New York, Feb. 21.—Despondency over the death of his wife a year ago was believed to have caused the suicide yesterday of John C. Loges of 262 Berkeley avenue, Bloomfield, a partner in the Loges-Wiener Printing Company of Newark. He hanged himself from a steampipe in the factory. Loges' body was found by his partner, Leo Wiener of 1,121 Broad street. He was 37 years old. Loges' two children, Harold, 11, and Helen, 9, were heard crying last night by John Fitzsimmons, who lives in the apartment above. Fitzsimmons went apartment above. apartment above.
