

INTRODUCTION.

INTRODUCTION.

PAGE

Beauty and Grandeur of the Sea—Commercial Importance—Early Notices of Navigation—Proportion of Sea to Land—Changes in its Outline—Depth of the Ocean—Saltiness—Loss by Evaporation—Supplied by Rivers—Motions of the Sea—Tides—Currents
—The Gulf-stream—Origin of the Phenomenon—Familiar Illustration -- Local Currents — Winds — Trade-winds — Monsoons — Land and Sea Breezes—Waves —Power of God — Man's Insensibility—Reflections 1

I. THE SHORES OF BRITAIN.

Instruction to be gained at Home as well as Abroad—Wisdom in Minutiae of Creation—Habitually Submerged Beetle—Marine Water-fleas—Sea-weeds—Of various Interest—Manufacture of Kelp—Sea and Black Wrack—Knotted Wrack—Sea-lace—Various Provisions for securing Buoyancy—Sea-weeds used as Food—
Dulse—Tangle—Sea-furbelows—Henware—English Dulse—Laver—Carrageen Moss—Sea-thong—Peacock's-tail—Delesseria
—Landscape—Sea-weeds—Parasitical Sea-weeds—Divine Care for these productions—Corallines—Uses—Sponge—Animal Flowers—Singular instance of Voracity—Aggregate Polypes—
Cows'-paps—Corals—Sea-fan—Sea-pen 23

II. THE SHORES OF BRITAIN, CONTINUED.

Fisheries—Structure of Fishes—Seales—Fins—Air-bladder—
Motion—Spines—Fruitfulness of Fishes—Migrations—The Her-