Party on Brunswick St. To all our "friends" who showed up at the party on Saturday night. Thanks for making it our last party of the century! You know what we mean and we know who you are, so why don't you return what you STOLE from our very humble abode. We'll ask no questions, however. . .we will not forget! To the hard-up human being who stole food from our freezer, feel good about stealing food from a poor student?? P.S. don't overcook the ravioli!!!

Pleasantly Pissed.

To the Golden Nuts,
Your first win!! I'm so happy! Too bad the other team didn't show up. I think you need to work on putting the puck in the net. Maybe they should take their goalie out so you could score. The "Adam's" Family must be getting together too much. You guys better quit partying the weekend before your big games. Well I'm just glad your out of the cellar.

Oh by the way, someone didn't eat their bananas!!!

The "Fall into 1992" social was going so well when (GASP!), our House sign was stolen out from under us! Apparently, the thieves were being pursued by loyal Norsemen when the "Ninja" threatened them with some Karate moves. Shocks! Horrors! The sign was returned the following day with visions of Horses on it. See you next time!!

PERSONALS

Happy 20th birthday to Oscar the Grouch.

This is to the girl in my Psychology 1000 class at 2:30. In Monday's class you sat at the back with your feet up on the chair. I think you are so nice looking. I would love to meet you. If you're interested write something back (that is, if you want).
