

Panorama itself will be found sufficient, mainly, for the object in view: viz., that of condensing much important matter within a very small space. In the selection of materials for description, he has, in addition to his own observations, availed himself of the various reliable sources of information to which he has had access. He has made free use of an excellent work, published in the form of a Hand-book, by R. W. S. Mackay, Esq.

To difference of taste, and a necessary limit to the extent of the work, must be assigned any apparent omissions, which those conversant with the scenery of the St. Lawrence may observe.

STANSTEAD, C. E., Oct. 25, 1856.

T
sens
thos
circ
conf
dista
of w

W
spec
is so
woul
the l
lived
Dani
voic
chor
duce
comp
diapa
maje
pipes
TH