

THE LOVE LIGHT
LITTLE MARY'S BEST

Wonderful Italian Peasant Story at Imperial Generally Thought to be Noted Star's Richest Contribution to the Screen.

We know what effects the late war had upon the families of Canada. We also have some idea of the havoc it made in American homes, British households and others near and dear to us, but to see pictured tender scenes of Italian peasant life when the Hun was invading that land and King Victor Emmanuel's brave boys were standing him off valiantly, is indeed an interesting diversion, a distinct study. Such in brief is the story of "The Love Light" the exquisite Mary Pickford eight-reel feature now attracting Easter crowds to the Imperial Theatre. The whole atmosphere of this story of Frances Marion's is Italian, the home life of the simple fisher-folk of the Adriatic, living along a jagged shore where relentless sun burns into one's countenance the briny spray of the frothing combers. Here is laid the sweetest fiction the movies have presented in months, a story of two orphan boys and their sister, boys who answered the bugle's call, a girl who stayed at home and did their work. One of these tasks was keeping the coastal lighthouse. It was while engaged in this phase of her daily labors she found an exhausted stranger on the shore, driven on to the strand by the surge. She took the "American" in, fed him, loved him, married him. Then the him, disillusionment. He was a German spy and he was using her lighthouse for "love" messages to guide the Kaiser's submarines. How the German faced once the villagers learned the truth, what became of the soldier brothers, how Mary was robbed of her baby, the return of the Italian "lover" and the monstrous climax of the "love" village as a beacon in a storm, all enter into a film story that has been called for a long time, if equalled. It is truly a story of compelling and heart appeal. Thousands upon tens of dollars are represented most in the construction of the village accessories and the strange layers—that is people who are noticed in pictures—kept the constant alertness to drink in screen presents an entirely new record in order that the pic-

DONT PAY A BIG PRICE FOR FOOD

The most expensive food is generally the poorest in real nutriment. Considering its high nutritive value, Shredded Wheat Biscuit is without doubt the cheapest food in the world today. It contains all the rich muscle-making elements in the whole wheat grain. The price was not pushed up on account of the war so we don't have to come down. Shredded Wheat contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs, and costs much less. Two Biscuits served with hot milk make a warm, nourishing meal for the cold days. Delicious with sliced bananas or other fruits. MADE IN CANADA
