NOT SHAKING. JUST A GENTLE ROCKING OF THE LEVER.

Shaking is a hard, back-breaking exercise, peculiar to common furnaces, while you can stand erect at the Sunshine—and moving the lever, to and fro, about half the length of your arm, a few times, is mere play. A child can easily do it. Grates of the Sunshine are in two sectionsright and left. By gently rocking the lever, a few times, the ashes are released from the right. Repeat the operation on the left and the ashes from that side drop into the ash-pan, too. You couldn't wish for anything easier than the Sunshine Method.

When this lever is not in use it can be disconnected from the grates and the opening capped. But when connected it fills up the opening so snugly that no dust from the falling ashes can escape.

Every detail is thought of on the "Sunshine"—that's what makes it ago that an outbreak of plague is invariably preceded by plague among rats, which are regarded as a domestic animal there.

There is a special rat flea called "Pulex cheopis," which carries the plague from rat to rat, and from rats to other animals, and therefore probably from rats to man.

This explains why the better housed people, like the Europeans suffer less than the poorer classes, and people of certain occupation, like weavers, who work mostly at home suffer most.

ROME, May 8.—A bill has been presented in the Chamber of Deputies providing for a $200,000 lottery with the proceeds of which it is proposed to carry out excavations at the site of the Roman Amphitheater at Benevento, the town founded, according to tradition, by Diomedes, and possessing Trajan's triumphal arch, which resembles the arch of Titus here and is the finest and best preserved of all the Roman structures. The amphitheater at Benevento is lying almost intact under a number of the Lords.

See Twain Tied to Raft

Visions of Mark Twain lashed to raft and tossed about in the angry waves of the Atlantic, had been afrighting all the admirers of the genial humorist, who had chanced to read the effect that the Kanawha had left had not been seen since. The harrow-ing details were to the effect that the own exposition as the guests of Mr. Rogers on the latter's palatial steam yacht and that when the party was ready to return to New York last vented the boat starting. Mr. Regers and his son, having important business engagements in New York, elected to return by rail, but Mark Twain, said he would stick to the ship. The two days' wait in which the humorist is said to have fretted about his long yacht then headed for the Battery.

The erstwhile pilot was so quiet on his arrival home at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday night that no one knew he was in the city, and as the yacht had not done any great amount of tooting there seems to have been deep and widespread ignorance of her coming. Then came the disquieting stories to the effect that the unfortunate Mississippi navigator was adrift on the angry ocean battling for life in mounravenous fishes were nibbling at their

As a matter of fact, however, the trip home was an uneventful one and most pleasant. Indeed, the skipper of the yacht had assured Mr. Clemens when they glided out of Hampton Roads that he would have the boat under the Williamsburg bridge by 10 minutes to 9 o'clock that night. And
