract of a Letter from the Earl of Aldborough, dated 10th April 1845.

To Professor Holloway, Sir—Various circumstances prevented the possibility of my thanking you for the time for your Ointment in sending you your Pills as you did. I now take this opportunity of sending you an order for the same, and at the same time to add that your Pills have effected a cure of a disorder in my Liver and Stomach, which all the most eminent of the Faculty at home, and all over the Continent, had been unable to effect, and I have even the waters of Carlsbad and Vichy, and I have had another box and a lot of the Ointment, in case any of my Family should ever require them.

Your most obliged and obedient Servant.
