EDITORIAL NOTES

The January thaw seems to be a February frost.

Why did not the Public School Board have wit enough to remember that a new Board of Education was coming into office with W. B. Burgoyne on it?

There should be a great deal more contentment and peace of mind in the Standard office this year.

It seems rather arbitrary and unusual acknowledgment that a man should make to the public that the intelligence of the Public School Board of last year was not of a high enough order to properly deal with the question of teachers' salaries and other matters of the kind, and yet this is what the editor of The Standard, with his usual egotism, would ask people to understand.

On Tuesday morning Bond left his home here to go to London, but since their no trace has been found of him. The workman discovered a single track in the snow leading to the shack, and upon entering he found the dead man hanging from the ceiling. He had evidently stood up on a box, adjusted the rope and stepped off. The coroner,

HUNDRED FLU CASES REPORTED IN CITY

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—"There have been a hundred cases of influenza in Toronto so far," says Dr. Hastings, "and ten deaths. That does not include deaths from pneumonia. These reports are all from a certain number of physicians, which leads me to believe that all the doctors are not reporting the cases that come under their notice. It is most essential that this be done."

While he is convinced that there are more than a hundred cases in the city, as reported, the doctor expressed satisfaction that so far the disease was not of a virulent type. "Are those who had the flu last year likely to be immune this year?" the doctor was asked. "There is nothing to warrant the belief that they will," he replied.

Peace Incomes and War Prices TEN years ago a Canadian clergyman was forced by illness to retire from active work. The largest salary he had received in the forty years of his ministry was $1000 and a furnished house. The average did not exceed $800.

A Minister's Budget By good management and economy they were able to carry an endowment insurance policy, pay an assessment to their Church Superannuation Fund, and accumulate some small savings. When that clergyman was superannuated in 1909, he bought a house. His income during the first year of retirement was as follows:—

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. The retiring allowance from the Church (being $30 for each year of active work) - $400.00; Interest from investments - 100.00; Wedding fees and sundries - 75.00; Summer supply work - 100.00.

The Shrinkage in Values Before the war, the rise in the cost of living had necessitated careful management of this income. Today, the pressure is too great to be borne. If the statisticians are correct, the dollar of 1913 is worth now in purchasing power about 47c.

Veterans of the Cross These men gave a lifetime of unselfish service for their Church, their country, their neighbors; visiting the sick, burying the dead, comforting the bereaved, preaching the Cross crucified, and doing their part in making Canada "God's country." In a time when the payment of pensions to old employees is accepted as a reasonable thing by industrial firms, these veterans deserve more consideration than they have been getting from the Christian people of this Dominion.

The Forward Movements The Superannuation, Beneficiary or pension funds of the five Communions co-operating in the United National Campaign must be largely increased to yield a reasonable and an adequate income for these old heroes of the pulpit. They ARE heroes. They make no complaint. They still are found doing all that their strength will permit for the great and noble Cause to which they devoted their lives. They still are enduring hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.

National Peace Thank-Offering Simultaneous Every-Person Canvass by Each Communion February 9-14

What Are You Going To Do About It? This is not a question of Charity. It is a question of justice, of chivalry, of common honesty. Your Church is seeking, through the Forward Movement, to do its full duty to the retired clergymen. Your interest and your subscription are needed. Tell your Church leaders where you stand. Do it NOW.

THE STABLE IN WINTER

Keep Your Dairy Cows Comfortable and Clean. Spray the Place With White Wash. Add some Germ-Killer. Kill All Broken Window Panes. Provide Other Ventilation of Plants in Winter.

THE period of long winter is here. Of our talking cows and their special protection from cold, and at the same time made as comfortable as possible. The whole of the inside of stable should have a thorough cleaning. The dust and cobwebs should be swept from the walls, ceiling, windows; the windows should be thoroughly cleaned, also the gers and stalls. Then spray with wash all over the inside, every window. To the white wash add disinfectant, such as a carbolic preparation, or a chloroform-killer. This will kill disease germs lurking in dark, damp places, and maintain the health of the stock which is at the foundation of a profitable milk production.

The next step is to put in all the window lights, but when the owner thinks he cannot afford to buy glass at the present high price, a piece of coarse cloth, such as a sack, may be tacked over the window spaces. This will provide ventilation in a stable not otherwise ventilated. Cow stables need ventilation in winter by having the foul air drawn off and fresh air introduced through a draft directly on the cows. The simple way to do this is to make windows at the bottom and at the top open inward, so as to draw the air toward the ceiling. A board should be a V-shaped board at the side or end of the window, to prevent the side-draft. Foul air should extend below the ceiling of the stable, and fresh air should enter at the ceiling, as in the illustration. The four air is removed without the stable too much, by closing the top outlet. No special cheap ventilation works automatically. They all require some attention. Other points in stable preparation are to have all the secure so that the cow may not get loose; remove manure and gutters should be so that they may be kept clean; sanitary without too much litter and feed-carriers are essential of labor in looking after the milkers during the winter. In a word, make the cows comfortable and lessen the labor of stabling cows by having them stabled and convenient, with as much help as possible in the form of machinery.—Prof. H. H. Deas, O. College, Guelph.

Care of Plants in Winter. Water growing pot plants when they need it, then water thoroughly. When the soil gets to get dry and powdery on the surface, or when the pot is empty, it emits a ringing sound, the soil requires water. Give sufficient so that it runs out through the bottom of the pot. Water plants in morning in cold weather, or at night. Use tepid rain water, or water that has been exposed to air and water should be taken care, about 60 degrees F. in winter.

Humidity in the atmosphere one of the main requirements for successful with plants indoors. pans or saucers of water on the floor or registers. A steaming pot or pot of water on the stove will give help in this respect. When the pots are empty, the roots or where the soil is porous or exhausted, liquid fertilizer can be given plants. The soil should be moist, not dry, or very wet. The fertilizer is applied. There are several good liquid foods sold at stores. "Sterling Worth Plant Fertilizer" or "Bonora" are both good. Half an ounce of nitrate of soda dissolved in a gallon of water, and cold water added to make a gallon, also makes a fairly good fertilizer for pot plants. Apply every week or ten days.

Spraying with water will kill down insect pests. A fine spray is applied to all parts of the plant. Insect pests increase in a dry, warm atmosphere. Wash with green soap, or use spider and thrip. "Sulpho-Tone Soap" is a good remedy. Black fly insect pests on house plants. Spraying with water will kill down insects on plants. Slake about one-half pound fresh lime in a pail of water, and let it settle. Give about a quart of this solution once or twice to the plant suffering from earth mites. Put frozen plants in a dark room at once, temperature about 40 degrees F. Do not touch the plants. Sprinkling with ice cold water is beneficial.—W. Hunt, O. A. College, Guelph.

A Chat About Chickens. In very cold weather to make them comfortable and to keep the good condition feed (in winter time, but often in dry straw or other litter) some kind of mixed grain. Milk to drink, or about a quart of meat or its equivalent in scrap each day, is required to keep material for the making of the winter for twenty hens. Choice cut flowers, potted plants and floral designs, at all times, Walker's Florist 104 St. Paul Street, Phone 768.
