

ACTIVITY IN SHIPBUILDING ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Collector of Customs C. B. Lockhart Says Conditions Are Good in the West.

Visited Seattle and Says People There Are Entering War in Whole-Hearted Manner.

"Conditions are good in the west. Shipbuilding is being carried on extensively and the lumber mills are operating at increased capacity," said C. B. Lockhart, collector of customs, who is home after an extended visit to British Columbia and Seattle.

"One would hardly think it was the same west he had seen fourteen years ago," said Mr. Lockhart who explained that it was that number of years since he made his last trip to the coast. "Now cities and towns have sprung up and remarkable progress has been made," continued the collector.

Mr. Lockhart explained that the shipbuilding industry was experiencing a big boom in the west, both steel and wooden ships being built. The wooden vessels were of five masts and were looked upon as splendid crafts. The lumber industry was never in better shape than at the present time, the operators have sold at least three months out in advance of the sawlog.

"I spoke to many people and I saw many things on my trip," said the collector, "and I am firmly convinced that the United States are entering the war in a whole-hearted manner. There is an atmosphere of war in the States, and the greatest precaution is being exercised to guard the various public services of the country."

When asked in regard to the feeling in the west in respect to conscription, Mr. Lockhart said that the only meeting of consequence he had witnessed was a gathering at Vancouver, favorable to compulsory service. The meeting was attended by upwards of 15,000 citizens of the country, enthusiastically in support of the measure.

Collector Lockhart said that New Brunswick boats were assisting materially in the mobilization of the west. Among other men from that province he met Col. Markham, S. D. Scott, J. N. Harvey, William Russell, Orlay Merritt and Chas. Christopher.

"In fact you can see men from the east almost in any western centre," said the collector.

Mr. Lockhart was absent from St. John over five weeks. He was accompanied on his trip, which included the principal centres on route, by both Mrs. Lockhart and Miss Lockhart.

Heads Blown Off. Down in the mine shaft some bodies are reported to have been discovered with heads and limbs blown off and others mutilated in various ways. A rescue party going to the landing, where the explosion took place, found the bodies of twenty-two men, and another party, reaching No. 7 found seven more.

Among the English-speaking miners who are known to have been working at No. 7 are: John D. McKay, Thomas Durham, George Delaney, Michael Curry, Joseph Steel, Thomas Murphy, Archie Cameron. It is not yet known whether these men are living or dead, but there are grave fears that the worst has happened. Mr. McKay, one of the best known miners of the district, was treasurer of the local branch of the Amalgamated Mine Workers.

It is believed that the explosion was caused by the first shot fired when the men went into the pit this morning.

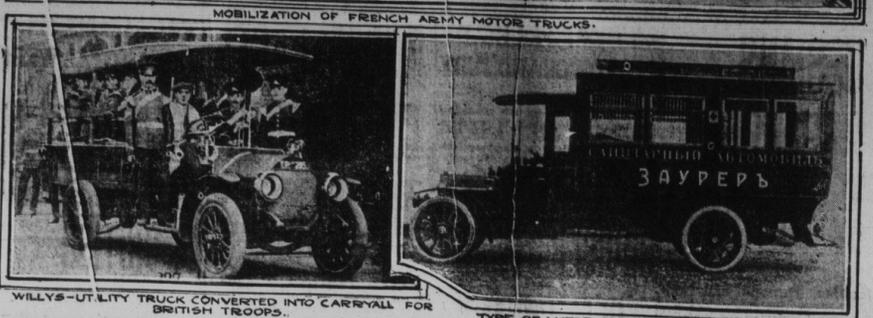

Heroic Work. A heavy fall of coal is reported to have taken place at No. 7 landing, blocking the way to the landing. Rescue parties going to the landing have had to approach it by another route than that usually used. Heroic work is being done by scores of volunteers and two young men who went down into the pit on rescue work have been suffocated and now lie dead.

Jack McKenzie of New Waterford is son of Daniel McKenzie and Philip Nicholson. Dr. D. J. Hartigan has been among those working to save any in the pit who might still be living. Dr. Hartigan was down in the mine with a rescue party and was partly overcome by gas but on recovering went down a second time.

Rev. Dr. Thompson, of Glace Bay who was overcome by gas, and Rev. J. H. McDonald pastor of St. Anthony's parish have also been among those to take part in the rescue work.

W. J. Hinchey, a well known local merchant and formerly a miner, has been especially active among the volunteers. He was with the rescue party that made its way to No. 6 landing and there found the bodies of 22 men. On this trip Mr. Hinchey and his fellows were down in the pit for some four hours. John A. Morrison, president of the Amalgamated Mine Workers, risked his life in rescue work and was so badly passed that for about four hours after coming out of the pit with the party with which he was working he was out of his mind.

Mr. Morrison is now partially recovered. He will soon regain his health.

Dense Gas. General Superintendent Tonge and a number of other assistants are on the ground working at the utmost limit of endurance to save any men still underground who are not already beyond saving. The rescue workers are using the draeger apparatus but they are finding their task one of the greatest difficulty owing to the gas which is still pouring through the mine everywhere. The coal company's spare warehouse is being used as a morgue.

Already the bodies of some of the miners have been placed there. One of the dead men identified so far is a Belgian. Another is Jack Fraser, a well known English miner. No. 12 colliery the oldest now operated in the New Waterford district was opened in 1907 with William Maxwell as manager. Angus R. McDonald the present manager succeeding Mr. Maxwell. Mr. McDonald is a Cape Breton man of long experience in mining operations. He first worked in the Victoria mine in various capacities and was for a time in the mines at Ferme, B. C. He started his official life as underground manager at No. 9 afterwards filling the same position at No. 2 and then at No. 3 and No. 6. He is a thoroughly capable man and may be relied upon to do efficient service in meeting the present emergency.

Large Output. The output on No. 12 last year was 297,532 tons. In the preceding year the output was 369,451 tons the decrease in 1916 being due to the short- age of labor caused by enlistments. When the last provincial mines report was prepared 313 miners were employed underground in the colliery and 58 men were at work on the surface. It was one of the largest collieries worked by the Dominion Coal Company.

No Change in Telegram Blanks. The Secretary of the Board of Trade received yesterday from the Board of Railway Commissioners a copy of their finding re the application of the Telegraph Companies for permission to change the existing form of blank so as to relieve themselves from liability in the event of non-delivery of a message. The application was denied as the commissioners took the ground that the parties receiving the message were not a party to the contract, the parties being the sender and the company, and the present blank covered that phase of the matter, hence there was no need for a change.

Clarke Girl Improving. Edith Clarke, the daughter of Thos. Clarke, of Milford, who was struck by the suburban train about a mile from Fairville station, on Monday evening, was reported by her improving at the General Public Hospital early this morning. She regained consciousness yesterday and there is now hope for her recovery.

LARGEST NUMBER OF CHALLENGES IN YEARS AT ARSON CASE HEARING

Jury Likely to Be Completed at Today's Session — Hearing of Challenge to Isaac Webber Occupied About an Hour.

Although two days have elapsed since the opening of the case of The King vs. Joseph O'Brien and John Hughes, charged with arson, at the Circuit Court, the complete jury of twelve men has not yet been empanelled. As forecasted in The Standard yesterday there were numerous challenges made by counsel at yesterday's session of the court. Jurymen were challenged for cause as well as peremptorily, and it after trying the cases the decision was that the party summoned was indifferent between the Crown and the accused, he was promptly challenged peremptorily. Both the counsel for the Crown and for the defence exercised their privileges of challenging to the fullest extent and when the court finally adjourned about 1 o'clock only seven jurors had been summoned and the new talismen will be on hand today.

Mr. Mullin's objections yesterday were founded on the belief that many jurors being summoned and the new talismen will be on hand today. Mr. Mullin's objections yesterday were founded on the belief that many jurors being summoned and the new talismen will be on hand today.

Among the challenges made by Hon. J. P. Byrne was that to Isaac Webber, to whom the Attorney General took objection on the ground that he had been willing to make a wager that the accused would be acquitted. Mr. Webber's examination occupied nearly an hour. He denied absolutely having made any bet as to the outcome of the case, claiming that he would deal fairly between the Crown and the prisoners. D. S. Robillard swore that Mr. Webber had offered to bet. During the hearing of the challenge against Mr. Webber there were several remarks by the witness which proved amusing. He said he did not always tell the truth, but he often told lies in connection with "putting up" the marks he was employed to sell in his business as an auctioneer. The witness said, however, that this was incidental to his business in order to make the public imagine they were securing goods of the best quality. In other matters Mr. Webber contended that his word was as good as that of any man.

"You got me going all right," said Mr. Webber on one occasion to the Attorney General, a remark which brought forth much laughter from the spectators. Mr. Webber at another point in the hearing asked the opportunity of making a statement. On the Chief Justice's consent being given, Mr. Webber remarked "Your Honor, I don't want to get mixed up as a juror in this case anyway. Don't think I am anxious to be on the jury." As a remark of this character had been made by other men summoned, who like Mr. Webber were not anxious for jury duty, it caused further amusement to the spectators. Finally the triers reached a decision that Mr. Webber was not indifferent and he was excused.

Court officials state that it has been several years since such a large number of challenges were made before the swearing in of the jury. Counsel for the defence contends that the public mind has been prejudiced against the striking plumbers and he is anxious to secure men as members of the jury who in his opinion will give a fair verdict. The Crown is likewise anxious to secure men who are not prejudiced against the Crown's case and so the difficulty arises. More than ordinary interest centres in the hearing and there interest was displayed by the large numbers present at the many nice legal points raised at the hearing.

MAUDE'S FIGHTING FAMILY. (New York Sun.) More laurels for General Frederick Stanley Maude. He has the habit of victory. At last the British have a strategist in Mesopotamia who can outwit and outfight the Germanized Turks. The passage of the Shatt-el-Adhnan was another of Maude's surprises. He excels in swift attack. Taking 12,000 of the enemy, his casualties were only 75.

Maude came of a fighting family, his father, General Sir F. Maude, V.C. The son has done little else than fight for his country since he entered the army in 1884. He distinguished himself in the Sudan and in the Boer war. He has also been very much in demand as a staff officer. He was assistant director of the territorial force for three years. A well educated and experienced officer, famous for his personal bravery, Maude was ready when the call in Mesopotamia came.

THE KAISER STANDS ALONE. (The World's Work.) The Kaiser faces the dismemberment of his dream of world empire and the end of a personal power that has for many years threatened civilization with the present war. He is another of the long line of reactionary figures who have taken the feudal doctrines of the Middle Ages and tried to drive back the irresistible growth of individual rights and human liberty.

George III, was a small character and stupid. Napoleon the First was a magnificent tyrant. Napoleon the Third was scheming and petty. But none of these, though they lived in supposedly less civilized times, ever descended to the inhuman and the conscienceless beliefs and practices which the Kaiser has adopted to reach his ends. In modern times he stands alone of all rulers, either of those who inherited power or those who acquired it by their own abilities—damned in a class by himself.

ECZEMA Has Stayed Cured for 15 YEARS

THE Ketchesons are well known as pioneer settlers of Hastings County, and none of them probably has a wider acquaintance than Mr. W. D. Ketcheson, who was formerly Division Court Bailiff of the Trenton Court, and is now living at 178 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Over fifteen years ago Mr. Ketcheson was cured of an extremely severe case of eczema and piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment, and he writes now to say that the cure proved a permanent one.

In 1897 Mr. Ketcheson wrote as follows:—"I was troubled for thirty years with itching piles and eczema. I could not sleep at night, and when I got down the itching was terrible. Eczema covered my legs paragon I could hear of. Being Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised, I procured a box, and this Ointment effected a complete cure."

On Sept. 28th, 1912, Mr. Ketcheson wrote as follows:—"I had suffered for many years from eczema and piles, and had tried doctors and everything I could hear of in vain. Reading about Dr. Chase's Ointment, I purchased it at once, and was soon completely cured. That was fifty years ago, so there can be no doubt of the cure being a permanent one. I have met a great many people who have been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment."

In this year of 1917 Mr. Ketcheson again confirms his cure, and expresses his wishes that others may benefit by his experience. Refuse to accept substitutes.

In Action at Front on Kevo and ses—The Retreat of the Russ cia—French Win.

Petrograd, July 25.—The Russian young women's battalion raised by the twice wounded field officer Vero Butchareff, was in action on the front at Krevo yesterday for the first time. They are reported to have been successful, although the battalion suffered some losses, the extent of which is not yet known. The Novoe Vremya correspondent at the front reports that the women behaved in an exemplary way, gaining the respect of the men soldiers.

Striking Panorama. Copenhagen, July 25.—A German semi-official report describes as a striking panorama the retreat of the Russian armies in Galicia.

Retiring columns stretching to the horizon can be plainly observed from various vantage points. The retreat occasionally degenerates into a full rout, particularly under the influence of the Austro-German field guns.
