Chicago Pit Faced Holiday and Traders Sold Wheat Heavily-Big Increase in Stocks-Peace Proposals in Balkans Aided

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 -- Wheat today sagged to nearly the lowest point this the Turkish war had a good deal to do with taking the snap out of the market. Closing prices were weak, 1 1-8c to 1 3-8c under last night. Corn finished 7-8c to 1 1-8c down, oats at decline

In oats also values touched a new level for this week. Weakness of other grain led to a break, which in turn brought about not a little export trade.
Aftho provisions opened firmer because of an advance at the yards, the market soon weakened under the influence of cheaper cereals.

American cables were better than expected. Estimtees are for greatly reduced world's shipments this week other than American and Russian is offering less freely with much uncertainty regarding the political situation. Immediately following the opening prices declined 3/6d to 1/6d with prominent outside selling, due largely to private advices received here confirming our cable of yesterday that the recent storm in Argentine did little or no damage. There was a quiet demand for cargoes, spot markets were easy, and the weather in the United Kingdom favorable.

Wheat.—Officials of the Chicago Board of Trade, having voted to hold no session tomorrow because of the funeral of the late Vice-President Sherman, the trade began looking ahead later in the session, and to some extent anticipating a possible weak and infestived feeling among speculative holders during the Monday session just preceding the general election. This sort of feeling had something to do with extreme weakness last hour. Extreme heaviness in coarse grains probably added to pressure on the seiling side of wheat.
