OBITUARY!

DEATH OF REV. FATHER SEXTON. By the lamented death of the Rev. James

Patrick Sexton, on the 22ud inst., the Roman Catholic clergy of Quebec lose one of their brightest ornaments and the poor and lowly one of their best friends. In the fullest sense one of most sense of the words, Father Sexton was a minister of God. Charmable to a fault, zealous and of God. Charlago, to a taut, zealous and indefatigable in an extraordinary degree, he went about during his short span of life humbly doing his Maker's work and the numbry doing he did in his quiet, unobstruamount of good he did in the quiet, unbest to sive way is said by those who know best to have been simply incalculable. It would be impossible within newspaper limits to do justice to the life work of this worthy Irish priest, whose career has been so mercilessly cut short by the inexorable hand of death. But we may briefly say that he was the beau ideal of the Irish Soggarth Aroon. Though it was not his lot to be brought more directly in sontact with his own people, he loved them with an all abiding love and never lost an opportunity of advancing their interests, spiritual and temporal, in so interests, spiritual and temporal, in so far as in him laid. He sought them ett, where affliction or death weighed heavely upon them, soothed them with loving words of comfort and cheer, and even ministered to the relief of their wants out of his own scanty packet. Not a few young men of Irish birth in this community, too, owe him the benefits of education, and some have even attained to the honor of the priesthood through his support and encouragement. By the French Canadian people of St. Rochs, however, among whom his sacred ministry was of necessity more largely exer sized in consequence of his connection as Ficaire with So. Roch's church, he was vir in that church yesterday when his death was alluded to by the cure, and the immense crowds flocking to the General Hospital to pay their last tribute of affection to his resins amply testify to this fact. By the poor of that congregation his loss will be especially felt. His life work was among them, and his last wishes, which were that he should be buried among them without ostentation, showed the depth and the genuineness of his showed the depth and the genthelies of his love. Father Sexton was born on the 8th January, 1845, at St. Nicholas, Levis, and was the son of Mr. John Sexton, of that place, who survives him at the patriarchal age of 86 years, and of the late Britisher Peebles. He was educated at the Quebes Minor Seminary, studied theology at the Grand Seminury, and was priested on the 26th May, 1872, being, we believe, the first to receive holy orders at the hands of the present Archbishop of Quebec. He was immediately named Vicaire at St. Roch's in succession to the late lamented Father further bore fruit in the foundation of L'Union St. Joseph and the Month of November for the souls in Purgatory. Although broken down in health, he performed his many self imposed duties up to the 1st July last, when by the advice of his physicians and almost the command of his ecclesiastical superiors he retired to the General hospital, where he pined away until relieved by death on Friday night would the surroundings and with all the consolations of the Church, for which he had worked so faithfully and well. His last months of life were soothed by the loving care and attention of the good nuns of the General Hospital. The widespreud esteem in which the deceased priest was hold is fully proven by the crowds which have flocked since Saturday to the hospital to drop a tear upon his bier and offer up a prayer for his soul, as well as by the wealth of floral decorations and other tributes of the same kind sent into his memory by the General Hospital, L'Union St. Joseph, Cercle Catholique, Curé and colleagues of St. Roch's, Sacred Heart Convent, &2., &c.-R.I.P. -Quebec Telegraph.

A FRUITFTL SEASON.

The fruitful season of the year is prolific with many forms of Bowel Complaints, such as Diarrhoes Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, &c. As a safe guard and positive cure for those distressing and often sudden and dangerous attacks nothing can surpass that old and reliable medicine, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

PICKLED CUCUMBERS. - Choose large cucumbers, but before the seeds are ripe; cut them into slices about one-quarier of an inch thick and lay them upon a hair sieve. Between every layer of slices put two shalots and sprinkle over them a little salt; let them stand for about five hours to drain thus, and put them into a stone jar. Boil as much strong vinegar as will cover them, with a blade or two of mace, a tew white pepper corns, a little sliced ginger and some scraped horseradish; pour these boiling hot upon the slices of cusumber. Let them stand till cold and then repeat the process three times more, taking care that the cucumous are cold be toally idolised, and the intense feeling evoked | tween each. PRESERVED PEACHES WITHOUT SPIRITS. Choose the fruit before it is too ripe, peel it, take out the stones, and if liked cut them in halves or quarters. Add equal quantities of sugar and fruit, and half a glass of water to each pound of sugar. Bring it to the hoil and skim well; then add the peaches to this syrup, and boil gently for about half an hour They should still be in good shape; take them cut, put them in pots, and when you have boiled down the syrup quite take pour it over the peaches. Some persons, when they have peeled and cut the fruit, plunge them into a basin of hotling water and let them soak in it for two or three hours. This will soften them so that they need only be boiled in the syrup for a few minutes afterward, and will keep their shape better.

CREAM CHEESE -Lay a piece of book muslin in a small sieve, and gently fill the sieve with the sour cream taken off the cream crocks when ready for churning; place a bit bhorry, and this position he filled to the hour of his death. He was later on appointed Chaplain of the Marine Hospital, and, in this position also made himself respected and heloved by all classes and creeds. His religious zeal further hore fruit in the foundation of Ullinian ful of lukewarm water and set it on the kit chen channey piece all night. Next morning mix a quart of cream, two quarts of milk warn from the cow, two saltspoons of salt and the rennet; mix it thoroughly; set it on the hearth, but not too near a not fire. In two hours the cream will be solid, when it is ready. Ladle this cream in the same manner as if it were off crocks set ready for churning, into a large sieve with muslin inside it, fold the muslin over, put a weight on; draw out the rennet which should have thread attached for the purpose, and laid over the edge of the mug place a raft made of straw or of rushes on sticks haid across a deep dish, and upon this raft the mould, whether a square tin without top or bottom, or a bottomless round sieve. Ladle the solid cream into the mould. having muslin lining in it, fold the muslin over, put the state on with a small weight. As soon as it has run all the whey and is sufficiently solid to turn out of the mould without falling in pieces (which will be in a day or two), turn it out on to a dry piece of muslin and place it on a raft. The raft may now stand across a shallow dish, as it will not run very much more whey. Next day place a dry muslin on another raft, turn the cheese on to it, and thus turn it on to dry muslin placed on one of the two rafts every day till it begins to look downy on the outside, when it is ready to cat. The simplest, easiest and least expensive way is that first mentioned, of filling a small sieve; but a superior cheese is the Pontesbury, and it looks best as an oblong square, having been haved in the mold with rates only for ten PROF. It looks very well when dished upon a rush raft and surrounded by green leaves on the edge of the dish.

LOW PRICES FOR BUTTER.

The New York Tribune in its market report, explained why some butter is sold for port, explained why some butter is sold for such low prices. In speaking of butter it said: "Light colored goods are very hard to dispose of and several lots were thought well sold at 8 to 10 cents." If butter makers would get the top prize, they should use the Improved Butter Color, made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. It gives a pure dandelion color and never turns red, or rancid, but tends to improve and preserve the butter. the butter.

No more wires can be stretched over the housetops in New York City.
