CHATHAM, - - - DECEMBER 4, 1879. Ministerial Banquet and Speech of OTTAWA, Nov. 27 .- The banquet to Sir John A. Macdonald and other the Rink Music Hall to-night was a Protestant majority. The improvement of Bowell had apologized for the absence of Hon. Mr. Masson, whose health would not permit of his being present,

The chairman said that he had great evening. He had known Sir John A. they start themselves, and which if they Macdonald for a quarter of a century, dared to announce directly they know and during that time had been always they would get the punishment given to proud to recognize him as the leader of all liars. But, sir, at least in the old Pro-Conservative party and as the first | vince of Canada, thanks to the. statesman of the country. (Cheers.) PATRIOTIC AND EXTREME RELIGIOUS VIEWS If he had the power to create a peer of of the Hon. Geo. Brown, thanks to the the realm he would create Sir John an ratriotism by which he considers a earl, and the "Earl of Ottawa," too, for he (Sir John.) had always been a friend of Ottawa. (Cheers.) Sir John A. Macdonald, on rising, was received most enthusiastically; nearly the whole of those present waved their handkerchiefs and cheered for several minutes. Sir John said: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen would be altogether inadequate to express the deep feeling or feelings of gratitude and satisfaction and pride with which my colleagues and myself receive this grand ovation, (Cheers.) I have pleasure, individual pleasure, a pleasure personal to myself apart from my colleagues, in this magnificent demonstration. I cannot forget that in this same month of November, six years ago, the Government of which I their political opposition into personal ness that the attitude of his own viole me, we did not fall alone, thank God; we we have one vast Do stood by us in Parliament stood by us still, and while thinking only of the interests of the party, knowing I had been made the scapegoat, the object of all the attacks, the target for their shots, I called my friends in parliament together and my friends in parliament stood by us the representative of our beloved Sover-eign, and we have responsible Government with perfect political and personal individual freedom and with large swelling friends in parliament together and my friends in my frie said: "Gentlemen my usefulness is gone." (Laughter,) You have heard that phrase, (Laughter and cheers.) "Take another English. When and Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. (Laughter and cheers.) "Take another and a new leader; take a man who has not been made the object of so much obsympt of Iron.

Sage, Sunmer Savory, &c., &c., Essence of Leman, Vanilla, Peppermint, Cloves, and Cinnamon.

Also Perfumery and Toilet Soaps in great variety.

We were down, when we were nushed to seven the idea. (Cheers.) This demonstration from within was followed by an equally magnificent one from without, for when we were nushed no exertion, no expense to advance this magnificent one from without, for when we were down, when we were pushed out, rubbed out of the political category, when our position seemed to be hopeless, then the Conservatives of this city rallied with the formation of the first Governthis, because it was confined to Ottawa best men I could find from the different the defeated, routed, destroyed ministry, as friends: they told us to be of good

"Let us forget the rising sun, We bow to him whose course is run."

You stood by us in adversity and you to our successors. We gave them a have a right to triumph with us in pros-perity. (Cheers.) My friend, Mr. Cur-rier, was deprived of his seat by a techni-where every department was working harment then in power—exercised against the strongest proof that we did so is this, him, believing as that Government did, that if you look on the Statute books since a triumphant majority they sent Mr. Cur- They made some immaterial alteration the policy of the Conservative party.
(Cheers. He joined us then in the cold when we resigned, were in full force in shades of opposition, therefore it is with great pride that I am afforded the opportunity of meeting our Ottawa friends in the day of our triumph as they rallied around me in our misfortune and the day of our defeat. (Cheers.) Now let me a bad crop and grumbling farmers, from 1854 to 1867, when the Dominion was the beginning of a great nation. If Canada rose rapidly from little more than a Crown colony to a great nation it is due to the Conservative party. (Cheera.) can those men who know anything about the history of this country look at the statute book of 1863 and say that the bulk of legislation and of the administration of any consequence has not been passed under a Conservative Government? (Cheers.) We commenced our career by wiping out that great source of strife and contention which caused the rebellion of 1837. We restored peace and concord to Lower Canada by wiping out the feudal rights of the seigniors. We cularged the basis of our education and allayed the in members of the Canadian Cabinet at by giving them fair play when we had a our municipal institutions was granted by After Justice had been done to a a government of which I was a member splendid dinner—Hon. Mr. Skead pre- and we carried all our measures, notwithsiding; after "The Queen," "Prince standing the factious opposition of an unof Wales," "Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise," "The Army and Navy and Militia of Canada" had been toasted, and after Hon. McKenzie opposition as much as having a Governwatched, (great laughter), to be criticized, and in behalf of my friends and party, and on behalf of the present government "Our Guests; Sir John A. bloodshed. That could only, gentlemen, will reach the ears of all this vast audience who have gathered to do honor to my old Province of Canada, and by inviting colleagues and myself, but as my voice is feeble so, my language, if I were heard, one grand Dominion, in one grand Confederation, that these disputes which preceded Confederation would sink in the great question of Confederation, that we should grow out of the sectional hostile condition into which unfortunately Upper and Lower Canada were arrayed, one against the other, thanks to the Protestan press of the Hon. Geo. Brown Gentle. men, we got Confederation and the ques tion has been raised, who first started the was the head fell down to death. By slanderoustongues, (cheers) we were forced from our position, but wrapped ourselves in our mantles and fell, I hope, with dignity, and certainly, without a murmur the statesmen agreed years ago, but it was WE ACCEPTED THE VERDICT, as the then feeling in the country, and those who were politically opposed to us

It was then, gentlemen, that the Hon. and who had, I am sorry to say, carried George Brown for once forgot his factious enmity. (Hear, hear.) I thought that had brought. But look at the journals of when I fell, I fell like Lucifer, never to rise again. (Cheers and laughter.) Ah, sir, but when I fell and my colleagues with tion. I fought for the large idea and now had friends in this country, (cheers); we had friends in this city and those friends try instead of a weakness, supporting the are around me now. (Cheers.) You were no fair weather friends. You could say:- | growth and development. We have this that in the year 1879, 5.000,000 of people in our great country are represented by When we retired, the friends who had

They treated us, Provinces and the proof that the best were selected is this, that they still are the honored representatives of the several courage; they said that had been raised against us and the diabolical treacheries (cheers) which had been exercised against us would meet their just

Provinces. (Cheers.) After six long years of trial they have been tried in the balance and not found wanting. But we had a great and responsible task to undertake. We had the Act of Parliament Provinces. (Cheers.) After six long reward, and a time of retribution would giving this Dominion but we had to bring come. That compliment was offered to me in the fall of 1873, so I have a peculiar Provinces with different laws, with different pleasure in coming here and receiving this ent modes of administration, with differcompliment along with my colleagues, at ent systems of civil service. We had to your hand, because you, men of Ottawa cannot be supposed to be actuated by any mass working together for common good desire to worship the rising sun, by any and in five years we effected all and we desire to float with the current, by any handed over by competent gentlement desire to run with the hounds.
