ELIOTS "RELIGION OF FUTURE" BRINGS A STATEMENT FROM POPE

Pontiff Has Address Translated—Regrets Man of Such Authority Should Spread Theories Set Forth—Harvard President on Criticism.

The New York Evening Post says editorially—Dr. Eliot's way of replying to criticism is both lofty and wise. The wisdom of it is shown by the fact that even rash criticism and careless interpretation not only do no harm, when met in a constant spirit of patience, but even do good, as they stimulate and suggest further corrective discussion.

ST. JOHN CUTS AWAY FROM MARITIME TRADE BOARD

J. N. Harvey Springs Sensation at Meeting Today and Warm Speeches Follow—Boastful Nova Scotia Against Union But it Carries—W. B. Snowball is President.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 19.—(Special)—There was quite a breeze in the maritime board of trade meeting this morning, when J. N. Harvey, of St. John, announced that St. John Board had decided to withdraw from maritime board on the ground that while the latter was a splendid theoretical body, it was actually a failure, it devoted too much attention to local matters not of interest to the maritime provinces.

He referred to differences at the Halifax meeting over a resolution on the route of the G. T. P. Mr. B. B. Snowball, of St. John, had accomplished a great deal. During the differences between Halifax and St. John the latter had the wrong end of the argument.

President Snowball characterized the action of St. John as disgraceful. He warmly defended the work and influence of the board.

Mr. Edgett, of Moncton, Senator Ross, Mayor McLean, of Port Hood, J. T. Hawke, of Moncton, Hance Logan and others strongly criticized St. John's action. The last speaker said if St. John insisted it would mean disintegration as the St. John delegates were absent at the opening of the meeting they should give notice of withdrawal next year.

The officers of the maritime board of trade elected this morning are:

Auditor, E. A. Saunders, of Halifax; Secretary, C. M. Creed, of Halifax. The closing hours of the session were spent by the Maritime Union opened by W. H. Edgett, of Moncton, who contended that union would stimulate development of resources of the province, better provincial credit, an annual saving of $150,000 a year by abolition of two legislatures, a uniform judiciary and uniform administration in agriculture, immigration railway taxation of crown lands and other matters. It would mean, he claimed, larger ambitions and the obliteration of sectional jealousy.

The resolution was opposed by Mr. Johnson of Halifax, who said Nova Scotia expelled all other provinces in resources and education, and had nothing to gain by such a union.

Sensor Ross thought a committee should be appointed to deal with the question and report at the next meeting.

W. B. Snowball President President, W. B. Snowball, of Chatham; Vice-President, W. F. McLean, of Port Hood; 2nd Vice-President, James Paton, of Charlottetown; Corresponding Secretary, W. L. Weidon, of Chatham.

CORPORATIONS WELCOME NEW TAX—PARKER

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Commenting on the new corporation tax, in the September number of the National Monthly, it is rumored that Lieut.-Col. Wadmore of Halifax, now visiting here, may be placed in command of this depot.

W. Bruce Jonah, who was admitted an attorney here last fall, is now practicing his profession in Regina in partnership with ex-premier Haultain.

Soon after the death of Miss Pinkney, long known as one of the wealthiest women in the country, Louis H. Morris, son of Mrs. Curtis, by a previous marriage, began an action to have her estate declared incompetent, alleging that she was intemperate and given to gross extravagances.

Among other things it was charged that she was in the habit of engaging private boxes at theatres and remaining in them long after the first curtain had been rung down; that she had spent $12,000 foolishly in one month; that she had bought a dozen parrots ranging in price from $50 to $450 each; that she had an ungovernable temper and that by reason of old age, loss of memory and other causes specified she was incapable of managing her affairs.

The action was tried in the Connecticut Probate Court and that tribunal declared Mrs. Curtis an incompetent, naming Messrs. Banks and Shaw conservators of her estate in Fairfield, Conn., where she spent much of her time. Subsequently they were appointed a committee of her estate in this state.

Through her attorney, Lavin L. Kellogg, Mrs. Curtis at once began proceedings to have the order set aside. Judge Brady in his decision sustains the contention set forth by Mrs. Curtis' lawyer, holding that the order of the Connecticut court, upon which the committee was appointed subsequently in this state, is insufficient under the laws of New York, and that the order naming the committee must be vacated and set aside. Judge Brady's ruling is a clear victory for Mrs. Curtis.

PATTERSON'S LIFE ENDS IN SUICIDE

Nova Scotian's Story One of Tragic and Romantic Episodes LIKE FICTION

Gives Up Share of Estate and Goes to States—Loss of Quiet Wife, Wrecks His Ambition—Shoots Himself

Boston, Mass., Aug. 19.—(Special)—The death of Clarence Patterson, 34 years old, of New Glasgow (N. S.), at the relief hospital, last night, as the result of three shots in the breast, fired by himself, ended, according to the stories told by his friends, a Quixotic career filled with tragedy and romantic episodes, than which the pages of fiction can offer no character more dramatic.

Patterson was the son of a wealthy resident of New Glasgow. His father, Robert, and two sisters, Sadie and Jeanne, still live there. When his father died, Patterson refused to accept the share in the estate due him, but insisted that his brother and sisters keep it all. After a very pretty romance, he married a beautiful girl, then in her teens.

Seventeen years ago his "quiet wife," as he called her, died. The death proved a terrible shock, and ever since Patterson was subject to periods of deep melancholy. For the past five years he had been employed in Concord (N. H.). He was well liked by his employers, but periodically, when obsessed by memories of his loss and sufferings, Patterson would disappear, and it is said, seek to drown his thoughts in drinking. For this he lost his position and, drawing his savings from the bank in Concord, he came to Boston, where he stated he was going to New Glasgow to see his folks.

He started out with that intention on Sunday. From that time till he staggered into the hospital wounded, his movements were not known. In a dying confession that he shot himself, Patterson said he first gave a fictitious name, because he wished to shield his Nova Scotia relatives from notoriety.

In reference to a request by G. L. Rogers of Providence (R. They were of French descent and spelled their name "D'Orgy." The father was a well-known contractor and there was quite a large family of boys and girls but they moved to different quarters of the globe, the members of the D'Orcy family were school teachers, two of them having taught in one of the large industrial schools in Providence (R.
