Port Arthur and Coasts.

River Mined and Fortresses Prepared for Instant Action-Kuropatkin Is There.

London, Thursday, April 7. - The Daily Telegraph's Seoul correspondent he learns from a Japanese sailor who participated in the attacks on Port Arthur that the Japanese fleet s divided into seven squadrons. Four of these are watching Port Arthur, the fifth patrols the Korean coast, and the sixth and seventh cruise between Vladivostock and North Japan. that the Russian troops between Antung and Chiu Tien Cheng (about 10 miles north of Antung), comprise the main Russian force, and consequently the engagements which is looked for at or near these places probably will not be decisive, but only a forerunner of larger operations. The Russians are constructing entrenchments at several points on the Yalu and Tumen Rivers. These entrenchments, however, are not yet completed, and if the Japanese succeed in forcing their way past one line of defense it would give them a distinct advantage and make it more difficult for the Russians to concentrate to oppose them. The ice on the Yalu is melting rapidly, and the muddy roads make promptness in military to Special Committee Supported by House.

NEW CHWANG READY FOR FIGHT A QUESTION OF COMMITTEES

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto. April 6. - Speaker Charlton the Legislature this afternoon, gave his ruling on the point of order raised last week that the Pettypiece taxation bill could not be referred to a committee of the whole House, but must go to a special or select committee. He explained that there was no rule of the Legislature covering the point, but in that event it was provided that the rules of the British House of Commons were to be followed, and they set forth that a private bill may be committed to the committee of the whole House or to any other committee. He would rule that it could be referred to the committee of the whole House.

It will be remembered that last week the Premier moved that the Pettypiece bill be referred to a special committee to the committee of the whole House ment was out of order, and the Speak ship and well handled. "In over-houling us," he says, "her officers and crew appeared a little finely drawn, ruling today, therefore, was that but they nevertheless were of good Mr. Hanna's amendment was in order.
