about 7 o'clock and heard there had been a row and that Curtis had had his head cut open and that the house was deserted. He then went up to the new place in King-street, and when his mother arrived there helped her to put up bedsteads while deceased went down to see about the stove. When his mother left he went too. Before his mother went, Curtis, deceased and the expressman had gone down for the stove.

When he got to the Parliament-street house, door was nailed up, so he climbed through a fanlight, but came right out again. He and his mother had waited 20 minutes when the sleigh with the men arrived. He was positive Curtis was on the sleigh. Corrigan got out and the sleigh moved up the street. He climbed through a window into the house and witness followed. Corrigan went to Healey's apartments and rapped at the door. The door opened and Corrigan was felled with an axe in the hands of Healey. Not a word was said until after the first blow, when Corrigan was felled with an axe in the hands of Healey. Who was the Revolver?

The next witness was Cornelius Curtis. He told of his movements during the day and of Healey's assault upon him with a bar of iron when he had remonstrated with him regarding the detention of the stove. Witness said that it was only about 5 o'clock, when Corrigan came to the house and then Mrs. Corrigan told him about Healey trying to keep the stove.

Cerrigan spoke to' Healey about it, and the latter replied, "its soon as you bring back the sheet you have of mine, I will give up the stove." Witness then went to the kitchen door and said, "Jim, you better give up the stove; it ain't worth having any struck him on the head with an iron. Shown the three hatchets by Detective Duncan, he thought it was the smallest one that Healey threatened to strike him with.

Witness said that he had never seen the revolver found on Healey till last night, and then it was in the hands of Detective Duncan. He did not know who owned the revolver. He had heard Mrs. Corrigan say she had one, but he never saw it.

To Mr. Raney Curtis said he was not at the house when Corrigan met his death, and admitted having been drinking during the day, although none of the parties concerned were the worse for liquor when he last saw them.

To Mr. Hearn witness said that he was present when Corrigan asked Healey, in the presence of a policeman, to return the stove.

"Barkest Russia" Coming.

That attractive and most pleasing play, "Darkest Russia," will be seen at the Toronto Opera House for one week, beginning Monday evening next.

This popular attraction is replete with all the elements of success. It tells an interesting story, is mounted and costumed beautifully and is full of bright and mirth provoking comedy. The play treats on Russian every day life and shows scenes ranging from the luxurious palace at St. Petersburg to the Siberian mines. Covering such an extended field and dealing with such a variety of character the scope affords great opportunity for elaborate mounting. Of this the management has taken advantage and "Darkest Russia" is produced on a scale seldom seen in romantic plays. Every set is carried and tons of scenery and mechanical features are utilized in staging the production. A large and thoroughly artistic company tells the story and it can truly be said that in every particular "Darkest Russia" is a play well worthy of the success which it has achieved.

THE EASTERN SCHEDULE. TORONTO TO OPEN THE SEASON AT

SYRACUSE, And Buckenberger's Team Will be Home Before the Middle of May-The Style of

Players That Win Games-On the Fining System-A Springfield Paper Say

President Patsy Powers writes that he is just now busy with the Eastern schedule, which will come out shortly. Patrons of the game here will see the new team this year pretty early, as they will return home after playing six games abroad—at Syracuse and Rochester.

The season will open soon after the first of May, with Toronto at Syracuse, Enfalo at Rochester, Providence at Springfield and Scranton at Wilkesbarre. After a series of three games Toronto will go to Rochester and Buffalo to Syracuse. Then the Eastern clubs will come west and and one of them will be guests of the Toronto Club over the Don.

He Wanted an Extra Outfielder.

Messrs. Buckenberger and Chapman were indulging in reminiscences while in Toronto the other day. The ex-manager told of a certain proprietor, not 1000 miles away from Toronto, who talked of starting the season with nine men, when the new manager related an Oshkosh incident. The proprietor was new to the business, and had a bare team signed for the opening championship game. He was a good sportsman, however, and would do anything legitimately to win. Everything went along favorably until the seventh, with Oshkosh several runs to the good, when bunched hits, that all went to the left centre, placed their opponents on even terms. Then the linnocent magnate rushed up to his manager, pointed to the territory in the outfield between centre and left, and suggested:

"Don't you think we had better sign an-"Don't you think we had better sign an-her man for out there?"

Buck Likes Toronto.

Buckenberger has returned to Pittsburg, and says he is much pleased with the prospects of a winning and paying team. He now has 19 players under contract, including the five given him by the Pittsburg Club, a list of which was given here last Monday. Buck says with that aggregation he ought to come very near winding his grasp. in the folds of the Eastern League pennant.

Buckenberger smiled in a way which denoted genuine amusement when asked by The Times man what he thought of Walter Wilmot's plan of fining baseball managers when their players prove refractory. Said Buck: "That is Wilmot's first. He is new as a manager now. He will not be talking that way a year from now. Why, a few players, if they had it in for their manager, could eat up his whole salary in fines, according to Wilmot's arrangement. He says Anson makes his players stay back when he disputes a point with the umpire. Well, there are some men you can't very easily keep out of the game at any stage, and I notice there are always half a dezen Chicago players standing about to back up Anson's kicks.

In the Game to Win.

"What could a manager do? Fine his players? Well, there are some players you can't manage that way, and, as I sand, there are some you couldn't keep out of the game with any number of fines. They go into the game to win, and they never think of anything eige. Jack O'Con-

They go into the game to win, and they never think of anything else. Jack O'Connor is of that kind, and Jack Doyle, and Brodle, Kelly and McGraw of Baltimore. Fine Brodle, and he would sulk all the rest of the season. The only way the Baltimore players get along with Brodle is to agree to pay no attention to him. He can say what he pleases. Nobody minds. So he plays excellent ball. The same with O'Connor. Tebeau never pays any attention to O'Connor if Jack calls down every man in the team. After a game O'Connor is as nice a man as you want to meet."

is as nice a man as you want to meet."

Why the Irish are Goed Players.

Buckenberger is evidently an admirer of the scrappy style of play. He says it not only wins games, but draws the crowds. He believes that obseene and profane language should be rigidly suppressed, and that "dirty" ball playing should not be allowed, but, aside from that, that anything should go. "Look at Philadelphia," said he. "Now a team like that, from the same State, should be the star attraction in Pittsburg. But it is not. Simply because the people do not care to go and see them play Sunday school ball."

Buck says, if he could have his choice, he would bick a scrappy man 9 times out of 10. The says that man is the one who is thoroughly interested in whining, and advances the theory that their rishle proclivities have more than anything else to do with the fact that most great ball players are Irishmen.

Bennelly for Toronto.

Donnelly for Toronto.

Donnelly, the cracking third baseman and captain of the champion Springfields, has just passed through a series of deals and barters. Louisville drafted him conditionally and then decided not to take him. Tom Burns secured his signature to a Springfield contract at a slight increase in salary, but found on returning home that Hanion had drafted Donnelly for Baitimore, and thus the Springfield Union smells a rat. It doesn't see how Hanion can use Donnelly unless he puts Scrappy McGaw aside, and such a course he thinks would give Baltimore cranks connipton fits. They key to the odor of slick work somewhere appears in Jack Chapman's announcement of the Baltimore deal before it had taken place. Chapman sold the Toronto franchise to Buckenberger; Buckenberger and Tom Burns are not on good terms with each other, and the plausible inference drawn by the Springfield writer is that Donnelly will be released by Baltimore to Toronto, Then what will become of Jud Smith? Donnelly for Toronto.

The annual general meeting of the 'Varsity Basebail Club was held yesterday afternoon in the University gymnasium, President Peat in the chair. A. E. Boyle, secretary-treasurer, read the reports, all of which were of a most satisfactory nature. Prof. Alfred Baker was elected honorary president J. B. Peat president and Frank Woodard secretary-treasurer. A good board of councillors from the different classes was chosen, and it was decided to appoint the manager and captain in April.

It was one of the most enthusiastic meetings in the history of the club, over 30 being in attendance. Among the men who will don the 'Varsity uniform this spring are: Art Campbell, last year's captain; Hutchinsin of last season's 'Varsity and Galt; Bnrnet, of last season's 'Varsity and Galt; Bnrnet, of last season's 'Varsity and Galt teams; Stratton and Barron, also of last year's team, and Mackalie of Rochester, a freshman with a great reputation in the pitcher's box.

It was the opinion of the meeting that a trip should be taken, and it was decided to instruct the secretary to communicate with Cornell and arrange a game for Ithaca in June. A number of other outside games will be played, besides the club will take in all the best city clubs as soon as the snow clears away.
