

HOWIE

By Glasbergen

"Grandma was just starting to eat her turkey when the cheerleaders came on TV in their new outfits."

TODAY'S WORLD

"In all fairness, Mrs. Oglethorpe, I really ought to hear your husband's side of it, too."

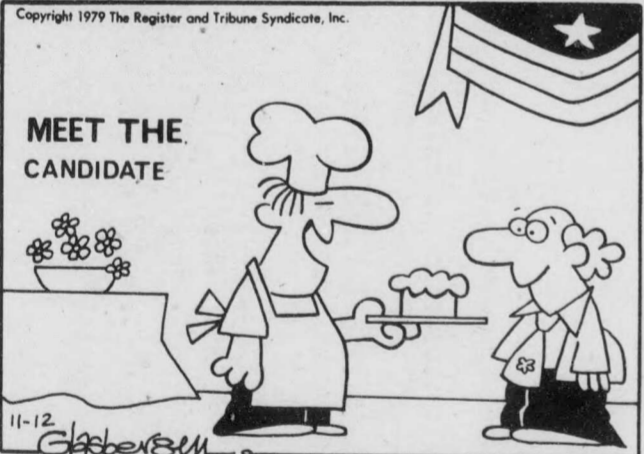

TODAY'S WORLD

"Seven dollars! How do you expect people to make a living?"

HOWIE

By Glasbergen

"Since it's a political dinner I thought a souffle would be appropriate — it's 90 percent hot air."

TODAY'S WORLD

"I can't think of the brand name, but it's the one that has that disgusting TV commercial."

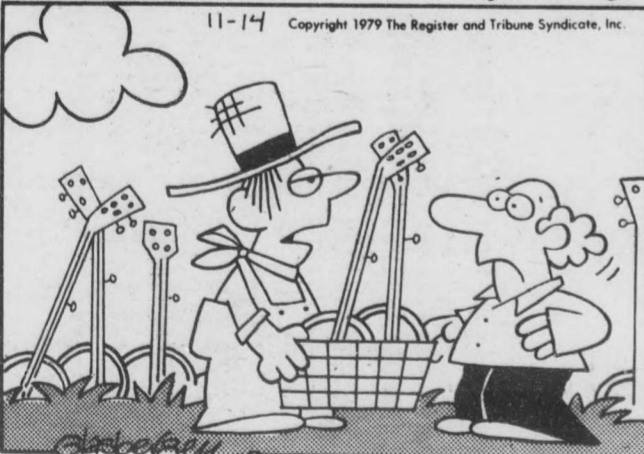

TODAY'S WORLD

"That's the way it is, Pierre. They make it into paper that ends up in the garbage after it's used. Try not to think about it."

HOWIE

By Glasbergen

"Whatsa matter — you never seen a banjo picker before?"

Here are three new comic strips that we will use to replace the BYRDS if our campaign to save them does not work. Check which one (or more) that you prefer. Thank you. Send them to Mike MacKinnon, the Brunswickan, Room 35, SUB

- HOWIE —
- TODAY'S WORLD —
- GRAFFITI —