In order to prepare for answering that question, this article reviews peace proposals that have been made in the interim period, 1982 - 1988. By "peace proposals" we mean, in this connection, proposals that have to do with disarmament and arms control, or with strengthening the United Nations, since these are the two main pillars of peace. We will take into account both governmental and non-governmental proposals; those implemented or merely proposed; unilateral, bilateral, and multilateral plans; long-range and short-range; and
