of the Department to divulge the names of livestock owners during the period the animals are being dealt with through quarantine or other controls under the provisions of the Animal Contagious Diseases Act.

PSYCHIATRIC TREATMENT IN PENITENTIARIES

Question No. 1,435-Mr. Howard (Skeena):

Have any plans been developed and initiated for the purpose of providing sufficient professional personnel to meet the psychiatric treatment requirements of inmates in penitentiaries and, if so, what are the details of such plans?

Hon. G. J. McIlraith (Solicitor General): The Canadian Penitentiary Service is authorized to employ 13 psychiatrists and 84 psychiatric nurses on a full-time basis. There are on strength at present, five psychiatrists and 71 psychiatric nurses employed on a fulltime basis. In order to compensate for a shortage of eight full-time psychiatrists, the Penitentiary Service has obtained the services of five psychiatrists on a part-time basis and 15 psychiatrists on a contract basis. Because of the extreme shortage of male psychiatric nurses, the Service has been unable to enlist these specialists in sufficient number to meet its requirements.

The present plan consists of recruiting the services of any well-qualified psychiatrist who is available and prepared to provide professional service in a penal environment. In addition, the Service provides within its institutions, to medical students in psychiatry, summer employment in this specialty in the hope of encouraging such students to specialize in the field.

The Service is also in the process of training six selected custodial officers to become psychiatric nurses.

The long range plan provides for the training of psychiatrists in Forensic Psychiatry in the Regional Medical Centres which are being developed.
