ONTARIANS EXHORTED TO GREATER APPRECIATION OF SPLENDID OPPORTUNITIES

Speakers at Banquet to Associated Boards of Trade Delegates Express Enthusiasm Over Magnificent Future Awaiting the Province.

"MEN DON'T KNOW WHAT THEY ARE LEAVING"—A. C. PRATT, M. P. P.

Unanimity in Opinion That Those Who Go to "Golden, Glittering West" Leave Ten Chances of Prosperity For One They Get Abroad.

The need of a deeper interest in and a larger appreciation for the possibilities of the Province of Ontario on the part of Ontarians, was the keynote sounded by the majority of those who spoke at the banquet to the delegates of the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario tendered by the local board of trade at the Tecumseh Thursday night. Dr. H. T. Reason presided, and among the speakers were Col. Ponton, of Belleville; A. C. Pratt, M. P. P., of Norfolk; Sir George C. Gibbons and A. J. Young, of London; Col. Brock and A. J. Young, of North Bay.

As president of the London Board of Trade, Dr. Reason welcomed the visitors to the city. London, he said, was flattered at the opportunity to entertain the associated boards, and that it had claims as a beautiful city, and the capital of Western Ontario, to be a favorite home of conventions.

Farming Like Religion.
The toast to "Ontario" was replied to by Mr. A. C. Pratt, M. P. P., of Port Dover. "A great and tremendous drawback to this old province," he said, "lies in the fact that the people of Ontario don't know the possibilities of their province. Men don't know what they are leaving. We have missed something in that we have missed the appreciation that is due our own province. Farming, like religion, needs a revival. To the man who will apply himself, there are ten chances in Ontario that do not exist in the golden, glittering west."

$200 Net Per Acre.
"A net profit of $200 per acre in the west is fairly large, but down in Norfolk $200 per acre is made from apple orchards. There are 60,000,000 acres of the best arable land untouched in New Ontario. The time is at hand when the tide will begin to flow back from the west."

"Lack of help today curtails by at least one-half the production of our farms. We must go into the Scandinavian countries and attract immigrants direct to our new lands. The British immigrant we must acclimatize in old Ontario before he goes into New Ontario."

Cold, Damp Winds Full of Catarrh
Half the Victims of Catarrh, Bronchitis and Throat Irritation, Contract the Disease This Month.

Only One Preventive Known

The germs of these diseases that have accumulated during recent months are warmed into life by the sun, taken up in the strong winds and spread broadcast throughout the land. It is impossible to avoid the inhalation of these germs, and while the person whose bronchial tubes or air passages in the head and lungs are in a weak, inflamed condition at this season.

There is but one known method of destroying these disease germs after they have entered the air passages—the inhalation of Catarrhazone. Catarrhazone alone of all the thousands and one remedies can be carried in the air we breathe to the minute cells of the respiratory organs, where it destroys the germs, heals all the irritated surfaces, and effects a permanent, lasting cure.

"My nostrils were so stuffed up with Catarrh that I nearly choked all day. At night I could scarcely sleep because of the awful droppings from my nose and throat—which kept my stomach in a constant state of disorder. But Catarrhazone cured me—strengthened my throat and gave me protection against repeated coughs and colds. I urge all sufferers to use Catarrhazone."

—J. P. Andre (Salesman), Hamilton, Ohio.

BORDEN'S COURSE ON NAVY NOT A TRUE CANADIANISM

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Shows Policy Unchanged and Patriotic—Measure Passes Its Second Reading at an Early Hour This Morning.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—At an early hour this morning a vote on the naval policy of the Government had not been reached. The galleries were crowded to capacity, probably half of those present in the Speaker's gallery being in full evening dress, in anticipation of the vote.

There was not, however, the same excitement which prevailed when the vote on the first reading of the bill was taken two weeks ago. On that night the leaders merely contented themselves with a brief summing up of their policy, and the condemnation of their opponents' policy. Tonight, however, both Prime Minister and Sir Wilfrid Laurier exerted themselves to the utmost to make a clear and concise case for their party.

Hon. Mr. Borden declared that if there was an election at the present time, the Liberals would fare worse than they did in the one of 1911.

More Talk Needed.
Hon. H. B. Emmerson declared that there could not be too much discussion on an important measure like the one before the House. He intimated that if the Government had allowed more freedom of discussion they would now be less support of the Government's naval policy.

He declared that this was a subject which should be debated regardless of politics, pointing out that the members who brought about confederation held widely divergent views on the subjects of politics and religion, yet they had risen above these divisions and worked for one purpose, namely, to bring about confederation.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson then proposed to read some extracts from speeches made by the fathers of confederation, whereupon Mr. Speaker Sproule ruled that the speeches made half a century ago were irrelevant to the present subject.

Mr. Emmerson: "I want to show the House that if the fathers of confederation had known what this country was to come to they would have shrunk from bringing about confederation." (Loud and prolonged applause.)

Macdonald Favored Navy.
Mr. Emmerson finally won his point, and read from a speech made by John A. Macdonald, in Charlottetown, P. E. I., in 1864. In this speech Sir John had strongly advocated the establishment of a Canadian navy and the independence of Canada.

Mr. Emmerson declared that all the fathers of Confederation had favored the local navy idea. Mr. Emmerson declared himself to be opposed to that school of imperialism which would make of Canada a small province in a big federation.

"If you suppress the nationhood of this country," he continued, "you sow the seeds of destruction so far as the empire is concerned."

The sum of $35,000,000, the member for Westmoreland reminded the House, was a big lot of money, equal to the entire revenue of Canada in 1896. To put this money in the "jackpot" to send it out of the country, was a statesmanship. If we could afford to expend such a sum on ships, let them be Canadian ships. It was absurd to say that we could not organize a navy when young Canadians were going to the United States every day in the year to enlist in the United States navy. All Canada had to do was to model her terms of enlistment upon those of the United States, which were sensible and democratic.

Knowles a Knows a Ditcher.
Mr. Knowles (Moose Jaw), who followed Mr. Emmerson, made a strong speech in favor of the Laurier naval policy, declaring that the Prime Minister had changed his policy on several occasions to meet the exigencies of the moment. It was the duty of the Liberal party to oppose the contribution policy until they forced the Government to go to the country of sheer desperation.

In conclusion, he said, the Laurier naval service act had not been repealed, and that either this should be acknowledged to be the best policy or the Government should state what their new permanent policy would be.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In beginning his speech, pointed out that under the rules of the House, any measure passes through several stages—first and second reading, the committee stage, the third reading, with a further opportunity for discussion and then concurrence. This procedure was the embodiment of centuries of experience in Britain, to which we owe responsible government, and its guiding practices.

The procedure was designed to give full opportunity for the discussion of any measure upon which the Parliament is called upon to pass. So far, he said, members of the Government and their supporters had not availed themselves very largely of the opportunities in this debate. They started well, but for some reason were cut short. Consequently the House had not been given all the information on this naval question which should have been forthcoming.

Hon. W. T. White, for instance, had promised that he would give information which had been sought from him, but so far his pledge had gone unredeemed. Premier Borden had promised further information, but the House still waits for it.

Canada No Infant.
Enough had been heard, however, Sir Wilfrid continued to make clear the differences between the respective positions of the parties not only on this particular question, but on the broader problem of imperial defence. Canada had passed out of the period of tutelage and infancy, and now, already having her land forces, looked beyond her own shores and was prepared to take up responsible duties for herself and Britain. This double consideration of duties and responsibilities for both Canada and the Empire.
