NURSE CALMLY REVIEWS EASTLAKE MURDER CRIME

Declares She and Woman's Husband Are Innocent of Brutal Act.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10.—"They simply nabbed me because I was on the scene. The real murderer, whom I saw leaving the house that morning, they made no effort to get. It was I who led them to Mr. Eastlake, and now they are trying to lay that terrible thing on both of us."

Miss Sarah Knox, who is held together with Roger D. Eastlake, naval officer, in the city hall here in connection with the murder of Mrs. Eastlake last Friday at Colonial Beach, when she was seen at her cell in the jail today, spoke as quoted above.

"I have been told by my counsel not to talk, but so many falsehoods have been told about the case that I want to correct some of them. You see that my hands do not tremble, and that I am not in a state of nervous collapse, as was alleged in the papers," she said, holding out her hands to show that she was calm. "They said something about me committing the crime in the place, I didn't do it, and in the second place I had done it, I would be a big fool to say so. Therefore, you can go ahead and correct that."

"Of course, I cannot help feeling badly about the whole affair, and the fact that I am in this place and that they are trying to put it on me. They said something about having a man come out which said had been identified as belonging to me," she continued. "That would be a piece of evidence which I would like to see. The Eastlake children will tell the story of the murder. I did have a woman come out of a light color last winter, but it wasn't a raincoat, though they are trying to make one out of it."

"Another thing they say is the finger-prints in the room where the murder was committed. Of course there may be finger-prints made by myself and also Mr. Eastlake in that room. When I there several times, and couldn't these prints have been made at another time than the night of the murder?"

"Suppose there was a bloody finger-print," she was asked and she replied: "Well, Mr. Eastlake was in that room after the murder, and that could be it. He could still be innocent. Was it his house, and didn't he have occasion to go all over it. They could find hundreds of finger-prints of himself and several of me."

Hog Island $10,000 Hold-Up Confessed Faked By Paymaster

Implicates Assistant and Says Money Went to Cover $9,000 Embezzlement.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—By means of moving pictures in which every detail of the alleged hold-up was filmed, detectives yesterday wrung a confession from Andrew B. Detweiler, paymaster of the division operations of the United States shipping board, in which he admitted the story of how he was robbed of $10,000 by three armed and masked bandits on Tuesday was a frame-up.

Detweiler also confessed that he carried no money with him on his trip to Hog Island. The $10,000, he said, had been placed in a revolving fund in the shipping board offices at Eighth and Chestnut streets to cover embezzlements amounting to $9,000 which he and Frank W. Hoven, assistant paymaster, had been making for some time. Detweiler and Hoven are now under arrest charged with conspiracy and embezzlement.

The alleged hold-up was said by Detweiler to have taken place on the Port Mifflin road between Hog Island and Peacocks Ferry bridge. He told the police of a terrible struggle with the bandits when they put his automobile out of commission and robbed him of the payroll intended for the crews of eighty-four ships now in the wet basin at Hog Island.

The arrest of Detweiler and Hoven and the confession of the former was brought about by Detectives Clarke, Hanlon and Ryan and Edward A. Bryant, head of a private agency. Accompanied by Detweiler, the detectives, with Louis Snow, a moving picture operator, went to the scene of the supposed robbery yesterday. After the scenes had been shot the pictures were projected. Discrepancies in the story were clearly apparent, and under questioning by the detectives he broke down and confessed.

Hoven also confessed, according to the detectives, and said him and he and Detweiler began appropriating funds more than a year ago. Hoven told his questioners that he was originally detected by Detweiler taking small amounts and the latter joined him in the thefts when he told him how easy it was.

To back up his story of the hold-up, Detweiler informed the detectives that he broke three of the park plugs in his car and then drove the crippled machine of a lonely point on the Fort Mifflin road.

Both men, police say, confessed they were partners in a book-making venture with headwater known to them as "Gloucester."

Detweiler, in explaining the details of the hold-up, said he took money from Hoven, with him in a leather briefcase, and in accordance with instructions from Hoven, stopped for a brief time at Eighth and Chestnut streets, where a man, unknown to him, approached the car and said:

"Give me that case."

Detweiler says he handed it over and then proceeded to the scene of the "hold-up." Instead of taking the regular car supplied by the shipping board, Detweiler says he used his own machine.

Hoven, in his confession, says he began to "plunder" money from the shipping board more than a year ago. The amounts were between $100 and $140. The general fund for payroll purposes amounted to $50,000, he said. When the payroll was made up it was the custom to cover up the amount taken for that purpose with vouchers; and later reimburse.

The supposed robbery was first reported by Detweiler, who was accompanied by the many discrepancies in Detweiler's story. The moving picture scheme, used for the first time by the local department, was suggested by Detective Bryant, who had been called into the case by Capt. Sonder.

In the film drama, in which the suspected paymaster is said to have been an unwilling actor, he was compelled to enact every move reported by him in his story of the hold-up. The detectives took the part of the motor bandits.

Specialist Said ECZEMA Was Incurable —but he reckoned without Zam-Buk

Writing from Sweetwater, Tenn., U.S. Capt. Oscar V. Petty, says:—"For four years I had an obstinate dry eczema. My skin peeled off, and disfiguring eruptions appeared on my face and head. A well-known skin specialist said the eruption could not be cured, but friends advised me to try Zam-Buk. I was delighted, I soon saw an improvement. The peeling skin stopped within a week. At the time I started with Zam-Buk the eczema had spread all over my body, so that it took reasonable perseverance for the balm to be thoroughly effective. However I am delighted to inform you that now, by the use of Zam-Buk, my skin has been restored to normal healthy condition. I have a friend who also suffered from similar distressing skin affection. In his case too, within a few days Zam-Buk was acting splendidly. He tells me that Zam-Buk beats anything he has ever known."

Zam-Buk cannot be equalled for ulcers, blisters, burns, frost-bites, insect bites, wounds, and all sorts of skin diseases. It is the only skin medicine that is safe and sure. For trial sample, mention paper and send to: Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

COMMISSION FAVORS AN OPEN SHOP IN PANAMA

Recommends No Agreements With Employees and No Parleys With Unions.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Thorough re-organization of the administrative machinery in the Panama Canal Zone with radical changes in existing policies affecting employment of labor, physical operation of the canal and important subjects, is recommended in the preliminary report submitted to Secretary Weeks by the commission which recently investigated conditions in the Canal Zone at its request.

The commission estimates that an annual saving of $5,000,000 would result from adoption of its suggestions.

Chief among the recommendations is that the governor of the Canal Zone be directed "not to make agreement or understandings with the canal employees or any class thereof, for any period of time, but that the wages be periodically adjusted in accordance with the law, which bases the Canal wages on the pay of similar employees in the Government service in the United States," and that the Governor shall "not deal with labor organizations as organizations, but shall deal with committees of employees."

"It is further recommended," the report says, "that the open shop principle be actually put into effect on the isthmus, and that in all departments a substantial proportion of non-union men be employed."

Another recommendation is "that all agreements limiting the use of tropical labor be abrogated," and that the "canal administration shall hereafter retain complete freedom of action as to its policy in the employment of union, non-union or tropical labor."

Naval Base Opposed.

Asserting that it has failed to find anything to justify continued expenditure of canal funds to maintain a naval base at the canal, the report recommends that operation of various facilities for naval purposes "cease immediately and that hereafter the canal be operated entirely as a commercial agency, until Congress shall otherwise indicate."

Other recommendations include discontinuance of free housing, light, heat and other prerequisites given while employees on the canal at a cost of $550,000 a year to the Government; discontinuance of operation of the Panama Railroad for the purpose of the canal; and management of the railroad and steamship line of the Panama Railroad Company "as are similar commercial enterprises as far as possible."

The commission was headed by Brig. Gen. Connor, Assistant Chief of Staff, Capt. A. B. Fry, of the Treasury Department, F. A. Molitor, New York engineer, and H. P. Wilson, New York banker and business man.

Denounced by Gompers.

The report drew fire from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who described the labor recommendation as "nothing less than pro-unionism and affronting to the entire country." He said he had been given to understand that the report would be "suitably reworded."

"It is unthinkable," continued Mr. Gompers, "that a Government department should join forces with the most reactionary elements in our country to put into effect what the report calls the open shop."

"To displace Americans by tropical natives at a lower wage is to commit a breach of faith and to adopt a policy foreign to every concept of fairness."

HOOVER WANTS WORLD LINK FOR STEADY MONEY

Easier Credit Portends Better Trade, He Tells Export Men.

New York, Oct. 8.—Cheerfully optimistic was the commercial and industrial horoscope cast by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, in an address last night in the Waldorf-Astoria at the twelfth annual convention banquet of the American Manufacturers Export Association. He said:

"The picture as to the future is all dark. We of the Administration at Washington within the last thirty or forty days have seen the tide turn."

Discussing the necessity for the stabilization of exchange, the Secretary said:

"It should not be beyond the intelligence of the human race to secure such a solution of this matter as would result in some stabilization of the German mark. Better arrangements in this matter must take priority as we take to see stability in any of the European currencies."

"The great banks of issue are the guardians of stability in currencies. It would appear to me that these institutions—the Federal Reserve, the Bank of England, of France, of Amsterdam, of Italy, of Spain, etc.—could well consider that it is well within their province to concert some official plan leading to the re-establishment of most of this primary condition of economic life."

Much Accurate Data.

"I have considered that it was the duty of the Secretary of Commerce," said the speaker, "to establish such touch with the progress of commerce and industry as to be able accurately to state the progress of business in this country. The service now set up for this purpose in co-operation with the many trade institutions in the country have resulted in the flow of a large amount of accurate information into the department."

"An analysis of this data gives great encouragement as to the progress of our recovery from the greatest economic shock that we have undergone within the life of the present generation. There is no more profound index of progress through periods of depression than the credit situation. The first stage of depression is the period of intense credit strain. Two months ago we could safely say that our banking system would safely weather this period of strain without a panic. Thanks to the Federal Reserve system, for the first time in our history we have passed such a commodity crisis without a panic."

"We are today in the early spring time of recovery, for we have come into the period of easier credit. That is well marked by the rise in the price of bonds, the fall in Federal Reserve and interest rates generally."

Exporters in Production.

"There are many other evidences of recovery, for during this past two months there has been a very definite increase in the production of text, coal, iron, steel, boots and shoes, of building materials and building construction. There is in the construction industries even a larger activity than at this time last year. Our exports of foodstuffs have not only been increasing, but they are also larger in volume than that of a year ago, and this, indeed, without any forced measures of foreign Government credits."

"The boll weevil has not been entirely a curse and its services, together with the ample credits assured by the Government for the farmers, have lifted the price of the large carryover accumulated in the hands of Southern farmers, and in so doing it has lifted the buying power of the farmer South. I do not wish, however, to be understood to say we are on the threshold of any boom. We have a long way to go to get back to economic stability. We have yet to go through with much readjustment in price levels, but we are definitely on the road."

QUIET BUSINESS ALONG THE RIVER

Business along the river has a tendency to be quiet. Evidently the farmers are holding their potatoes for higher prices as the amount of potatoes being shipped at the present time is almost negligible, prices yesterday were around $2.50 per barrel. Pumpkins are selling at one cent a pound and squash at 1 1/2 cents. Very little hay is being shipped down river just now but it is far from being a scarce commodity in the upriver.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup." It has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottles. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

VIENNA GOES INTO PANIC AS CROWN FALLS

More Than 3,000 to Dollar Offered—Food Prices Jump on Buying.

Paris, Oct. 10.—A panic swept the Vienna Bourse with a fury that drove the crown to more than 3,000 to the dollar. The population, losing faith in the government and stricken with the fear that the country would be unable to keep up its food reserves, rushed to the stores to lay in supplies. Prices immediately jumped as goods disappeared from the market.

The latest information received here both from the New York Herald's Vienna correspondent and other sources indicate that the situation is more serious than the outside world imagined, and unless help comes very soon, the republic of Austria will be faced with a serious repudiation must be expected.

The anxiety of the people was temporarily calmed last week when Great Britain made a small credit advance following the League of Nations discussion, in which Arthur J. Balfour urged the Austrians to have patience and confidence in the future, although the reply of the Austrian delegates that patience would not buy food shadowed yesterday's panic.

With securities and foreign currencies mounting high, the problem is again up to America, according to the view of leading Vienna financiers and government officials, one of whom yesterday resigned himself to the worst and declared: "We are going to the dogs. If there is not a speedy change anything may happen."

The Neue Wiener Journal publishes an urgent appeal to the American commission asking why Washington is waiting so long to suspend the Hen on Austria, which has already been waived by other nations, and asking that the American people be told openly of their unbecomingly cruel, as Austria is now standing with a knife at her throat and does not know where to turn for aid.

Many American investors here who have been buying crowns at the rate of 10,000 for 100 francs are alarmed and are throwing their influence at Washington into the balance not only because further drops are foreseen, with the possibility of Austria's total repudiation of her bank notes, but also because the report is current that the Paris Bourse and the Vienna government are contemplating seriously stamping all issues to 60 per cent of their face value in the hope of getting sufficient receipts to tide over the winter purchases.

German Materials Will Flood France

Pact Calls for 7,000,000,000 Gold Marks' Worth for Devastated Regions.

Wiesbaden, Oct. 10.—Louis Loucheur, French Minister of the Liberated Regions, and Dr. Walter Rathenau, German Minister of Reconstruction, this evening signed the protocol on which they have been working for more than three months, whereby Germany is to furnish France with 7,000,000,000 gold marks, worth of building material for the devastated regions, a clause of dyestuffs, coal, benzol and chemical products before 1925. The agreement must be ratified by the German Reichstag and the French Chamber of Deputies.

The signing of a separate accord in the face of a British protest to the Reparations Commission is to be continued, and unless help comes very soon, the republic of Austria will be faced with a serious repudiation must be expected.

The anxiety of the people was temporarily calmed last week when Great Britain made a small credit advance following the League of Nations discussion, in which Arthur J. Balfour urged the Austrians to have patience and confidence in the future, although the reply of the Austrian delegates that patience would not buy food shadowed yesterday's panic.

CHURCHILL IS REBUKED BY LLOYD GEORGE

Premier Takes Him to Task for Suggesting Cancellation of Debt.

London, Oct. 10.—Although Mr. Lloyd George returned to London last night after a long absence, he has conferred with members of the Cabinet on the forthcoming Washington conference on the elimination of armaments and Far Eastern questions, the unemployment conditions in the British Empire, and perhaps the most important development is that Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has been more or less severely rebuked in official circles for his Dundee speech recently in which he suggested the cancellation of the allied war debts. With Mr. Churchill's reputation as a statesman, and his position of the Government was that under no circumstances would the slight hint of Great Britain's desire to be relieved of her indebtedness to the United States be made either in Washington or elsewhere.

Officially it was stated that this agitation for a cancellation of war debts comes from banking circles exclusively, and that the Government would under no circumstances risk a repetition of the rebuff it received when Austen Chamberlain, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, made the same kind of a suggestion to President Wilson's cabinet.

The bulk of British traders and workers are beginning to see painfully that the disparity in exchange is crippling British trade and might welcome a cancellation of debts which hitherto have only been paper entries in Great Britain's books and in connection with which there has been no sign of coming payment of interest or principal. However, while Great Britain has not paid any interest to the United States, according to the agreement she is preparing to take up this burden when it is due next year, and meanwhile she is determined to meet all her present and future maturities in the United States.

Officially it was stated that it is held, they are content to wait for cancellation of these debts until the American trader and farmer feel the bite, when it is no longer possible for him to sell his produce in Europe. If Russia, or even Rumania, has a successful crop year, next summer there will be no need of Europe buying American wheat, it is declared here.

Pending this state of affairs the only reason against a cancellation of the Continental debts to Great Britain is because these debts have proved a ready valuable diplomatic lever in certain cases and one which the British Foreign Office is loath to abandon.

Law And Order In North Country On High Plane

Edmonton, Oct. 10.—Law and order in the north country is on a high plane and not in one instance has it been necessary to prosecute any person who has entered under the clearance certificate, states Major G. L. Jennings, superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who recently returned here after an inspection trip to all the police detachments in the far north. Major Jennings' tour occupied three months during which he travelled more than 4,000 miles and visited as far north as Herschel Island. The residents of the great stretches of territory lying between Edmonton and the Arctic have the great respect for British justice and the orderly traditions of the British race, he said, and the general conditions could not be more satisfactory.

The major was present at the trial of the Slave Indian Lebeaux, who has been sentenced to death on a charge of murder. The trial, with all the impressiveness of a court of British justice, was an eye-opener to the natives. Major Jennings says, and the Indians from now on have a greater respect for British law than ever before.
