

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N.S., NOV. 24, 1916.

Editorial Brevities.

Over a week of sleighing, with the temperature at times approaching zero, is something that ought to make those who boast of the old-fashioned winters manifest a little interest. It's a new experience to those of the present generation.

It is stated arrangements are being made by the Dominion authorities with the Provincial Government whereby the Dominion will build a sixty-bed addition to the Provincial Sanitarium at Kentville to be used for housing and treatment of Canadian soldiers returning from the front in the earlier stages of tuberculosis.

There has been considerable speculation as to whom would succeed the late Lieut. Governor Mackenzie. A number of the counties of the province have made nominations. The Kentville Advertiser suggests Mr. Barclay Webster of that town, an eminent public official.

A Word of Appreciation.

The committee appointed to solicit subscriptions in the town of Wolfville for the Patriotic Fund are pleased to report that the amount allotted to Wolfville, $1500.00, has been subscribed. With few exceptions the public has responded most generously to this very worthy cause.

Blue Cross Work.

I beg to acknowledge the money sent to me from Wolfville and Windsor for our suffering horses at the front. The Blue Cross tries to help the horses in much the same way as the Red Cross does the men.

Many beautiful articles were sent to me to be forwarded to London where a Xmas Fair is to be held at the Royal Albert Hall, Nov. 27th and 28th, to raise funds for the Blue Cross.

Mrs. A. B. Tremaine collected in Windsor a pair of lovely moccasins that formerly belonged to an Indian Chief, embroidered blouse case, Indian tie rack, card case, crocheted dollies, sweet-grass handkerchief box, Indian toy for moccasins.

From Wolfville I received four work-bags, theatre bag, powder case, knitting bag, crocheted case, embroidered baby jacket, vanity bag, half dozen handkerchiefs, tatted lace handkerchief, half dozen knitted face cloths, knitted lace yoke, knitted needle shields, 2 knitted dollies, breakfast cap, sewing apron, charming dish apron, knitted baby jacket, 2 guest towels, lace dolly and many other things kindly collected by Miss Marguerite deWitt.

Everything that was forwarded from N. S. and N. B. to London was beautiful and should make the Canadian stall very attractive.

My grateful thanks to everyone that contributed to Mrs. A. Tremaine and to Miss deWitt for their great help in collecting and to the editor of this paper for free press notices.

Will you give the Blue Cross your support and help it to continue its merciful work on behalf of the suffering horses for the duration of the war?

With quivering limbs and silky ears laid back, she feels a shock, success—a sharper crack—And, whimpering her pitiful surprise, Staggered and falls, and in vain tries to rise.

Alone, forsaken, on a foreign field—What moral does this little record yield? Who tends the wounded horse in the war? Well, that is what the Blue Cross League is for.

Mrs. RONALD WHITEWAY, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer for N. S. and N. B. Bridgetown, N. S.

An Interesting Wedding.

RUDOLPH—LOCKHART. A quiet but interesting event occurred Friday evening, Nov. 17th, when the marriage of Miss Jennie Marie Lockhart, of Avonport, to J. Edward Rudolph, of H. M. C. B. Margaret, was solemnized in the Methodist parsonage, Dresden Row, by Rev. A. S. Rogers.

The bride was unusually attractive, gowned in a tailored suit of patty-colored, worsted with white trimming, and picture hat of white velour. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Dunkles, Tower road, (Mrs. Dunkles being a sister of the groom), where a dainty luncheon was served.

A Change of Front.

The German Chancellor has declared the willingness of Germany to enter a world union for compelling peace. This is a complete change of front. When the German war-lords believed they could impose their wishes upon the world by force of arms, they had no use whatever for peace compelling leagues. They scorned all suggestions of disarmament. They even a halt in the armament program. They were determined to dominate the world, and peace was to be for the rest of the nations the peace of submission.

Having now discovered that they cannot dominate the world, and that they are daily getting nearer to defeat, they discover that they really do not want Belgium, and that a league of nations to compel peace is desirable.

It is to be regretted that the Chancellor has not yet reached that frame of mind which would compel him to tell the truth about the cause of the present war, but that is perhaps too much to expect. It has cost the world millions of lives to convince Germany that she should not have brought on this war, and if a league of peace is ever formed the signatories will have full knowledge of the fact that Germany respects a treaty or a pledge only so long as it may seem to be to her interest to do so.

Liquid Fire as a Weapon.

'Liquid fire as a weapon' forms the theme of an interesting article in the 'War Budget.' The diabolical contrivance is thus described:—

In the earliest models the combustible liquid was propelled by a gas-condenser out of a portable or fixed reservoir, and was ignited by some automatic device as it escaped from the nozzle of the projecting instrument.

Later a double-barrelled liquid-gun was devised, having the upper barrel much smaller than the lower, and pivoted so as to turn independently. The fluid is shot from the two barrels simultaneously, but only that from the upper one ignites automatically.

This small, burning stream is so directed that it unites with the larger, non-burning one at any desired point, and then, of course, ignites the larger jet. The small stream is then shut off, the larger one continuing to flow.

Twelve Great Serials in 1917.

Some of these are story-groups like those inimitable stories of pioneer life in the New Brunswick wilderness in which Theodore Roberts shows himself a master. There will be serials for girls, serials for boys, serials that hold the rapt attention of all readers of either sex and all ages.

New subscribers for 1917 who send $2.25 now will receive all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1916 free, also The Companion Home Calendar for 1917.

Our other includes: 1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1917. 2. All remaining November and December issues of The Companion free. 3. The Companion Home Calendar for 1917.

Wedded In St. John.

In the presence of immediate relatives, Miss Emma Murray Rankine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Rankine, 210 Germain St., St. John, N. B., and Reginald Henry Chipman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Chipman, Grand Pre, N. S., were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon of last week at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. F. S. Dowling, pastor of St. Andrew's church.

The bride, who was unstudded, wore a travelling suit of brown Bolivia, trimmed with moleskin fur, with hat to match, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The house decorations were of white roses, palms and white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony refreshments being served, the table decorations being lilies of the valley and roses. Mr. and Mrs. Chipman left in the evening and Mrs. Chipman left for New York on a honeymoon trip to New York and on their return will reside at 210 Germain St. The bride was the recipient of a large number of beautiful and appropriate presents.

Hazard Bligh, B. Q., a native of this county and known throughout the province as a business man of the city of Halifax, died at the Halifax Infirmary on Sunday morning last. He will be much missed in business circles and will be sincerely mourned by very many friends.

The Fur Trade.

MILLIONS WILL BE PAID TO TRAPPERS AND FOR SHIPPERS THIS WINTER. Furs are extremely fashionable and a woman's wardrobe is not complete without one or more sets of furs. Even in mild climates, there are larger quantities of fur overcoats being sold to gentlemen.

The present prices of American raw furs as compared with the prices of a few years ago, make pleasant reading for the old trapper and fur collector, but to the tenderfoot in the Fur Game it seems like an impossible story and if the 'old timers' didn't know the facts to be true, they would say 'Till it to the marines.' Says Mr. A. B. Shubert, President of A. B. SHUBERT, INC., Chicago, U. S. A., the largest House in the world dealing exclusively in American Raw Furs.

Why it was only a few years ago that one could buy all the Musk-rats in Eastern Canada at 6c. apiece, and they sold as low as 4c. Winters are spring collections last season brought 40c to 50c. The entire collection of Northwestern Skunk could be bought at $1.00 to $1.50 for a large prime Buck. Now they sell at $3.00 to $6.00. The best Lynx sold at C. M. Lompton & Co.'s sale in London, Eng. and at $3.50. Last season $2.00 to $3.00 was paid for them. Marten that are now worth $6.00 sold for $2.00. The best dark Poser that North America ever produced could be bought for $10.00 for last season $5.00 was paid for the dark skins. The best collection of Red Fox was sold for $2.00 average today the same collection of Red Fox would bring $8.00 to $10.00.

White Weasel we paid nothing for because there was no market for them. Today they bring 75c. to $1.00. One could buy the best of the 6th produced at $5.00 to $6.00. Today we pay $20.00 to $30.00 inland caught skins. Would you think it possible to buy the best Silver Fox that was ever trapped for $5.00? That was the price. It takes a small fortune to buy it now. The cause of this tremendous advance in the value of North American Raw Furs is the keen competition created by the well known Circular House. One would think that this so derelict advance in value would drive the consumer of furs out of the market and prohibit the sale of manufactured goods, but with North American furs and furs so extremely fashionable, it will be some time before we will see lower prices and during this winter many fur-wearers will bring advanced prices over last season.
