REAL ESTATE NEWS

King Street East Transaction—
Purchases Completed—The Sugar Refinery

The handsome brick residence on the corner of King street east and Crown street with grounds including the whole block between King street east and Leinster street to the east of Crown street, owned by T. Amos Godsoe has been purchased by Christopher J. Kane, of Kane & McNeill.

D. B. Pidgeon has completed the purchase of the residence and 7 3/4 acres of land belonging to Mrs. Louise Hethington in Main street, Fairville, opposite the site of Messrs. Simms' new factory.

T. P. Charlebois of Ottawa, who secured an option on thirty-seven building lots in Douglas Avenue last week, has completed the purchase. Charlebois is associated with Michael Connolly in the contract for the construction of the new wharves at West St. John and it is anticipated to remove the rock from the lots for use in their building operations and when this is done the lots will be greatly improved in value.

H. J. Anderson, who has been in Montreal in connection with negotiations for the sale of some St. John real estate, returned home on Saturday. He was accompanied by a Montreal man who is looking over some of the properties in which Mr. Anderson is interested and who seems very favorably impressed.

Mr. Anderson was in touch, while in Montreal, with the men who have taken over the charter of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Ltd., and who have organized the company and secured the capital required to go ahead with the work. They are looking for a location here and if a suitable place can be found it is possible that St. John may secure this big industry after all.

An important real estate transaction in what is, so far, a new district for the real estate operators, took place today when I. Chester Brown gave an option to Wm. Hawker and A. C. Jardine on the Millidge property of the golf links and fronting on Rockland Road. The land includes 93 3/4 acres. The amount involved is said to be large.

WHITZMAN SAYS THE LIQUOR POLICE FOUND WAS NOT FOR SALE

Mill Street Case, Police Court—
Had it to Treat Sunday Guests

In the police court this morning four prisoners charged with drunkenness were fined $8 each. Arthur Parke, arrested on charge of fighting in Carleton Place, today pleaded. One prisoner, arrested on drunkenness charge pleaded not guilty and was remanded into custody for further hearing.

A case against Myer Whitzman of Mill street, charged with keeping liquor for sale on his premises, went on for hearing this morning. The police visited his place on Saturday and found four bottles of liquor. He contended that the bottles were his and that he had never sold any to Israel Corber.

Charles Brager swore that he knew the defendant and was in his home quite frequently. He had never bought nor had he ever seen anybody buying liquor in the house. He had one small drink in the same house about six months ago. The case was adjourned until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock in order to have more witnesses present.

The case of Mark Carey, also charged with violating the liquor act will be brought up this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FEBRUARY KINDERGARTEN REPORT

Following the snow thought, which takes up the story of snow, the details about the snowflakes and the snowflakes, the pleasures of coasting, etc., comes the story of the life of the Benjamin. The story of their snow and ice houses, their dress, occupation, general mode of living, traveling and obtaining food, caught and held the attention of the children, and they worked hard, outside the kindergartens building a real igloo. For the occupation work they painted the Benjamin in his furs and yellow moccasins; folded and cut out sleds, polar bears, seals and dogs; drew the sledges for the igloo, the sleds; and modelling in plasticine.

The lumbermen getting the logs cut ready to be hauled out of the logs cut the next subject and they built log-houses with sticks, painted oxen drawing the sleds, modelled logs and trees.

Valentine day was duly celebrated. The story of good old St. Valentine was related, leaving the impression of good, pretty valentines—loving and friendly. The children made very fine ones and enjoyed having a post-box and a real post-man to deliver them.

The story of St. Valentine paved the way for the Knights' thought which was taken up next. No subject so completely absorbed the children's interest as the knights. The larger boys who were becoming restless and perhaps troublesome seemed to do wrong after they heard of the knights. The stories of the bravery and chivalry of the olden time appealed to them, and they thoroughly enjoyed the days of the knights. In one game they each chose a lady who pinned a bow of work they painted the Benjamin in his furs and yellow moccasins; folded and cut out sleds, polar bears, seals and dogs; drew the sledges for the igloo, the sleds; and modelling in plasticine.

The boys took care of the little girls all morning, carrying their chairs and helping them in many ways. They were the knights' caps and cut out the flag, built the castle of the knights from the second gift, outlined the castle with pegs on the peg-board and did many other delightful things, all the while trying to be brave and good. One of Froebel's mother plays has the story of the knights' looking for the good child. The other mother had child is seldom played now, as no child wants to be the bad child. In one kindergarten they took the "tongue" represent the supposed bad child, as every child refused to become the bad child even for the few minutes of the play.

Mrs. W. C. Matthews held two mothers' meetings during the month addressing the mothers of the little people.

The Association have had to refuse to enrol any more children in North End, as the kindergarten in charge has more now than should be in one room.
