DECLARES CANADA CAN TEACH WORLD

Calgary Speaker Tells Kiwanisians Dominion Possesses Golden Opportunity.

"Canada has the opportunity of interpreting to the world the meaning of the word Christian brotherhood, because Canada is a young nation without the jealousies and the prejudices of the nations of the old world."

Such a brotherhood would be her contribution to the world, according to Dr. Kerby of Calgary, the Chautauqua lecturer, who spoke to the Kiwanis Club Friday.

There were three great periods during which Canada's national consciousness developed, stated Dr. Kerby. The first was the French regime, next the period between the British conquest and Confederation, and then the period after Confederation.

Since Confederation three events had stood out—First, the Red rebellion, which was the French Canadian should be second, the South African war, when Canada proved herself "part and parcel of the empire," and thirdly, "the great war, when Canada helped to save the world from the despotism of a great empire."

"Today Johnny Canada is no longer a boy. He has reached strong manhood. He must be reckoned with in the councils of nations, and it will not be long before his ships are on every sea," declared Dr. Kerby.

"What is Canada's contribution to the world to be, now that she has reached manhood?" asked the speaker. "What is the name Canada and Canadians to stand for in the future?"

"To my mind, there is one word that Canada will stand for—namely, Brotherhood."

Dr. Kerby stated that the work that the Kiwanis Club was doing for the world was thrilling. The name of the London club was spreading on account of this work through Canada and the world, he declared.

During the luncheon, music was supplied by the Shawbridge School Boys' Band. The members of the band are part of a party of boys from Shawbridge School, near Montreal, who are the guests of the London club at the boys' camp at Sage's Farm during the next few weeks.

Next week, it was announced at the meeting, the luncheon will be held at the boys' camp with the boys. The final arrangements for the Kiwanis picnic were also announced at the meeting. Special cars will be added on the day of the picnic to the 1:20 p.m. L. and P. S. train for Port Stanley. The picnic is a joint one with the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club.

Fred Lawton and Roy Lyons were the winners of the booster prizes at the Friday meeting, which were given by George Garing.

Happy At Sage's Farm. Eighty boys and leaders are enjoying this wonderful camping weather on the flats of Mr. Sage's farm. At the beginning of the camp twenty-five boys were not able to swim, ten of these have already learned to swim and the other fifteen will know how to swim before they leave the camp.

Mr. W. E. Kelly, of the Children's Aid, supplied some bouys to keep the campers from swimming too far up the river.

Rev. Mr. Gaeix of St. Thomas, is a visitor at the camp this week. Mr. E. E. Murrigh and Mr. H. E. Nichols have just completed a big archway at the entrance of the camp which reads: "Welcome Ki-Y Camp." The archway is made out of wood found on the grounds.

At the camp fire last night, W. D. Davidson and Herb Easton refereed three boxing bouts between three different weights of boys. Mr. Frank Gray gave the evening camp fire story. This camp fire is held in the natural spot for such an event. It appears like a huge shell hole, the base of the hole has been leveled off for games and natural seats have been built in the bank.

Mr. Hesse was also at the camp fire last night. He brought out each boy a bar of Mack's Toffee, which, although much enjoyed by the boys, almost ruined the program, because of the fact that it almost gave some boys lockjaw, while the remainder could be heard to enjoy it.

The boys are making ready to receive the Montreal boys tomorrow afternoon. These boys, with their musical instruments, will be very popular for the next week in camp. Many Kiwanians and their friends are expected out in the evenings to enjoy the camp fire with the boys.

Court House Announces "Summer Here"

IT is now a well-established fact that the "three-hour" day is in vogue at the various offices at the Middlesex County Court House.

On each door is a neat little inscription indicating that it is the "long vacation period" for the entire staff, and that the hours will be "from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m."

RAINE GUILTY OF STEALING AUTO

Court Remands Prisoner Until Monday For Sentence.

Accomplice Still At Large, Being Hunted By Police.

Although Albert Judd, his counsel, raised strenuous objections, William L. Raine was found guilty in police court Friday morning of stealing an auto, owned by George H. Billings, from the corner of Richmond and King streets recently. The prisoner was remanded until Monday for sentence.

When Billings saw his car pull away from the curb, he shouted that it was being stolen.

Leslie Cromwell, a youth, chased the auto, leaped on the running-board, and grappled with Raine's companion. The car, Cromwell swore, crossed the intersection at King and Clarence streets at the rate of 25 miles an hour. As he was grappling with the other man, Raine turned and looked at him, Cromwell stated. He wore a dark suit and a straw hat. Then Raine leaped from the car and sped south on Clarence street.

As the car was without a driver, it crashed into the curb, and in the excitement the other man freed himself from Cromwell's grip, and rushed down a lane. He has not been apprehended yet.

H. R. Ford and Alvin C. Ball, who were standing in front of a garage on Clarence street, identified Raine as the man who rushed past them, hat in hand. Harry C. Leckie, who was with them, said the man was going so fast he could not identify him. Ford told of finding a straw hat near the car with the initials, "F. S." in it.

Raine stated he knew Fred Sells, the other man wanted by the police, and whose arrest is expected at any time, but that he had been trying to avoid him as much as possible. He explained that he and Sells had been arrested some time ago on a charge of attacking the police. Raine was at the London Battery and Tire Repair. They had been acquitted. Since then he had been avoiding Sells.

On the night of the theft, Raine met Sells in Cassella's poolroom on Dundas street, the former admitted. They spoke, and then Sells walked out of the place. Shortly after, Raine was walking alone on King street when Sells pulled up alongside the curb and asked him to go for a ride. Raine knew Sells owned a car, but did not know he was not driving his own until he got in with him.

As he was about to ask him about it, Cromwell jumped on the running board of the car, forcing Raine to stop. Cromwell pulled the car and ran away.

When Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett was summing up the case, Albert Judd objected to his finding against Raine, stating that in too many courts at the present time the magistrates were finding young men guilty on circumstantial evidence or presumption.

SAYS BUS PASSED STANDING CAR

Normal car opened both doors and stopped in the middle of the block. "We'll get you yet," he alleges they called to him.

Detective Harry Down, who was a passenger in Verner's bus Saturday declared the Normal car had passed its regular stop. The motorist stopped the car and suddenly got out of the car and ran away.

He told Verner not to care if they did take his number as he was in the right. William Knight, a former police officer, who was in the bus, corroborated the detective's evidence.

The street railway was represented by Edward Blair, and Mr. Verner by Albert M. Judd.

MAY AGAIN SIT ON SCHOOL BOARD

Members of the board, although they have not appeared since the December gathering.

This causes not a little inconvenience, the secretary points out, and will continue to do so until the rules respecting quorums is changed.

It has already been necessary to postpone one general meeting of the board, and it would not doubt have been unnecessary had the separate school trustees been in the habit of attending.

The board, officially, still consists of fourteen members, two of them non-active. A quorum must necessarily require a majority of legal quorums, and the rules will be changed accordingly, should the separate school board still maintain its present attitude.

PEEP IN WINDOW LEADS TO ARREST

William Cockerton Assessed Ten Dollars For Rude Visit to Old Neighbors.

When William Cockerton came from Detroit to London in his "Lizzie" he little thought that it would land him in police cells. However, his species of car occasionally stops in the most out of the way places. His flivver stalled near Inkerman street and he decided to see if he could find any of his former neighbors.

As he was about to retire, George Bennett heard a noise outside his window. He noticed Cockerton walk briskly away, cross the street and take up a position near a bedroom window of a neighbor's house. Girls in this house were aroused by his peeping, so William returned to Bennett's house. Bennett and his brother dressed, went out the front door and caught the marauder.

Cockerton told the court he used to live in the house in which Bennett resides in 1912. He was looking for the inmates, he explained.

"You should have knocked on the door instead of walking around by the side of the house," the court pointed out.

While being held, Cockerton made an unsuccessful dash for freedom. Later he was turned over to an officer.

"Ten dollars and costs," concluded the deputy magistrate.

Police say Cockerton had but 44 cents in his pocket.

BURNS FARM AND SELF AFTER ROW

J. Scheurman, Near Kitchener, Perishes in Fire Started by Himself.

Kitchener, July 28.—After a quarrel with his wife, Joseph Scheurman, a farmer of Kitchener, near here, set fire to his home and barn, and walking into the blazing implement shed attached to the barn, perished in the flames. His watch and a few charred bones were all that was found to identify him by High Constable H. R. Ford and Alvin C. Ball, who were standing in front of a garage on Clarence street, identified Raine as the man who rushed past them, hat in hand. Harry C. Leckie, who was with them, said the man was going so fast he could not identify him. Ford told of finding a straw hat near the car with the initials, "F. S." in it.

As the car was without a driver, it crashed into the curb, and in the excitement the other man freed himself from Cromwell's grip, and rushed down a lane. He has not been apprehended yet.

ASK STRIKERS TO RESUME WORK

outcome of the conference between the board of conciliation and union officials at Montreal early next week.

R. H. Hessel of this city, member of the maintenance-of-way protective board of the Grand Trunk System, stated Friday morning that the anger of the employees regarding the enforcement of the wage reduction by the Canadian Railways Association without giving the men a chance to appeal to an arbitration board, has somewhat cooled off, and are now confident that an amicable settlement will be reached within a week or so.

"The majority of the men are loath to strike on account of economic conditions all over the country," Mr. Hessel explained, "but if it comes to a showdown they will walk out as one man. Although the feeling is bitter against the Canadian Railways Association for putting into effect the wage reduction without giving the men a chance to appeal, and by so doing breaking a law of the country, I think the employees are willing to forget it if the reduction is withdrawn."

Mr. Hessel stated that he was conferring with a prominent union official who was en route from a conference at Detroit to Montreal, and he predicted that all would come out well, and that a strike in Canada wouldn't materialize.
