PRIZES.—Classical Prize, 1873, C. J. Logan; Prince of Wales Prize for first-class honours in Classics, 1874, C. J. Logan; Hamilton Memorial Prize, 1875, and Bishop's Divinity Prize, 1875, R. L. Houston; French Prize, 1875, A. Hart; Governor-General's Medal for General Proficiency in second year, J. A. Houston; General Proficiency, first year, C. L. Ingles.

The degrees were conferred by the Vice-Chancellor, and the prizes were presented by the Bishop of Toronto. The candidates for Arts Degrees were presented by the Rev. Prof. Maddock, and those in Medicine were presented by Dr. Geikie. The number of the recipients of the degree of M. D., was small, as the regular Medical Convocation was held in April.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Bishop expressed his regret at the absence of the Chancellor; and added that he had no doubt that if he had been present he would have been pleased to see the College in so prosperous a state, and that he would also have been rejoiced to find that the students had not lost any of the good feeling that always existed on such an occasion.

The Benediction was then pronounced and the visitors left the hall,

The National Anthem was afterwards sung by the students.

The gentleman appointed as successor to the Rev. J. Ambery as Professor of Classics in Trinity College is the Rev. H. E. Maddock, M.A., Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge. Mr. Maddock entered the University of Cambridge in 1863, obtaining a junior scholarship at Clare College. In the following year he was elected a foundation scholar, and obtained a classical prize. In 1867 he graduated in the first class of the classical tripos, and was elected fellow of his college in 1870. Since leaving Cambridge Mr. Maddock has filled the posts of Composition master at Blackheath School, and vice-master of Trinity College, Eastbourne. During a portion of the time he has been engaged in parochial work, having had sole charge of St. Mark's Church, Cambridge, and of St. Paul's, Eastbourne.

DEATH OF THE REV. DR. BEAVEN.

The Rev. James Beaven, D.D., died at Niagara on Monday, the 8th of November. Many of our readers who have occasionally heard him speak at the Synod, will regret to learn that the voice which sounded forth in musical tones the solid old Churchmanship of former days, is now silent in death. He was as thorough an Anglican as the late Dr. Hook, having no more sympathy with Rome than with modern Puritanism. For almost a third of a century he resided in Toronto, where he endeared himself to a large circle by his piety and devotedness in the cause of religion, and by his blameless life. He was a graduate of Oxford, and the extent and accuracy of his classical learning were such as to do full credit to the Institution in which he received his education. Having been invited to do so, he came to Canada to fill the chair of theology in King's College, which at that time belonged to the Church, having been endowed for that purpose. When King's College was secularized, and assumed the name of Toronto University, Dr. Beaven, as might
