CHRIST BEFORE PILATE.

The original of this picture is one of the grandest paintings that have been given to the world in modern times. It covers about 20 by 30 feet of canvas, the figures all being life size. The scene is early morning in the praetorium or official residence of the Roman Governor at Jerusalem. In the centre of the picture is the Saviour with His hands bound, erect, composed, gazing steadfastly on the face of Pilate. Around and behind Him crosses the rabble of Jerusalem, some frantic, others apparently bent merely on killing time. Pontius Pilate sits as the representative of Caesar on the judgment throne. He is meditating and is greatly perplexed. On the right of Pilate stands Calaphis, the chief accuser of Christ. The figure pressing forward in the crowd with upstaid aims is a ruffian of the lowest type. He is shouting, "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" On the left of Pilate sit two elders watching the proceedings with great interest. Between Christ and Calaphis, sitting on the bench, is a rich banker looking on with contemptuous curiosity. Perched on a high stool by the side of the judgment seat, and resting his head against the wall, is a scribe who views the scene with an air of weary indifference. Conspicuously raised above the heads of the crowd, is seen a young mother with a beautiful face, holding a child in her arms and looking at Jesus with tenderness and compassion. Through the whole picture are groups of figures and faces reflecting the different emotions that animate each individual.

This picture has been on exhibition in the principal cities of Europe and America. It has been viewed by millions of people, and has created more sensation throughout the entire civilized world than any other painting ever produced. It was sold to John Wanamaker of Philadelphia for $120,000.
