guarantees of the maintenance of the present military supremacy of the armies of the United States and the Allies in the field. He feels confident that he can safely assume that nothing but this will also be the judgment and decision of the Allied Governments.

"The President feels that it is also his duty to add that neither the Government of the United States, nor, he is quite sure, the Governments with which the Government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, will consent to consider armistice so long as the armed forces of Germany continue the illegal and inhumane practices which they still persist in.

"At the very time that the German Government approaches the Government of the United States with proposals of peace its submarines are engaged in sinking passenger ships at sea, and not the ships alone, but the very boats in which their passengers and crews seek to make their way to safety; and in their present enforced withdrawal from Flanders and France the German armies are pursuing a course of wanton destruction which has always been regarded as in direct violation of the rules and practices of civilized warfare. Cities and villages if not destroyed, are being stripped of all they contain, and oftentimes of their very inhabitants. The nations associated against Germany cannot be expected to agree to a cessation of arms while acts of inhumanity, spoliation and desolation are being continued, which they justly look upon with horror and with burning hearts.

"It is necessary also, in order that there may be no possibility of misunderstanding, that the President should solemnly call the attention of the Government of Germany to the language and plain intent of one of the terms of peace which the German Government has now accepted. It is continued in the address of the President delivered at Mount Vernon on the 4th of July last.

"It is as follows: 'The destruction of every arbitrary power anywhere that can separately, secretly and of its single choice disturb the peace of the world; or, if it cannot be presently destroyed, at least its reduction to virtual impotency. The power which has hitherto controlled the German nation is of the sort here described. It is within the choice of the German nation to alter it.' The President's words just quoted naturally constitute a condition precedent to peace, if peace is to come by the action of the German people themselves. The President feels bound to say that the whole process of peace will, in his judgment, depend upon the definiteness and the satisfactory character of the guarantees which can be given in this fundamental matter. It is indispensable that the Governments associated against Germany should know beyond a peradventure with whom they are dealing.

"The President will make a separate reply to the Royal and Imperial Government of Austria-Hungary.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration.

"Signed) ROBERT LANSING.

"Mr. Frederick Oederlin, "Charge d'Affairs, ad interim, in charge of German interests in the United States."

At time of writing this is as far as negotiations have been carried, but meanwhile the Entente Allies are gradually hurling the Hun hordes out of France and Belgium.

A statesman sat on the veranda of a golf club discussing prohibition and watching a very poor player endeavoring to tee off.

After the poor player had made half a dozen ineffectual swipes at the ball the statesman's companion said:

"What the dickens is that fellow trying to do?"

"It looks to me," said the statesman, "as if he was trying to dig himself in."

A particularly true impression of the quaint humor and simple philosophy commonly found among the less-educated negroes of the United States is afforded by the following: One negro advised another, who had been drafted, to make a will before going to the war. "I hain't got no use, nohow, foh dat kind of a will", said the second: "de only will I keers anything about is, Will I come back?"
