

humbled us in the dust of penitence—she pours balm into the stricken heart, and to the eye of faith discloses Jesus standing at the right hand of God, the Great High Priest, and the "Lamb, as it had been slain," and who that has once fully realized the Love and Work of Christ can return to the World and let its joys and its trials and temptations shut out like a thick cloud that vision of Divine Mercy! No, to such an one life will bear a new aspect. The GREAT REALITY will be that hereafter, when we shall see no longer through a glass darkly, and know even as we are known, when Jesus will come for His redeemed, that they may be with Him forever.

A CHILD'S BEQUEST.

Some years ago a clergyman was speaking at a Missionary meeting, and he there noticed a man with a little girl about five years old in his arms. The little thing seemed to listen with as much interest as anybody else in the room.

Shortly after this he was asked to visit a child who was sick. He went to her, and found it was the little one he had noticed at the Missionary meeting. She was very ill, but she smiled when he came to her bedside. He talked to her, and found that God had made her His own child, and that though she was so young, yet she had learned to love Him; she was very quiet and very happy.

A little while later she died. After the funeral her father came to the Clergyman with tears rolling down his cheeks, and took a little box out of his pocket and gave it to him, telling him that when they were going home after the Missionary meeting she was talking about all she had heard, and reminded him that the gentleman had said, that "everybody might do something," and she wanted him to buy her a Missionary-box. She begged so hard that he went into a toy-shop and bought her one. This delighted her, but her father had more than this to do, for the next day she wanted something to put into it: he told her he was too poor; however he promised her, if she was a good girl, he would give her a half-penny a week to put into her box.

"And so, sir," said the poor father, "I got the box when she was gone, for she used to keep it always near her. It is just thirty-four weeks since the meeting, and she had a half-penny every Saturday night since, so I think you will find exactly seventeen pence in the box."

They counted it, but instead of seventeen their was eighteen pence half-penny. The father was quite puzzled, and went away much distressed, for he could not tell how his little girl had got the other three halfpence.

A day or two after he came back quite satisfied; he had found out that a kind lady who came to see her had given her three half pence to buy an orange to cool her poor parched mouth. The dear little girl first looked at the money, and then at her little box which was close to her bed, and then again at the money; but though her lips were burning with fever she loved Jesus better than herself, and the three halfpence were put into her box; and this was the reason that, when it was opened, instead of seventeen pence, her father found eighteen pence half-penny.

How many little girls are there who love their Lord as this little girl did? What a lesson she taught her little sisters!

Her happiness was bound up in her Saviour, and she was able to prove her love for Him who had done so much for her young soul.

This little story teaches us all, too, that nothing is too small to be dedicated to God. The widow's mite thrown into the treasury was accepted as a rich offering to God, and so, we doubt not, was this little girl's halfpence.

There is no effort so feeble, no offering so small, no gift so poor, that Jesus will not accept it; and the earnest desire to do something for Him will, in itself, bring down a blessing far greater than we could imagine or expect.

TESTIMONIAL TO MESSRS. PUTTNER'S EMULSION COMPANY, HALIFAX, N. S.

Montreal, Jan. 16th, 1882
Last summer my little girl was weak, delicate and nervous, and did not rest well at night. I gave her less than two bottles of your Emulsion, according to directions, and soon after she began to take it she improved very fast in strength, slept well at night and lost much of that nervousness with which she had been troubled, and gained in flesh as well as strength, and has never been so well as since she took a course of your Emulsion.

Yours truly,

THE POOR CONSUMPTIVE!

How eagerly does the Poor Consumptive note every cheering sign—cheering indeed it may be to them, but how delusive, and with what bitter disappointment do they MARK each relapse! The hacking cough racks the emaciated frame, hectic flush that rests upon the sunken cheek, the exhausting night sweats, which so speedily reduces the already waning strength—the accompanied diarrhoea, that so distresses and debilitates—another panting heart, so painfully accelerated upon the slightest exertion—all these are the symptoms which the patient chiefly feels, and the observer chiefly sees. But the physician looks deeper, his keen sight pierces even to the lungs, and traces the disease from its first inception to its fatal termination.

He absorbs the deposit of the first tubercle, and marks out the nature and extent of the subsequent cavity, he sees the suffering patient, and knows that this is DEATH, who has selected another victim; that each sign observed by him is but another impress of his foot; he seeks in vain to hold him back, but he eludes his grasp, and at length he sees the smitten victim born to the grave, from which he (skillful physician though he may be) has been powerless to save. Thus all remedies had proved unsuccessful, and Consumption was deemed incurable, but now HOW GREAT THE CHANGE! within comparatively a short time, a powerful weapon has been placed in the hands of the physician, by means of which he is frequently enabled to beat back DEATH, and restore the patient to health and strength—and this weapon is PUTTNER'S SYRUP, which has also proved of great benefit and useful in kindred diseases, such as Scrophula, Rickets, Chronic Bronchitis, General Debility, etc.

The use of the HYPOPHOSPHITES, or PUTTNER'S SYRUP, is endorsed by the leading and highest medical authorities in this and the old country, which will be seen by a pamphlet published on this subject.
