Fifty-Year Struggle For Markets Comes To An End

AVENUE OPENED

Amherst M. P. Visions New Arrangement as Only Start of Expansion

Ottawa, at the close of a conference of elegates from the islands and the Hance J. Logan, M. P. for Cumber-

Mr. Logan, who was the special com missioner sent by the Federal govern ment last winter from Canada to in possibilities in the West India Islands said that he was highly pleased with it STRUGGLE ENDS.

The agreement brought to an en the 50-year-old struggle of the Maritime facturers of Ontario in their home market and the markets farther west. Ontario could produce as cheaply as can the Maritime Provinces, and there has been a fruitless and dissatisfying effort on the part of business men here to sell at a competing price in spite of the additional freight rates, Mr. Logan said. By the agreement a start was made. The natural avenue for Maritime Province trade, namely, by see, was opened, and the reaction should be seen shortly after the terms of the agreement are made effective.

ONLY BEGINNING Mr. Logan also expressed the opinion that the agreement was but a start in the export trade and that with the expansion of industry to fill the wants of the islands, there should be a further searching out of markets in countries similarly situated and which have not the same natural resources so ily made available here.

The report points out that before the war Britain invested large sums of countries receiving in return orders for British goods. This has now almost disappeared owing to high taxation and dustrial depression while the tremendous sums spent on social relief such as doles and pensions which have stim-ulated the home trade have militated further against expert trade. It has just been announced in Rome that the Princess Mafalda, second daughter of the King of Italy is betrothed to Prince Philip

TAX CUT URGED TAX CUT URGED

The federation now asks if it is not possible to reduce national taxation by 15 or 20 per cent. in order to provide more money for trade expansion and development and for investment abroad where it is hoped to create a demand for British goods. The report now published is only another indication of the possimism which is settling over the country perticularly in the north.

New industries are prospering but old industries are overgrown with the fungus of inefficiency and weighed down with the superfluous charges of middlemen's costs and their plight is truly deplorable.

BALDWIN PRAISED Premier Baldwin is now credited with the firmest intention of employing a progressive tariff policy to shelter staple industries and Joynson Hicks revealed what is in the Prime Minister's mind. The iron and steel trades are likely to get the first benefits of this policy but there will be a great outcry against any form of subsidy from the Liberal strongholds. Government action however is needed to avert the present crisis

The Morning Post comments on the report that Australia intends to go to the New York market for its next loan and regrets the departure from the time honored practise of floating loans in London. Such facts as these it says are compelling bankers and industrialists to take a serious view of the situation.
