Wave lengths of light or, to be scientific, of the spectrum, from number 4000 at the beginning of the violet to number 7500 at the end of red and through violet, blue, green, yellow, pink, orange and red, are taken in by human eyesight, but all waves below 4000 and above 7600 fall on "deaf ears," to mix the metaphors, as far as vision is concerned. In other words, there are billions and trillions of things in existence that are hard, material facts, which the that are hard, material facts, which the best human eyes cannot see, because their particles vibrate slower than 4000 times a second or more than 7600 times that are hard, material facts, which the best human eyes cannot see, because their particles vibrate slower than 4000 times a second.

Obviously, spectres, apparitions and other alleged immaterial objects so called are nothing at all but the suddenly increased or decreased vibrations in the molecules of some real thing that has become more visible than usual or visible in a new way. Thus it is not necessary to believe in spirits or to understand the physical reality of maderstand the physical reality of materializations.

TOMMY, HAPPY GIGGLES AND BOSSY COW

One day Tommy went to visit his grandma, who lived on a little farm out in the country.

There were no children near, and Tommy soon grew tired of playing by himself and began throwing stones at old Bossy, the cow.

"Here, here!" cried a squeaky voice, and Tommy's little friend, Happy Giggles, hopped from behind a clump of trees and came running toward Tommy. "What are you doing that for?"

"Just for fun," laughed Tommy. "I love to see her kick up her heels and run."

"How would you like to have some one stone you to make you run?" asked Happy Giggles, a frown on his funny little face. "Would you think it very runny? Certainly not. And I'm sure if you'd stop and take a second thought you'd know Bossy doesn't like it either. Come here, Bossy, old lady." With a toss of her brown head the old cow joined Happy Giggles and Tommy.

"Everything's all right," laughed Happy Giggles, patting her side.
"Tommy didn't really mean to hurt you."

you."
"Funny way to play." snapped Bossy.
"In all my life on this farm I can never remember being stoned before, and I just wondered what I had done to dele face. "Would you think it very my? Certainly not. And I'm sure if

The color perceiving apparatus in the retina has been compared with three pendulums, to represent red, green and blue, the three primary sensations for color. It is the swing of these pendulums from the impact of the particles in vibration in space which makes you see these colors. If these outside vibrations beat against the retine 400 times your pendulum The color perceiving apparatus in ach, liver, bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs." that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping. When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative, because tive," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undiscreted food passes out of the bowels.

Which makes you see these coids. Thus, according to the retina 4,000 times, your pendulum swings that many times with it and you see violet. Thus, according to the number and size of the pendulum beats, you recognize a particular color. Form, contour, distance and perspective are perceived visually only within limits. If the human eyes could see things with 1 to 4,000 vibrations or with 7,000 and all higher vibrations, human knowledge would be greatly multiplied. Perhaps this conficusion can be proved by Prof. H. L. Whited's explanation of why a chicken or a cow crosses the road in the face of danger.

Whited avers that it is due to the course, daring and resolution in dealing with others, yet contrary forces interpose weighty obstacles, which will put those Martial qualities to a test The prospective visually only within limits. If the human eyes could see things with 1 to 4,000 vibrations or with 7,000 and all higher vibrations, and the prolific watery sign, scopio, always making for fruitful results. Nevertheless, the Saturn square and a weak Jupiter call for careful dealings along all lines. Likewise guard the leath from Saturn afflictions, colds, rheumatism and kindred aliments.

Prof. Whited avers that it is due to Prof. Whited avers that it is due to the fact that chickens and cows have monocular single vision—that is to say, they can see two ways at the same time and each eye simultaneously can be focused on a different object.

Some Strange Oddities. If you drive toward cows or chickens in a roadway, those which face your motor car will turn to one side and let the car pass. Those with a side toward you car will, if on the right side, attempt to run across to the left side of the road. Those headed away will run down the road in front and turn of down the road in front and turn off then. down the road in front and turn off then.

The chicken on the right side of the road runs to the left side, and vice versa, because the eye of the creature which sees and recognizes the danger is kept on the car or dangerous object. To turn to the right or to the left and escape would blind the animal as it turns and it cannot afford even for that fraction of a minute to take the chance. If a cow or a chicken runs across the road in front of the car, the eye with which it first observed will keep the car clearly and continuously in view and allow the animal to escape pending danger.

If safely across the road and blocked by a fence or other obstruction, a cow or a chicken may turn fully around to perceive her enemy with the other eye and then run for dear life the recross the road.

'Indeed, you certainly are a good cow," replied Happy Giggles. "And I'm sure Tommy is sorry he frightened sure Tommy is sorry he frightened you."

"I certainly am," said Tommy quickly. "For I wouldn't want anyone to throw stones at me."

"Well, instead of teasing Bossy, you should be good to her," replied Happy Giggles. "Folks seldom think of the debt of gratitude they owe to their cows. Why, cows are our best friends. They give us rich milk from which the farmer's wife makes cheese and butter. Their hides have been used for leather for clothing. Their horns and hair are used for a good many things. Why, in the olden times before horses were so plentiful, cows were used for plowing the fields. So you see what a good friend the cow is to us and how kind we should be to her in return."

"Well, I never knew a cow was anything more than just a cow, before," laughed Tommy. "I never thought of her as a friend, but if she's the friend you say she is, I'm sorry I ever thought of teasing her."

"I knew it," said Happy Giggles kindly. "And I'm sure if all little boys realized the great debt of gratitude we owe to the family of cows, they'd never throw stones at them or treat them cruel, but would be kind to them."

The dinner bell rang and Tommy ran into the house to eat his dinner All afternoon he gathered clover from the next field and fed Bossy, and when night came he found the day had slipped by very quickly.

I'm sure if Happy Giggles had returned he would have told Tommy it was just because instead of causing Bossy worry and trouble he had made her very happy. For the greatest happiness one can find is being kind to those who try to serve us. you."

I hurried back, and without ringing, tried the door, disliking to summon the man for so trivial a cause. The door was unlocked, and I hurried down the hall, my rubber-heeled shoes making no noise. But just outside the door of the library I halted, surprised with the vague unexpiness again rising in my vague uneasiness again rising in my mind.

Picture this boy, trudging, tired and sleepy, back from the trenches.

He sees posted up at an army hut a notice of the overwhelming success of the Victory Loan 1918.

He sees the notice posted that more Canadians bought Victory Bonds than in any previous loan, that money to carry on the fight is assured.

He sees that his self-sacrifice, his courage and self-denial are appreciated, that mighty battalions of Canadian money are marching to reinforce him.
