Colonial League Shaky

Providence, R. I., July 8—The Colonial league, in session here today, voted to drop Taunton and Fall River as circuit cities and to disband the clubs on Saturday of this week.

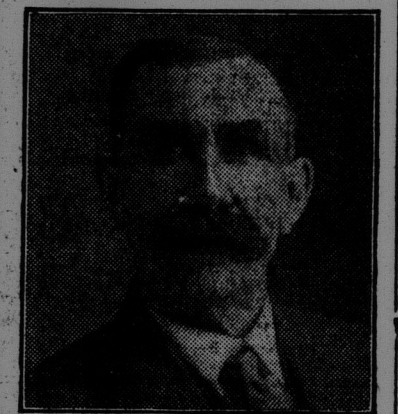

All the games of the Pawtucket club will be played on the road. These changes are made necessary because poor support in these cities has made the clubs heavily losing ventures.

The best of the players will be distributed among the other six teams and the league will continue with six clubs.

A new schedule will be prepared to take effect on Monday. Maxwell, manager at New Haven, will return to the Brooklyn Federal league club, and Wil-

WALK ON AIR?

Train Of Thought Inspired By A Letter About "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. D. McLEAN

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 28th, 1914.
"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. I tried several medicines, but got no results and my Headaches became more severe. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-a-tives' make you feel like walking on air. This appealed to me so I decided to try a box. In a very short time I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. Now I have a good appetite, sleep every night, and the Headaches are gone entirely. I cannot say too much for 'Fruit-a-tives', and recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends."

NEWS OF THE BOXERS.

Millburn Saylor, an Indianapolis lightweight who figures he is going to stop Charley White's winning career next Tuesday night at the Atlas A. A., Boston, is going good, judging from the way he defeated Roy Hurst at Nashville the other night.

George Brown, a Chicago Greek middleweight, who fought Mike Gibbons here, is to sail for Australia on July 22. Jack Humphries, a flyweight, and Alf Mansfield are to visit the United States from England soon.

Freddie Delaney, English boxer, is going to Australia.

Tom Driscoll, a clever Welsh boxer, who is now the front runner for the title in the ring, he will enter in the next military tournament near the battle lines in France.

Probably the longest and most luxurious heard in the world is that of Zachary T. Wilcox of Carson City, Nev., a veteran of the Civil War. He has not shaved or had it cut for thirty-two years, and it is now 8½ feet long. Ordinarily it is worn wrapped around the neck of cardboard and thrust under the owner's vest.

NO TIME FOR TRIFLING

Editor Times—
Sir—Doubtless the present slow recruiting is a disappointment. But I have more respect for the men who keep away from the recruiting office than what I have for the great amount of bluffers who go there and partly enlist, inspired only by pretense. The man who desires to be known as a "want-to-be-hero" under the protection of "my wife won't sign the papers," should not be admitted for his bravery. It is ridiculous to say that a man is not aware of his wife's ideas concerning the matter before he goes to the recruiting office. If there is a husband who is not that closely associated with the affairs of his home, his wife should sign the papers with a sigh of relief. The present is no time to seek popularity by trifling with the government.

Yours truly,
TIMES READER.

BLACK RIVER PICNIC.

On Tuesday, July 6, a successful picnic was held at Black River in connection with the Anglican Sunday school and Band of Hope. It was well attended by adults and children from Loch Lomond, Garnett and Black River. The weather could not have been better, although in the early morning it did not look at all promising. The people brought their lunches, and fruit and candy were sold on the beach. In the afternoon there were races for the children in Mr. Johnston's field, and the winners received prizes; also there was dancing, and a platform was erected for the purpose. Both children and adults spent a very enjoyable day.

OLD TIME SPORT

Wallace Ross on The Grand Game of Rowing

Teemer and Hanlon; Walter Brown of Halifax—The Paris Crew's Wonderful Three Miles—The Matter of Training.

The following article written by Wallace Ross, a well known sculler of his day, was published on December 21, 1888 in the Daily Telegraph. In the article he brought out valuable points for athletes in training, and also gave his views on racing in those days. He wrote as follows:—

"It is a very easy matter to sit around a warm fire and talk on probabilities; to dwell on the future, which is as dark as a blackboard. The future, however, is his ally and his style of locomotion are unknown qualities to me, at least. I dare to make the assertion that years will have come and gone before our sport loving public will have the pleasure of witnessing superior scullers to those of today. I base my belief on the work of the last ten or twenty years. There has been but little improvement in speed since that time. Recall the celebrated race between Teemer and Hanlon on the Pleasure Islands, in Albany. We have had but land course, in fact, importance and few, if any, of that importance and speed. His heart was always true, and he never would give up a struggle when a chance of victory remained. Push him as his opponents would he was always found ready."

"Take the Paris crew, Fulton, Ross, Hutton and Price, as another example of the old school of grit and speed. Their three miles in eighteen minutes will stand at the peak of the book of records. The performance was accomplished on the St. John, N. B. course, and what makes it still more commendable is the fact that it was done in a rowing boat, the crew having no opponent to push them. Now, if these oxmen had had our present style of rowing, their disposal instead of the box like and stationary seat, there is no saying what they would have done."

"We have a great deal to learn yet, but about pulling a boat and training for a race. A man to train properly must refrain from all pleasures and excitement. He must be given plenty to eat, nothing of the wispy-wispy order, but good hair-curling food. Vegetables, all things he must eat, in eating give his teeth plenty of exercise and not deplete his ration in big chunks. The ordinary athlete believes in the efficiency of the bath. Now a bath is healthy to take every day, but when it comes to taking one every day, as the majority do, I assert that it is harmful. A hot bath is the best bath. By that I mean a good rub down with a rough towel."

"Next to eating, sleeping is the most important factor to the health of a person in training. He should get lots of it and not more than eight hours. A rowing is generally a good sleeper. In rowing, as in everything else, there is a chance for improvement, but a body's possession knowledge as to how fast time is to be accomplished, let him send me a sample and I'll try to beat it."

MAN GIVES SIGNS OF

For Attention and Development
as Promising Mechanical Wonder

Many of the older St. John people will remember Alexander Petch, who was a blacksmith here before going to the United States. He was one of the famous step dancers of his time, and the team of Hammond and Petch were popular favorites. He was also a very clever with the gloves. He was a brother of A. W. Petch of the Daily Telegraph composing staff, and of Mrs. A. J. Charlton and Mrs. S. Milligan of this city. The following article from the Lynn (Mass.) Telegram relates to a son of Alex. Petch.

DANIELS', Head of King Street plant here call signs of mechanical talent of a high order have been exhibited by Howard Petch, 10 Aborn avenue, a youngster taking the apprentice machinist course. The lad was just old enough when he went to work for the G. E. eighteen months ago to come within the law regarding school attendance and factory employment of boys. While his superiors do not say any claim to having discovered any mechanical wonder, the boy has done several things since his connection with the company which inspired William Lloyd, a manufacturing engineer, to direct that he be transferred to the apprentice course, and an eye be kept on him.

"The particular thing which Petch did to attract attention to himself from the trained minds above him was to make a tool chest of a very substantial nature and ornamental value, out of old wood lying about the plant. The chest was not at all an ordinary one and contained several ideas which, so far as can be discovered, were absolutely original. Some of these ideas will be of practical value, while some merely showed ingenuity."

"The principal feature of the chest was the adaptation of the secret drawer idea. There are several secret drawers for tools small in size and of a considerable value, and these drawers are opened by pressing secret buttons concealed with cleverness."

"The boy entered the General Electric employ eighteen months ago in Factory V, Federal street, where he was in the stock room of the meter and instrument machinery department. His foreman, Andrew P. Haynes, of Swampscott, heard some time ago that young Petch had something on which he worked ed intermittently and the identity of which he guarded jealously, hiding it in the stock room.

"Investigation proved it to be the tool chest which he had created in his spare moments."

"The General Electric authorities desire to give the boy every opportunity to develop his abilities along lines suggested by himself, if he shows that the making of the chest was an indication of real ability and not a combination of precociousness and luck. Mr. Haynes hopes to get the young man back into his department after he has finished in the training school, if he does finish."
