

BRAKEMAN ON G.T.R. KILLED

Smith Burd, Aged 47, Fell From Engine at Colborne Yesterday and Died in Belleville Hospital.

Smith Burd, a well known citizen, and a brakeman on the Grand Trunk Railway, met an awful death yesterday as the result of an accident at Colborne station. Mr. Burd left the Belleville depot on a freight train yesterday morning about 4 o'clock and in front of the Colborne station, while the train was proceeding at the rate of only five or six miles per hour, attempting to alight from the engine, he slipped off the step and rolled beneath the cars. One leg was cut off, the other was crushed, while his head suffered injuries. When taken from the track he was unconscious. He was given temporary relief and first aid and hurried on a train to Belleville depot. At Brighton about seven o'clock his brother Wm. Burd met him and had a talk with him over the accident. At Belleville hospital the injured man was given every attention but he did not rally from the shock and passed away late in the afternoon.

Coroner Dr. W. W. Boyce took charge of the remains and they were removed to The Thompson Company's morgue, where the coroner opened an inquest last evening at 7:30, later adjourning until Wednesday evening.

The jury is composed of L. R. Terwilliger, foreman; J. H. Logue, C. Rathman, J. Barnum, F. Walsh, W. Wilkins, J. W. Warham and W. H. Day.

Sergt. Naphin testified as to the jurymen's qualifications.

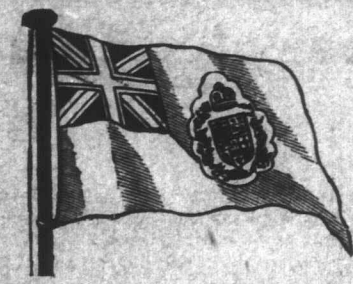

William Burd, 19 Pine Street, of this city gave evidence as to the identification of the body. He had last seen his brother alive in the afternoon at three o'clock at the hospital. He testified as to the conversation he had with his brother. The latter had not spoken much and said he had slipped off the engine step. Engineer George Collins was in charge. Smith Burd was head-end brakeman.

Deceased was 47 years of age and single. He was a strong and healthy man, never knowing a day's illness. He boarded on Blecker avenue at the residence of Mrs. Combs.

Smith Burd left no will and it was deemed advisable to have the constable take charge of his trunk and contents. Mr. Butler is acting for the relatives.

The late Smith Burd was born in Hungerford and was the son of the late John Burd. He came to Belleville when a small boy. In 1888 he was a member of St. Michael's R. C. Church. He was also a member of Lodge 108, Brotherhood of Trainmen. He leaves to mourn his untimely loss two brothers, William of Belleville and Robert of Thurlo, and six sisters, Mrs. R. Baker, Weston, Ont., Mrs. Patrick McHugh, Belleville, Ont., Mrs. Geo. Solts, Mrs. Geo. Hutchison, and Mrs. D. Hutchison, New York City and Mrs. F. McShane of Toronto.

The death of Mr. Burd has caused a profound cloud to settle on his wife's circle of friends.

THANKSGIVING DAY SHOOT

Second Annual Shooting Competition of the Belleville Rifle Association Yesterday.

The largest attendance ever seen on the rifle butts were there yesterday, when the Belleville Rifle Association held their 2nd Annual Shoot. There were 28 prizes to be competed for and a record number of 56 members took part. The day was very unfavorable for accurate shooting, the wind being very gusty, and the light bad, but some remarkable scoring was done. The conditions were 21 shots at 500 yards, highest possible score 105, Handicap conditions.

THE PRECEDENT OF 1870.

Lloyd George Brings Out the Similarity Between the Action of Great Britain in 1870 and in 1914.

Mr. Lloyd George in his speech at the Queen's Hall, London, recently, brought out one point in the case against Germany. He said:

"This was not the only country to defend Belgium and her integrity. Russia, France, Austria and Prussia—they are all there. Why did they not perform the obligation? It is suggested that when you quote this treaty, it is purely an excuse on our part. It is our low craft and cunning, just to cloak our jealousy of a superior civilization which we are attempting to destroy."

Our answer is the action we took in 1870. What was that? Mr. Gladstone was then Prime Minister. Lord Grenville, I think was then Foreign Secretary. I have never heard it alleged to their charge that they were ever Jingo. What did they do in 1870? We called upon the belligerent powers to respect that treaty. We called upon France, we called upon Germany. At that time we mind the greatest danger to Belgium came from France and not from Germany. We intervened to protect Belgium against France exactly in the same way. We invited both the belligerent Powers to state that they had no intention of violating Belgian territory. What was the answer given by Bismarck? He said it was superfluous to ask Prussia such a question in view of the treaties in force. France gave a similar answer. We received the thanks at that time of the Belgian people for our intervention in a very remarkable document. This is in a document addressed by the municipality of Brussels to Queen Victoria after that intervention.

The great and noble people over whose destinies you preside have just given a further proof of its benevolent sentiments towards this country. The voice of the English nation has been heard above the din of arms. It has asserted the principles of justice and right. Next to the unalterable attachment of the Belgian people to their independence the strongest sentiment which fills their hearts is that of an imperishable gratitude to the people of Great Britain.

That was in 1870. Mark what follows. Three or four days after that document of thanks the French army was wedged up against the Belgian frontier. Every means of escape snuffed up by a ring of flame from Prussian cannon. There was one way of escape. What was that? By violating the neutrality of Belgium. What did they do? The French on that occasion preferred ruin, humiliation to the breaking of their bond.

The French Emperor, French Marshals, 100,000 gallant Frenchmen in arms preferred to be carried captive to the strange land of their enemy rather than dishonor the name of their country. It was the last French army defeat. Had they violated Belgian neutrality the whole history of that war would have been changed. And yet it was the interest of France to break the treaty. She did not do it.

It is the interest of Prussia to break the treaty, and she has done it. Well, why? She avowed it with cynical contempt for every principle of justice. She says treaties only bind you when it is to your interest to keep them. What is a Treaty? says the German chancellor; 'a scrap of paper.'
