Sheldon's Newspaper.

The Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon's books, now so universally read, make it plain that that writer's hopes of the regeneration of the world lie in getting individuals more and more to do their daily tasks on Christian principles no matter what the sacrifice involved. In the best known of his books, "In His Steps" he clearly looks to the newspaper, carried on upon Christian principles, as largely the hope of the "coming kingdom." In looking about him for a newspaper upon his model, he seemed to have hit upon the Montreal Witness, to which he has addressed a letter, part of which we quote:—

"I have read the Witness with much interest. I cannot say that I know of any other daily paper in the United States that is conducted on such high Christian principles. I wish I did, for if ever we needed such a paper in our country we need it now.

"Let me express to you my appreciation of the Christian heroism and consideration which make a paper like the Witness a possibility. I have always believed it possible for a Christian daily to succeed. You have proved that it can. So much of the ideal newspaper in 'In His Steps' is therefore real.

"I pray that you may continue to be blessed in your work. I do not know a more glorious opportunity for building up the kingdom on earth than by means of Christian journalism. I take the greatest pleasure in sending the copies of the Witness to newspaper friends of mine for their inspection.

Very cordially yours,

CHARLES M. SHELDON,
Topeka, Kansas."

Live Stock Notes.

Put in a supply of clay for winter use. Place a box containing clay, ashes, salt, charcoal and leached ashes, which is a substitute for bone meal, where the sow can have easy access at all times.

Comfortable winter quarters for the brood sows pays just as well as for other stock, and no person can expect to be successful in the swine industry who feeds his stock hogs in a mud puddle or a snow bank. Now is the time to look after such work if it has not already been done.

A hog does not lay on fat very fast when he is squealing with the cold. Pigs that are to be wintered with the sows should have warm comfortable quarters, so arranged as to admit of cleaning frequently for sanitary benefit. The same is true of the winter care of all animals kept on the farm. Warm quarters cheapen the cost of wintering.

The second danger to young pigs is that they become diseased for want of exercise. If the sow is kept in a close pen and proves to be a good suckler, it is often the case that in two or three weeks the pigs get so fat as to die. Many a farmer no doubt, with a valuable litter of pigs shut up in a close pen, has seen them die one after another until the litter disappeared, and yet he had no idea what was the matter. Lay it down then as a second rule in pig raising that young pigs must have exercise.

W. C. T. U.

What has become of the Y. W. C. T. U.? Knowing of the splendid work they did last winter we cannot understand how they could let these opportunities pass unheeded. For surely the work that lays close to their hands must appeal to the conscience and ambition of our young women, who might make the "Y" a strong, popular and effective organization, as they have had privileges that we who are older have missed. And it seems as though they might, by setting up their standard, control society in Hartland. It is they who might gather the children in the Band of Hope; teach the young men they must have higher aims and loftier ideals if they would be companions of their gracious womanhood; and in a day like this when questions of such interest are coming up they should get to work. We talk of the wonderful life of our departed leader, Francis Willard. Is it an impossible ideal? Are there not plenty of girls in Hartland who might be like her in a great many ways, and whose life, like hers, might be a benediction. Dear girls, we want to see you mustered into a standing army whose life work should be a "peaceful warfare" for the saving of souls, and the character building that will make our lives grand in this world, and gain us an entrance to the Home above.
