— The Canada Pacific Railway is progressing favorably at both ends, and by another year it is believed that not more than a gap or two will be in the way of connection between Thunder Bay and Winnipeg. The early part of the work moved rather slowly, but experienced contractors have now a fair start, and the work goes ahead with a large force. The American plan of using the road as constructed to convey men and material to build it is likely to facilitate the work.

— Very favorable reports are being received from the gold mining regions in Hastings Co., tensively entered upon this year in view of the early opening of the North Hastings Railway.
