MINING IN THE SLOCAN.

Progress in the Development of the Silver Mines in the District.

The Winter Output of the Mines Will Be a Very Large One.

The new discoveries at the foot of Slocan lake have attracted a large number of the best miners in the district to that section on prospecting expeditions. This fact coupled with the circumstance that many others are engaged in doing assessment work upon properties of their own, has greated a mathematical and what has been called the Lee peak. From this saddle a trail leads to the tunnel of the R. E. Lee mine, which is driven to facilities which this season will give, the ore shipments from the Slocan will very largely exceed those of any previous year in its his-The sooner this is known by coast people the better it will be for themselves if they wish to secure a share in the wealth of the province. There are scores of opportunities for promising investments now which will become more and more coy and difficult to secure as the district becomes better known and more money is offering for investment. In matters of trade coast houses have to some extent fought shy of the Kootenay re-Manitoba and Eastern Canadian wholesale houses have stepped in and secured the bulk of the business and they will not be easy to displace. The board of trade party would do well to look into the main industry of the country as well as commercial matters. The Slocan Star or the Silver King cannot be purchased for a few thousand dollars, but there are many promising prospects which could be, and the little hardship which they would have to put up with in going into the country with a responsible miner to look at likely properties would be more than made up to them should they be fortunate in their selection. In order to see what was being done in the hills your correspondent made a trip on foot, going in by way of Jackson basin and coming out at Three Forks, and he was mistaken for every class of man from capitalist to commercial peddler. As with many people the mining resources of the Kootenay are summed up in the Silver King and Slocan Star, it may be of interest to them to read of the many valuable properties one passes in making such a trip, to say nothing of hundreds of prospects upon which more or less work has been done. An hour's good steady climbing brings the sight-seer to the Northern Bell, owned by Jackson, from whom the basin is probably named. There was no one on this property save the owner, and he was engaged in the very profitable occupation of sacking ere out of the waste-dump, where the former lessees of the wroperty had thrown it. He had sacked some $12\frac{1}{2}$ tons and expected to get as much more, which would net him something over \$2,000, as the ore carries something like 85 ounces silver and 75 per cent. lead. This property was worked under a lease with purchasing clause by some Saattle men, and by poor management ran behind some thousand dollars. To secure himself Jackson paid off the obligations and was re-established in possession by the courts. The lessees were given six months in which to conclude purchase if they desired. This period will expire in March, and if the purchase is not concluded by that time Jackson will work the property him-self, as it has a very nice showing and should pay well. Climbing up to the top of the divide, something like 8,000 feet, the trail swings round to the right, along the side of what some call the Noble Five mountain. A short distance from the divide you come upon the Blue Bird mine, a property which has made considerable shipments and in which there are some 500 feet of tunneling. They have not commenced work this season, though they have a very good

Lower down on the same hill is the Goodenough fraction, which was discovered by a party of five who were walking along the trail. The party consisted of Messrs. Whittier, Thompson, Kemp, Martin and Good-enough. They ran a tunnel in upon the ledge and came across a very richlpay streak, which though small assayed very high in silver, carrying some 700 ounces to the ton. In driving their tunnel 65 feet they took out sufficient ore to pay all operating expenses, erect necessary living quarters, build a trail and leave a profit of $5,000. They have seven men at work now, and expect to ship

There are some 500 feet of tunneling on this mine, and heavy shipments will be made this winter from both the original Ruecau and Goodenough ledges. One carload of the latter ore gave a return last year of $9,000.

Not far from the Ruecau, on the same mountain, is the Deadman, where Messrs. Cutter & Miller have a dozen men blocking out work for the winter. They have some 270 tons of carbonates ready for shipment, the assay value of which is about 250 ounces. Their shipments this year will greatly exceed those of last season. The next mine in line of travel is the Noble Five group, from which the mountain has been given its name. It was one of the first groups located in the Slocan, and com-prises several full-sized claims. It has more work done upon it than any other things are so arranged that they will be able to make a wouderful showing when they commence stoping. The greater part of the work on this group has been done upon the Bonanza King and World's Fair.

Higher up the mountain side lies the Last Chance. Jack O'Regan has charge of the work upon this property, upon which the famous strike was made last year. An incline shaft was run down upon the ledge with a carbonate showing, which at 16 feet depth, widened to one foot of solid ore, and at a depth of 106 feet showed something over two feet of solid ore with three feet of concentrating ore. Work is now being pushed upon a tunnel to tap this ledge at a ower level. It is estimated to strike the ledge at a distance of 200 feet and is now in The coming winter promises to be the some 150 feet. In the last ten feet of the most active in the history of the Slocan tunnel a streak of carbonates and ore mixed mining country, which, owing to lack of has come in. The clean ore averages 190 cheap transportation facilities and the cent. lead, and the vein filling runs about Trail Creek gold excitement, has been 100 ounces. There are ten men at work on somewhat overlooked by the outside world. Nearly all of them have plentiful water supplies for domestic purposes, which in many instances is laid on in pipes from the mountain springs

Twenty minutes walk up the mountain from the Last Chance there is a deep saddle between a peak on the Noble Five mountain the face of sheer rocky bluff, the waste from own, has created a rather stiff demand for good miners which is an excellent indication of the activity prevailing. It is an easy strikes anything in its descent. The Lee thing to understand that with the increased made a shipment of a car load last week and will work all winter with a force of about eight men. To take a short cut into the Ruby Silver basin you retrace your steps past the Last Chance and climb a large slide, the summit of which is said to be considerably over 8,000 feet, and from which you can look down into the Ruby Silver basin. There is a movement on foot to have the government construct a wagon road for about three miles from the K & S. railway crossing at McGuigan creek up into the Mc-Guigan basin and on toward the Best basin. If this was done the mines in the three basins could by the construction of small spur roads, connecting with the trunk road, se-cure excellent transportation facilities for the products of their mines, and the same might give an incentive to many other properties to commence work. The above properties are comprised in but one section of the Slocan district. The stage does not pass them, but they can be seen in a couple of days if one is not afraid of some stiff climbing. Of the others-but that is another story which will do for another time

CANNOT COMPETE. San Francisco, Sept. 10.-The Central combination of interests has become imperative because of the depressed condition of the trade. D. H. Bibb, of the Golden Gate Lumber Company, in an interview said : We have been talking about this combination for over two years. The competition of British Columbia is too much for us. The Canadian lumberman has every advantage on his side. He does not need to buy his timber, he merely leases it from the government and pays for his logs as he takes hem ont. The importation of British Columbia lumber is steadily growing larger and larger. American mills have been forced to shut down, wages have been retoreed to said down, wages have been reduced, and for three years lumber has been sold below cost in this city. We cannot increase the consumption. We cannot compete with British Columbia, and we must rely upon increasing our foreign trade by establishing new markets in China, Japan, Australia and elsewhere.
