

THREE MYSTIC LINKS

The Brotherhood of Oddfellows Hold Festival

FOR ITS SEVENTY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY

An imposing parade to the theatre this afternoon—visitors from far and near—music and orations before a packed house—glowing exposition of Oddfellowship's Principles.

The members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows are to-day celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of their order. It was really 75 years ago Thursday that Thomas Wilder organized the first lodge on the North American continent at Baltimore, Maryland, but for various reasons it was decided to delay the celebration until to-day. It is unlikely that the founder and those who became interested in the early days of the organization ever imagined that from their efforts would spring the grand fraternal society of the present day. Its growth has been phenomenal, and the British Columbia members can justly feel proud of what has been done in this province, where the total membership is over two thousand at the present time. Of its care for the sick, of its kindly interest in the widow and the orphan, and of its general benevolence, nothing need be said. The facts are well known. It is unfortunate to record that the weather has been such as would dampen almost any kind of enthusiasm, but to their credit the number of visitors is very large, and the lodges almost to a man have turned out and are assisting in the anniversary celebration.

The first delegates and their families and friends arrived on the steamer Premier at 8.30 o'clock last night. There were 175 members of the order, including members of Mount Pleasant lodge, No. 19; Pacific, No. 26; Western Star, No. 10, and Nanaimo, No. 8. The visitors were met and welcomed by the following reception committee: Bro. A. Henderson, P. W. Dempster, Phillips, B. A. Anderson, Stewart and Jackson; Sisters Carme, Dempster and Phillips.

The next visiting brethren to arrive came at 11 o'clock this morning on a special train of three coaches from Wellington and Nanaimo. Harmony lodge, No. 6, of Wellington, had the largest number in the party, and was accompanied by the Wellington brass band. There were also members of other lodges in Wellington and Nanaimo and that vicinity. Many of the members were accompanied by their families, and there were fully 200 in the party. The last visitors arrived at noon from Fort Angeles in the steamer Garland. There were about 30 members of the order as well as other visitors. They were met by the members of the reception committee and other Oddfellows, and while it was out of the question to attempt to visit any of the points of interest about the city, every possible attention was shown them.

The hopes and prayers for fair weather, this afternoon were evidently disappointed, for the drifting rain, which occasionally increased to sharp showers, kept falling without lull. The parade formed at Oddfellows' hall on Douglas street, which by 1.30 o'clock was crowded with members in regular, high top, and Anderson lost little time in starting the march. The different lodges formed on Government street south of Yates, and fell into line in the order announced a few days ago, which was as follows: 1. Canton Militant. 2. Subordinate Lodges. 3. Subordinate Encampments. 4. Grand Encampment. 5. Grand Lodges.

The B. C. B. G. A. band, headed by Leader Finn, was in the van of the procession. They wore the regulation uniforms and presented a splendid appearance. They played some very pretty marches. The Canton followed, and it seemed wrong to bring those splendid chaplains and handsome uniforms out in the rain and mud. The local lodges and encampments, the members of which were out in force, followed, then the visiting lodges, and last the grand encampment and grand lodge. All in line were either badges or regalia, and walked in twos and fours. The line of march was via Douglas street to Government, Government to Fort, and Fort to the Victoria theatre. The line of march, particularly on the principal streets, was crowded with people.

The Victoria theatre presented shortly before three o'clock an appearance at once unusual and brilliant. The members of the order in their gorgeous regalia and uniforms lent it a gay and festive aspect that contrasted picturesquely with the ordinary motley of the general visitors. Upon the stage, in semi-circular formation, sat as distinguished a looking phalanx of leading Oddfellows as the boards of Victoria theatre ever held. They were: Chairman, A. Henderson; T. G. Gray, grand master, Vancouver; W. E. Holmes, deputy grand master; F. Davey, grand treasurer; H. Walker, E. C. M., representative; R. Roberts, P. G. M., representative; J. E. Phillips, P. G. M.; F. Carme, P. G. M.; J. E. Phillips, P. G. M.; M. New Westminister, presiding officer of subordinate encampments and subordinate lodges; Rev. Barber, chaplain; Rev. McMillan of Vancouver and Mr. J. McMillan of Victoria, orators of the day; Victoria Canton, No. 1, P. M., under command of Captain W. E. Holmes.

The glitter of gold and flash of steel scabbards and sword hilts, the waving of purple and crimson plumes and the rattle of martial air of the members had a most pleasing effect. In the program of the order in Baltimore. The magnificent body of men, the remainder of the theatre was literally choc-a-bloc from the footlights to the stary region sacred to the mortal gods, a sea of human faces was visible.

At three p.m. the chairman, A. Henderson, rose and announced that the proceedings would begin with the singing of the opening ode. This was most impressively done, and the Rev. Mr. Barber then offered up a short, earnest prayer.

Following this Chairman Henderson made his address of welcome. He said they had assembled to-day to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the founding of the order in Baltimore. The magnitude to which the order had since grown proved that it must be a good organization. It had spread all over North America and Europe and was flourishing grandly.

Bro. McMillan, of Mount Pleasant lodge, Vancouver, was the first orator. He regretted the absence of Messrs. Demosthenes, Cicero and Daniel Webster, who achieved considerable notoriety as orators, but he would not yield to them in his feeling of earnestness and appreciation of this occasion. Bro. McMillan's speech was humorous enough to call forth a good deal of laughter and applause. His discourse upon the prevailing poverty in Vancouver, and his remarks about Victoria's dull time were appreciated. Nothing sectarian was admitted to the lodges of this order. Men of all sects and conditions met in the presence of the three links and clasped hands as brothers. This order stood for everything that was noble and helpful and worthy. He then gave a short description of the aims, objects and work of the Odd Fellows order in a very forcible and interesting manner. The order did not claim that it had attracted all the goodness or usefulness on earth, but it had nobly done its share in the good works of the world. Odd Fellowship did not mean the championship of the wrong even in an Odd Fellow, it supported only what was right and true. As a chain was only as strong as its weakest link, so when the link of truth was broken the other two could bear no weight. Touching upon the question of immortality he drew a glowing picture of the eventual culmination of Odd Fellowship into universal brotherhood. Odd Fellowship was a great moral force sent into the world for good. It was not a religious body, but the members should never forget its great power for morality and good. Let every Odd Fellow cherish and ever act upon the legend of the three links. That man was a poor Odd Fellow who was not a better husband, a better father, a better son and a better man for being an Odd Fellow. Let them be, in and out of the lodge, consistent Odd Fellows.

Grand Master T. G. Gray, of Vancouver, next spoke and thanked the meeting for their kind welcome to himself and fellow townsmen. The chairman announced that it had been decided to appeal to the assembled Odd Fellows to present to assist by their contributions a fund to build an Odd Fellows' home in this province. These homes were in existence throughout America. All brothers who could see their way clear to donate a small sum could do so and it would be forwarded to the general fund in Vancouver in the hands of the grand lodge. This fund is to be used where large enough to build the home. The collection was taken up to mark the meeting to-day. Five collectors were sent through the house, and the hats were heavy with silver and gold and their collectors considerably when the collectors rounded up at the reporters' table and began to count the cash. The hand played an appropriate offertory during the collectors' jaunt. A pleasing programme of music and speeches followed.

Brother John McMillan, of Acme lodge of this city, was the next speaker. He opened by referring to the joyful occasion they were gathered to observe. Though the weather and the strength of the order were great he said he would not refer to these facts or quote any figures to convince his hearers of the truth of the argument he would advance. He said that 75 years ago was almost an unbroken wilderness, and proceeded to contrast that time with the present. He told of monuments which the people of the continent had raised, chief of which were the great monuments erected by the British Empire. He told of the mistakes of man and spoke warning words for the future. There were frequent interruptions of applause and the speaker was still on the platform when the time went to rest.

To-night at Assembly hall there will be a ball for Oddfellows only. Dancing will begin at 7.30 o'clock and terminate at 11.30 o'clock. It is the intention of the celebration committee for arranging and managing a very successful celebration.

Victoria lodge, No. 1, Bro. Flewin and Stewart; Columbia lodge, No. 2, Bro. P. W. Dempster and D. H. Anderson; Dominion lodge, No. 4, Bro. Anderson and Kinnaird; Acme lodge, No. 14, Bro. McKenzie and Jackson; Victoria Canton, Bro. Henderson; Victoria Encampment, Bro. Phillips and W. Dempster; Rebekah, Sisters Carme, Dempster and Phillips. Chairman, P. G. Bro. A. Henderson; secretary, Bro. W. Mackenzie.

THE SEALING Muddle. Can Unwarned Sealers If Seized Be Held Answerable to the Law? H. M. S. Pheasant got away last evening on her mission of warning the sealers to cease sealing in prohibited waters on Monday. There is much speculation as to the number she can reach before the close season opens and also as to whether she will become a patrol vessel for Monday and seize any vessels caught sealing in prohibited waters.

Captain May stated to the sealers yesterday that he was instructed to seize any schooner caught breaking the new Behring sea act. He did not undertake to explain the little inconsistency which now presents itself. The British government undertakes to warn the sealers, but makes such a late start that it is unreasonable to suppose all can be located and spoken before the time when sealing becomes illegal, and issues orders at the same time to seize all caught sealing at the hour when it does become illegal. This appears to be administered by the law with a little luck and chance thrown in. A legal position is that the seizure of an unwarned vessel will be held by the admiralty courts to be illegal and will not stand. If the costs could be collected there would be some consolation in it.

The schooners warned will all return to port and many of them will try the sea after July 31. Application will probably be made for permission to allow schooners to leave port and go to Sand Point late in July in order to give them a chance to make the sea in reasonable time after August 1. If they are kept at Victoria they will be from ten to thirty days running up to the passes in the Aleutian islands, and after August 1 there is nearly six weeks of sealing. There will probably be no trouble in getting the privilege desired. It is believed that the few sealers who sail on coast fleet will have 500 skins by May 1st.

ANGRY CREDITORS MEET.

Green, Worlock & Co., Creditors Ask the Court to Remove

ASSIGNEES HEISTERMAN AND COLTART

From the List of Assignees of the Deposit Bank and Appoint in Their Stead Hon. Robert Beaven—Plain Ideas Plainly Spoken.

At a meeting of the creditors of Green, Worlock & Co. held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last night a resolution was passed asking the court to erase the names of Messrs. Heisterman and Coltart from the list of assignees of the suspended bank, and to appoint in their stead the Hon. Robert Beaven. There were over seventy creditors present at the meeting, and many of them held proxies. The moneyed interest represented was over $120,000. The meeting had been called for seven o'clock, but it was not until eight o'clock that the proceedings began. None but creditors were admitted to the meeting with the exception of representatives of the two daily papers. At the door was a gentleman with a desk and writing materials, and he took down the name of each person entering the room and inspected the credentials of deposit receipts. This was done so that in case it was required a sworn statement of the persons present and the moneyed interest represented could be given.

Noah Shakespeare was called to the chair and J. H. Brown was elected secretary. The chairman said that he was sorry to again trouble the creditors to meet together, but the indirect cause of the assignees to the wishes of the creditors. He read the notice calling the meeting, reviewed the action of the previous meeting when Hon. Robert Beaven was nominated; told the meeting how a number of creditors had waited on the assignees and asked their action they were going to take, and then read the letter from the trustees to Chairman Hayward. He said a portion of the letter was an intimation that Mr. Beaven, the trustee, had a good fat bill and they wanted to keep it. (Cheers.) A few of the creditors, acting on behalf of the many, had consulted with Mr. Bodwell, and upon his advice a set of resolutions would be presented to the meeting. The resolution petitioned the court to appoint Mr. Beaven and drop from the trusteeship Mr. Heisterman and Mr. Coltart. The application to the courts would not complicate the affairs of the bank, and would not involve the creditors in any expensive litigation. The assignees had not paid the least attention to the creditors. They had ignored the last resolution and would not give them information. Mr. Kinsman and Mr. Smith had asked for a copy of the list of creditors, or, if it was objected to making a copy, these gentlemen volunteered to make a copy themselves. They were refused on the flimsy excuse that it would not be to the benefit of the estate. The creditors had been mild and patient but they should no longer allow themselves to be ignored. The trustees were the servants of the creditors, not their masters.

Levi W. Myers then moved by Mr. Kinsman that the opinion of the meeting be carried to the court to remove one or more of the present assignees with a view of having some person appointed who will act in the interest of the creditors.

S. Perry Mills argued that in the alternative of the court not seeing fit to depose the trustees and appoint Mr. Beaven in their stead, the court should be asked to appoint a trustee to take the place of one of the trustees of the English trustee act of 1850, gave such power. He would like to have two strings to the bow, so that if he missed one the other might reach the desired spot. Mr. Walls also gave his opinion on certain points, and the resolution was put and carried, there being only two dissenting voices.

Levi W. Myers then read the resolutions which he had introduced. He moved their adoption, seconded by Mr. Kinsman. The resolutions read: Whereas, in the opinion of this meeting, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of the assignees to give to the creditors; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. have neglected to carry out the duty of the court, and to prevent the creditors from being able to control the disposition of the property in such a manner as to secure the best interests of the estate; and Whereas, the assignees of the estate of Green, Worlock & Co. to the present trustees were appointed by the court, and the creditors are not in possession of that detailed and accurate information which is the duty of