

NFCUS Aiding Students Summer Work Leads Announced

This is the time of year that many students begin thinking about summer employment. Information about summer jobs is, at times, rather difficult to obtain. To offset this difficulty, the UNB NFCUS Committee, under Miss Joanie Young, has compiled a list of companies interested in employing undergraduate students.

The companies are located in various centres throughout Canada and anyone interested in one of the jobs offered can apply before January 15. Miss Young stated that many of the companies, which did not conduct interviews on the campus, have expressed willingness to interview students at their offices through the Christmas holidays.

Information concerning any of the companies below can be obtained from Miss Freddie Critchley, or Miss Joan Young (NFCUS Chairman) at 5-9061, between 1:15 and 2:15, Monday to Friday.

Free Tuition Advocated
President Claude T. Bissell of the University of Toronto has announced a plan to guarantee education to all worthy Ontario students. Highlighting this proposal would be free tuition plus financial help to all Ontario high school students with first class honours in Grade 13. Financial aid would also be given to second class honour students.

The unofficial report by the president's advisory committee on student aid also advocated a two-month vacation instead of the present one of five. This would mean that the term would last from September 1 to June 30, with a week's holiday at Thanksgiving, and a month at Christmas and Easter. —The Varsity

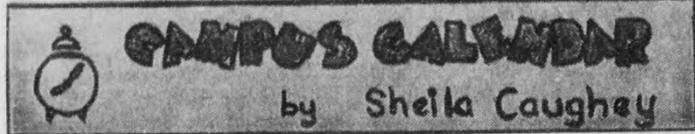

Narrowly Escapes Death
Don Bell, a first year science student at Acadia University from Jackson Heights, N.Y., recently had a harrowing experience.

At 5:30 p.m. one afternoon, Bell decided to walk across the dyke on the Cornwallis River. Darkness soon fell, and unable to see where he was going, he slipped from the edge of the dyke into a trench dug in the mud. Realizing that he was trapped, he screamed for help. About 6:30 p.m., his cries were heard, and help was sent.

Fortunately, the tide was out, and rescuers were able to pull him from the engulfing mud. He was then returned to Wolfville, suffering only from a mild state of shock and exhaustion. —The Acadia Athenaeum

NEW TITLES IN PAPERBACK SERIES

McLelland and Stewart has issued four new titles in its paperback series, the New Canadian Library.

The new titles are:
The Tin Flute, by Gabrielle Roy; Barometer Rising, by Hugh MacLennan; The Clockmaker, by Thomas Chandler Haliburton, and The Last Barrier, by Sir Charles G. D. Roberts.

Hugo McPherson of the University of Toronto supplies introductions for the volumes by Miss Roy and Mr. McLennan. Robert L. McDougall of Carleton College, Ottawa, introduces Mr. Haliburton's work and Alec Lucas, now of McGill University and formerly professor of English at UNB, supplies a preface for the collection of stories by Sir Charles.

The volumes have attractive covers by Frank Newfeld and are priced at a dollar each.

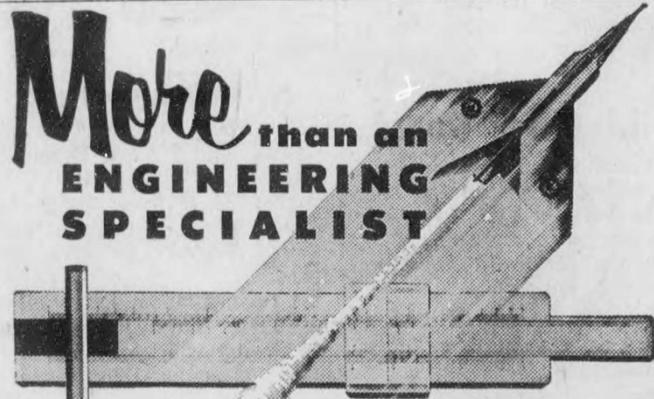

The New Canadian Library series was begun last year with four titles, including work by Stephen Leacock, Morley Callaghan, Frederick Phillip Grove and Sinclair Ross. The move by McLelland and Stewart was the first major attempt to market a Canadian writing in paperback form.

"I shall expect my wife to be the same in twenty years as she is now," said the young husband.

"But that's unreasonable!" retorted his friend.

"Yes, that's what she is now."

More than an ENGINEERING SPECIALIST

The engineering officer in the RCAF is offered unusual opportunities to exercise his initiative and ingenuity. From the very beginning he is more than a technical specialist. He deals on a management level not only with professional problems but with people and human relations.

The opportunity to become one of this select group — to share the challenge, satisfaction and prestige of an air force career is offered to graduates in the following university courses:

- Engineering
- Pure and Applied Science
- Honours Mathematics
- Physics - Chemistry
- General Science

For full particulars about the opportunities for engineers, contact your Resident Staff Officer located on your campus. He will also provide details of financial assistance plans available to university students.
