

foremost picture collection.

B. Provincial Archives

Like the Public Archives of Canada most provincial archives are not in the business of producing microforms on a commercial basis. Like the P.A.C., however, many provincial archives have done considerable microforming of their holdings and would sell copies of their microforms if approached by an institution. There are no catalogues or price lists produced, but costs would normally reflect reproduction charges only. The material microformed by provincial archives varies but would largely be manuscript collections or collections of similar primary materials.