An enthusiastic admirer of the Czar was repeatedly saying to a stranger, "The Czar is great."—"Yes," was the reply, "but God is greater." "Ah!" exclaimed the Russian, "but the Czar is young yet!"

VARIETIES.

AN ARTLESS COURTIER.—A country youth came to town to see his intended wife, and for a long time, could think of nothing to say. At last, a great snow falling, he took occasion to tell her that his father's sheep would be all undone. "Well," said she, taking him by the hand. "I'll keep one of them."

BEYOND NOT.—Nobody knows what strength of parts he has till he has tried them. And of the understanding one may truly say, that its force is greater generally than it thinks till it is put to it.—A persuasion that we shall overcome any difficulties that we may meet with in the sciences, seldom fails to carry us through them.—Nobody knows the strength of his mind, and the force of steady and regular application till he has tried. This is certain; he that sets out upon weak legs will not only go farther, but grow stronger, too, than one who, with a vigorous constitution and firm limbs only sits still.

THERE is a shop kept by a lady, in the window of which appears these words—"No reasonable offer refused."

BAKED POTATOES.—"Landlord," said an epicurite, "can you enable me to realise from your culinary stores the pleasure of a few dulcet murphies, rendered luxurious by ingeneous martyrdom."

A COUNTRYMAN being asked how he knew a man, of whom he had been complaining, was drunk, indignantly replied. "What could he else be, when he asked for a shoehorn to put his hat on with?"

GRATITUDE is one of the noblest of the human feelings. The recipient is as much pleased as the giver. There is a divine harmony between them, the spiritual nature of both is elevated, and there is, consequently, a large contribution to the general stock of goodness; individual actions, whether of good or evil, are not confined to their immediate circle. Their effects permeate throughout society. Exhibitions of gratitude, therefore, operate by way of splendid examples.

HABIT in a child is at first like a spider's web—if neglected it becomes a thread or twine; next a cord or rope; finally a cable; and who can break it?

LONG life does not consist in many years, but in the period being filled with good services to our fellow beings. He whose life ends at thirty may have done much, while he who has reached the age of one hundred may have done little.

LITTLE MINDS are capable of every meanness. They have neither the generosity to forgive, nor the sense to inquire before pronouncing an opinion. Having limited capacities, they are melancholy proofs that a little knowledge is really a dangerous thing.—This class of people may be distinguished by their presumption and coarse habit of dictation. Their manners are boisterous, and their offers of service so spurious, that only the most believing and unsophisticated can be deceived by them. Such men should be avoided, for they cannot be trusted.

AN Irish friend of ours, hearing of a gentleman's having a stone coffin made for himself, exclaimed: "Be my sowl, and that's a good idea! Shure—a stone coffin 'ud last a man his lifetime!"

A GENUINE IRISH BULL.—"Of all the world's troubles," says Boyle, "misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all possible misfortunes is generally followed by a much greater."

ONCE, at table, Pitt was expatiating on the superiority of the Latin over the English language, and cited as an instance that two negatives made a thing more positive than one affirmative could do. "Then your father and mother," said Lord Thurlow, "must have been themselves two negatives to have introduced into the world such a positive fellow as you are."

THE Editor of a paper, who was a great sufferer from toothache, made the following observation, after a violent attack: "The person who can write editorials while suffering with toothache, could kick up his heels over the grave of Hope, and snap his dying fingers in the face of Time and Sorrow."

EXTRAORDINARY INNOCENCE.—A man was lately arrested in St. Louis for stealing goods at a fire. On examination before a magistrate, he confessed the act, but urged in palliation of the offence, that he had been only a month in the country, and didn't know the rules.

THERE have been many definitions of a gentleman, but the prettiest and most poetic is that given by a lady. "A gentleman," says she, "is a human being combining a woman's tenderness with a man's courage."

"I WILL consent to all you desire," said a young lady to her lover, "on condition that you give me what you have not, what you never can have and yet what you can give me." What did she ask for? A husband.

"Boy," shouted an ill-tempered old fellow to a noisy lad, "what are you hollerin' for when I am going by?" "Well," returned the boy, "what are you going by for when I'm hollerin'?"

A GENTLEMAN said he should like to see a boat full of ladies set adrift on the ocean, just to see which way they would steer. "Oh replied a lady present, "that's very easily answered. They would steer to the Isle of Man, to be sure."

A GENTLEMAN being in company with a sprightly damsel of fourteen, was somewhat annoyed by her playful trickery. At length he exclaimed, "Now my dear girl, be still." This was touching a cord of feminine vanity, which is always sure to vibrate. Assuming an air of importance, and retiring to a position of defence, she responded. "Girl, indeed! I'm as much of a woman as you are!"

"PAPA, how long does the legislature sit?" "Four or five months, my son." "Why what a set of geese they must be; our geese only sit five weeks?" "It's getting late, my son, I think we had better retire."

THE late eminent Dr. Wollaston was introduced at an evening party to a rather pert young lady. "Oh doctor," she said, "I am delighted to meet you." "Well," said the man of science, "and pray what do you think of me now you have seen me?" "You may be very clever," was the answer, "but you are nothing to look at."

THE "RESOLUTE" AND THE IRRESOLUTE:—Britain intends imitating the generous example of America. She intends sending over to the Emperor Alexander one of the Russian ships taken in the late war, and to beg his acceptance of it—admiral, crew, and all.—The Admiral selected for the appointment has been Sir Charles Napier, and several of the most sensible electors of Southwark form part of the crew.
